LEGISLATURE OPENING SET FOR JANUARY 24

The B.C. legislature sits again Jan. 24.

The date was proclaimed through a cabinet order today.

The session will start at 3 p.m. on a Thursday with the traditional Speech from the Throne read by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes.

This will be the fourth sitting of the 26th Legislative Assembly elected Sept. 12, 1960.

Premier Bennett's budget will probably be delivered Feb. 7, two weeks after opening day.

Space Shot To Mars On Target

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Russian rocket today was hurtling through space on a 35,000,000-mile mission to Mars aimed at giving man his first close-up look at the mysterious "red planet."

Moscow radio said all systems aboard the Mars probe, which was launched Thursday from a satellite "parked" in orbit around the earth, were functioning according to plan.

Soviet scientists said the rocket now is more than 150,000 miles on its long journey through space, which will take seven months.

N. M. Sissakian, a member of the presidium of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said in Paris Thursday night that the Mars probe may return to land on earth if it does not burn up first.

Moscow radio said that "at 6:33 a.m. (Moscow time) communications were opened with interplanetary station Mars I. Data was received from the station about the normal functioning of all its systems, and the element of its trajectory was measured.

"Telemetry data shows that the scientific equipment of the station is functioning in accordance with the set program."

The radio said the rocket's radio transmitters were working and "the orders sent to the station were well received and obeyed."

The rocket is equipped with solar batteries which pick up power from the sun and recharge its conventional batteries.

There will be no further report on the rocket until Sunday night, the radio said.

If everything goes according to plan, the rocket will relay back to earth the first close-up pictures of Mars, earth's nearest planetary neighbor.

Apologizes To Speaker

OTTAWA (CP) — Social Crediter Bernard Dumont apologized in the Commons today to Speaker Marcel Lambert for his criticisms of the Speaker in a letter published in Montreal Le Devoir.

It appeared likely that Mr. Dumont's public apology today would soften any action taken by the committee on privileges, which has wide powers of recommending disciplinary action. (See story page 2.)

FIRST OUTING IN MONTHS

Battery of cameras greeted Sir Winston Churchill on arrival Thursday night at Savoy Hotel in London to attend annual dinner of exclusive "Other Club" which he founded 51 years ago. Sir Winston wined and dined with old cronies until near midnight. It was his first public outing since last June 28 when he broke his hip. (AP Wirephoto).

Arms Airlift by Allies Aids Indian Firepower

(Times News Services)

NEW DELHI — A U.S. arms airlift got under way from West Germany today to give India's hard-pressed Himalayan army better weapons to use against Communist China.

The first of 10 U.S. Air Force C-135 jet transports took off from Rhein-Main air base near Frankfurt and was due in Calcutta Saturday.

A round-the-clock airlift was being planned, and relief crews were flown to Calcutta to bring the big planes back to Germany for reloading.

The airlift is bringing light infantry weapons needed to counter the Communists' superior firepower.

Small arms from Britain also are due to arrive shortly.

U.S. ambassador John K. Gailbraith announced that the Turkish government has offered India mountain howitzers and American aircraft were in Turkey to pick them up.

GALBRAITH
. . . won't 'work magic'

Galbraith warned the Indians against expecting American arms alone to "work magic" against the Chinese in the fighting along the long China-Himalayan border.

"The great task remains with the Indian army," he declared. "We are happy to help with equipment to stop aggression but equipment is only part of the problem."

Galbraith, who was born near St. Thomas, Ont., told a press conference American instructors would not be coming to demonstrate the weapons which he described as "standard stuff."

Asked if American soldiers would go to the frontier to supervise delivery of the weapons, he said: "I would not think so immediately."

TROOPS DIG IN

Despite the outside aid, the Indians appear to be digging in for a long period of conflict.

Informed sources said strict government control of gasoline stocks will be introduced soon although there is no question of rationing so far.

Extra food stocks are being established to avoid any danger of hoarding and soaring prices that might lead to rationing.

Prime Minister Nehru said Thursday night that India will not compromise its honor in the search for a solution to the border crisis.

Meanwhile, an Indian Embassy spokesman in Moscow said Soviet deliveries of arms to India are continuing at a normal rate.

A high Soviet military source said Monday Moscow supports Red China's territorial claims and declared the Soviet Union would send no arms to the Indians.

WARMTH MARKS WELCOME TO DOUGLAS IN HOUSE

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—After an absence of 18 years, Tommy Douglas came back to parliament today. The New Democratic Party leader was greeted by his opponents with a warmth usually reserved for returning heroes.

In an astonishing display of goodwill, political animosities in the Commons were suspended for 15 minutes as other party leaders took the time to express their admiration for a worthy foe.

Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson summed up the mood when he said in his words of welcome: "It is a non-controversial matter."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker noted that Douglas had been an MP for five years when he, the prime minister, first was elected to parliament in 1940.

DOUGLAS

"Since that time he has occupied the office of premier of Saskatchewan," Diefenbaker continued with a smile, "and indeed his length of service in that capacity gave some of us some idea of the meaning of eternity."

In the days ahead, the prime minister said, in more serious tone, "we shall look forward to the contribution he will make."

Pearson said he was sure Douglas would make the House a "more lively and more stimulating" place.

Social Credit leader Robert Thompson, while expressing his confidence that Douglas would have a "very definite and positive contribution to make" to parliament, did manage to get in some good-natured digs at NDP socialism.

Douglas, he said with a chuckle, would find his party's policies "a long way afield from the Regina manifesto."

He also said, again smiling, that if the Douglas government had done a better job in Saskatchewan there might be fewer Conservatives in parliament.

MIKOYAN:

Russia Backs Castro

NEW YORK (AP) — Anastas I. Mikoyan, Soviet first deputy premier, said today that Russia is backing proposals of Cuban Premier Castro in the attempt to settle the crisis over missile installations in Cuba.

In a statement, Mikoyan referred to "the proposals of Premier Fidel Castro which comprise five well-known points."

Mikoyan did not cite the points. However, Castro has demanded that the United States withdraw its naval blockade of Cuba, give up the naval base at Guantanamo and halt Cuban exile attacks against Cuba.

Castro also called for a halt to economic measures the United States has taken against Cuba and air-sea intrusions into Cuban territory.

ON WAY TO CUBA

Mikoyan issued his statement before boarding a plane to Cuba for talks with Castro.

Mikoyan also said:

"The revolutionary government of Cuba is enjoying complete confidence of their people. It threatens no one. It leads the people toward progress and happiness, building socialism, the social system which was chosen by the people of Cuba and which they consider the best for themselves."

Mikoyan criticized the American press' treatment of his visit, saying:

"I have heard that American press and radio and in particular the today's newspapers venture absolutely groundless guesses and fantasies about the purpose of my visit to Cuba."

He did not amplify these remarks. There have been published reports that the purpose of his trip was to soothe Castro.

Advised By Kremlin?

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow radio today ignored Prime Minister Fidel Castro's declaration that foreign inspectors will not be allowed on Cuban soil to check on the removal of Soviet missiles.

A broadcast merely reported that Castro made a lengthy speech giving his government's position on the crisis in the Caribbean.

Some diplomatic observers in Moscow were speculating that the Kremlin may have secretly ordered Castro to be balky until after Soviet missiles have been safely put on ships headed for Soviet ports. They cited the Russian's longstanding refusal to admit foreign disarmament inspectors to Soviet soil.

K Letter Story 'Inaccurate'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House described as wholly inaccurate today a newspaper story calling Soviet Premier Khrushchev's unpublished letter to President Kennedy last Friday the work of an agitated, overwrought man.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said in a statement that no one who read the Oct. 26 letter when it was received or has read it since has interpreted it in that fashion.

The story, carried by the New York Herald Tribune, said at one point:

"Premier Khrushchev's unpublished letter of last Friday night to President Kennedy is regarded here as one of the most astonishing notes ever penned by a head of state—a product of a man in a high state of agitation, overwrought by the prospect of atomic war."

Salinger said "the Oct. 26 letter formed the basis for the president's answer of Oct. 27 in which he wrote that he welcomed Chairman Khrushchev's 'desire to seek a prompt solution to the problem'."

Administration informants said that in their view the Khrushchev letter was a typical, catch-all message of the kind Khrushchev has sent to western leaders over the last decade.

With Kennedy, Khrushchev took the line that the two of them were reasonable men fully aware of the devastating effects of nuclear weapons and the dangers which the world faced.

'China Hopes Russia Will Lose'

MUNICH (AP)—Mao Tse-tung hopes the Russian people will one day rise against Premier Khrushchev, says a former Communist Chinese official who defected to the West.

Chao Fu, 27, former security officer of the Red Chinese legation in Stockholm who defected last August, said Mao hopes the Russian people will recognize Khrushchev's anti-Stalinism as anti-Communist.

The Chinese leader said recently "whoever is against Stalin is against Mao," Fu reported.

Mao also hopes that the Russians will suffer a defeat in a conflict with capitalist nations, thus leaving the way free for China to take over as leader of world communism, Fu said.

Castro Still Firm —No Observers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States reported clear indications today that Soviet missile bases in Cuba are being dismantled.

A defence department spokesman told reporters that the pictures show that missile launcher erectors have been removed from the sites.

Much of the associated launch equipment has been removed, the spokesman said, and cable conduits between control points and launching pads have been broken up.

The concrete pads for the launch erectors appear to have been broken up with an air hammer.

SITES BULLDOZED

Certain areas of the sites have been plowed and bulldozed, the spokesman said.

Aerial reconnaissance over the island was resumed Thursday after a two-day recess for the visit of U Thant, acting secretary-general of the United Nations, in efforts to arrange for UN inspection of the dismantling promised by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Fidel Castro Thursday night rejected foreign supervision of the dismantling of the bases and again called for the United States to give up its naval base at Guantanamo.

The Cuban prime minister said "strategic arms," presumably the missiles, are being removed by the Russians from Cuba, "but the rest of the weapons stay in our country."

Castro addressed a radio-television audience.

He acknowledged that "we have some motive for discontent" with Russia. But he reminded his people of all the Russians had done for them and asserted, "we are friends of the Soviet Union."

WOULD HUMILIATE CUBA

Castro said UN inspection of Cuban soil would be "one more attempt to humiliate our country" and would violate Cuban sovereignty.

Sources at UN headquarters in New York felt Castro either would soften his stand or would announce the Soviet Union had completed dismantling its bases and UN inspection therefore no longer was necessary.

U Thant, acting UN secretary-general, said after his conferences Tuesday and Wednesday with Castro that he had been informed the dismantling would be completed by today.

STOP U-2 FLIGHTS

Authoritative U.S. sources disclosed Thursday night that high altitude U-2 flights over Cuba have been halted after the loss of a U-2 and the watch is being kept through low-level photographic missions.

These government sources stressed there has been no scaling down in the degree of aerial surveillance.

Low-flying reconnaissance planes—coming in swiftly below radar—are considered less vulnerable than the U-2s, which go into a slow glide when they are taking pictures.

Officials are virtually cer-

RED CROSS INSPECTION FOR SHIPS?

UNITED NATIONS (AP) —The United States was reported today to be considering a Soviet proposal to allow the International Red Cross to inspect Cuba-bound ships to verify that they are not bearing military weapons.

The existence of this proposal was confirmed Thursday night by Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, who disclosed that Acting Secretary-General U Thant had mentioned it during their Havana talks.

Another possibility under consideration, it was understood, was for Red Cross inspection of Soviet ships bound homeward from Cuba. This would provide verification that at least some missiles were being removed.

U.S. sources said today the proposals were under consideration in Washington. Details were not spelled out, but the proposed inspection of Cuba-bound vessels by the Red Cross apparently was intended as a measure to modify the U.S. naval arms quarantine.

U.S. to Clear Canadian Shipping

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian co-operation in a new United States plan of advanced inspection and clearance of Cuba-bound ships was announced today by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

He told the Commons that Canada has agreed that the plan can be made available in Canadian ports.

There is no question of compulsory inspection of ships in Canadian waters, he added.

The advance inspection and clearance by U.S. consular officials, at the request of ship agents or officers, would be a convenience to avoid possible delay from search by U.S. warships enforcing the "quarantine" of missile shipments to Cuba.

The advance and inspection would be made at the ship's last port of call before sailing to Cuba.

POLITICAL DISPUTE IN U.S.

When Were Cuba Bases Started?

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Controversy swirls today around the question: Was President Kennedy slow to recognize that the Russians were molding Cuba into a powerful nuclear gun aimed at the United States?

Republicans say he was.

"Those missile bases were there a long, long time before the president spoke," says Senator Hugh Scott, Pennsylvania Republican, referring to Kennedy's statement of Oct. 22, when he proclaimed the "quarantine" on arms to Cuba.

In mid-September, Scott said, the Republicans had "very hard information" about Soviet missile sites in Cuba. The same facts were available to the administration, he says.

Before that, on Sept. 8, Senator Kenneth B. Keating, New York Republican, said he thought a blockade of Cuba to screen ships for incoming war material might be necessary.

INVESTIGATED REPORTS

This is what Kennedy administration authorities say in reply:

"In late August, we began receiving reports from Cuban refugees and other sources of missile sites being built in Cuba. We think this is the same information Keating was getting.

"Every one of those reports was carefully checked.

"And in every case, they turned out to be reports of "samsites or 'cruise sites.'"

"Samsite" is military shorthand for "surface-to-air missile site." In other words, a form of anti-aircraft. "Cruise site" is a type of coastal defence. Neither has the range to reach the U.S. Technically, they could be considered in the category of defence weapons.

It was not until the week of Oct. 15, when reconnaissance spotted definite evidence of a rapid buildup that, figuratively, the alarm-bell rang, administration officers say.

Officials stress the speed of the Russian construction work—sometimes almost with grudging admiration.

A man who participated in all the decision-making conferences says "only four or five days" elapsed between evidence of the first bulldozer scars and the rise of installations that serve a missile site.

Thursday, Oct. 18, is a criti-

LONDON—The Luton Girls' Choir from north of London won't sing the word "bellies" when they perform before Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip tonight.

The first rumblings about the word came during rehearsal.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Davis, wife of the conductor, said at the end of the song, "That Was a Real Nice Clambake" from "Carousel":

"Oh, you naughty girls. That can't be the real word."

The line goes:

"Our hearts are warm, our bellies are full."

"I don't think it's the word for nice young ladies to use—especially in front of the Queen," said Mrs. Davis. "I was very surprised to find out it was the real word."

Arthur Davies, founder-conductor of the choir, had an explanation.

"I had decided to change the words before my wife spoke to me about it," he said.

"It's possible the word might give offence. With anything even slightly suggestive of crudeness, I've got to be very careful. My girls are of all ages, you know, and some of their parents may object."

For the Queen the girls will sing:

"Our hearts are warm, and we are full."

BARRIE — A student rebellion against standing and singing God Save the Queen ended Thursday in the face of threatened suspension.

North Collegiate students were told by principal E. C. Brydges Wednesday that they would be suspended for a minimum of two weeks if they again refused to stand during the regular morning playing of the song.

A spokesman for the more than 50 students who rebelled Tuesday and again Wednesday said in a statement that, "confronted with the ultimatum of stand up or be suspended," they decided to stand.

One student said: "The protest is not against singing God Save the Queen, nor standing while it is played, but rather against calling it the national anthem."

LONDON — The central electricity generating board thought it had all the loopholes plugged when it laid out plans for a booster station on the banks of the River Severn near Gloucester.

The board hadn't reckoned with the common bladderwort. Likely it hadn't even heard of it. Few people have.

But three powerful naturalists' groups are fighting for the survival of an acre of common bladderwort growing in the middle of the electricity board's site.

The naturalists explain the bladderwort is far from common despite its name. It is an extremely rare pond herb with pretty yellow flowers and a bunch of little bladders nestling under its leaves.

The bladders have a form of door at one end. This, says the naturalists, "allows water insects to enter but prevents their exit." In plain words the bladderwort devours insects with relish.

The naturalists also are defending a pair of rare marsh warbler birds nesting near the centre of the bladderwort.

KANSAS CITY — The estranged parents of two children, abandoned here last Sunday, reclaimed their youngsters today and announced their reconciliation.

The family reunion of Clifford Drafahl, 25, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; his wife, Judith, 23, and Mike, four, and Lisa, three, came after a series of events climaxed when the children were left at a private home here last Sunday without any clues to their identity.

Both parents appeared before Judge Henry Riederer in a juvenile court custody hearing. Mrs. Drafahl said she and her husband are reconciled.

"I think I have learned my lesson," she said.

"I want to get my kids and take them all home," Drafahl told the judge, who wished the couple good luck.

The two youngsters were left last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Parisse, parents of 12 children.

cal point in the story. After some 72 hours of intensive conferences, new reconnaissance evidence from Cuba and continual briefings based on it, the president was close to making his decision—an arms blockade on Cuba.

On that same day, he met in the White House with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko. Most of their conversation was about Berlin. Then Kennedy came around to Cuba.

He suddenly rose from his rocking chair, walked out of his office, and returned with copies of his statement in September on Cuba. He read it to Gromyko. On Sept. 13, he had said:

"But let me make this clear once again. If at any time the Communist buildup in Cuba were to endanger or interfere with our security in any way . . . or become an offensive military base of significant capacity for the Soviet Union, then this country will do whatever must be done to protect its own security and that of its allies."

Gromyko repeated assurances that Soviet actions in Cuba were solely for "the purpose of contributing to the defence capabilities of Cuba."

TALKS CONTINUED

Meanwhile, the conferences designed to hammer out a course of action were going on, full blast.

There were various military alternatives; a sudden air strike, invasion, a blockade. Each had its proponents.

The quick air strike, some felt, would destroy the sites in a few minutes. Should it be preceded by a warning to the Russians and other workers to get well away from the regions to come under attack?

"I'll put it this way," says a participant in the discussions. "The president never let the argument get away from the fact that that isn't the way the U.S. operates. Our traditions and morals would preclude a miniature Pearl Harbor in Cuba."

Those in the conferences recognized, however, that the blockade would only stop the inflow of weapons. It would not by itself dismantle the missile sites.

"So if the quarantine didn't work, there was always the possibility of taking a secondary course of action," an authority says.

Kennedy came into the talks only when the conferees had reached virtual agreement on some specific points.

By Saturday, Oct. 20, he was able to say:

"All right, we'll go with the blockade. But I want to have another talk in the morning."

ternational space symposium, said the rocket will look for "interesting details about the possibility of life" on Mars—a question that has intrigued astronomers for centuries.

The probe may possibly solve the mystery of the true nature of the Martian "canals," the lines which criss-cross the surface of the planet, he said.

Since Mars never comes closer than 35,000,000 miles to earth, cameras never have been able to take a close enough look at the canals to tell whether they are channels caused by melting ice-caps at the planet's poles, cracks caused by earthquakes, or—the possibility that intrigues science fiction fans—something deliberately constructed by some form of intelligent life.

FIRST TRY FOR MARS

The Soviet spacecraft is the first attempt to send a space probe to Mars.

Soviet astronomer Nikolai Barabashov said today the existance of organic life on Mars "has been sufficiently well proved."

In an article in Pravda, quoted by the Soviet news agency Tass, Barabashov said that if the seas on Mars were not full of vegetation the yellow dust of the deserts would have quickly filled them in and acquired the same color and brightness of the continents.

Barabashov, a member of the Ukrainian Academy of Sciences, said robot ships sent to Mars "would be of inestimable value in determining all the features of the planet's surface and atmosphere."

First Russian reports of the Mars probe gave only the weight of the automatic interplanetary station—about 1,970 pounds—aboard the rocket but did not mention the over-all weight of the satellite-rocket "pacaage" sent into space.

Nor was there a mention of the speed of the rocket or of its detailed scientific tasks—aside from its general functions.

Mortgages on Sale

OTTAWA (CP)—The public works department said today that Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation has been authorized to offer National Housing Act mortgages for sale to investors "within the next three or four days."

POLITICS HUM IN OLD-STYLE QUEBEC DEBATE

CHEVRIER
'. . . Socreds nihilists'

OTTAWA (CP)—Quebec federal leaders of the Liberal and Social Credit parties traded angry charges from the same platform Thursday night, with 400 university students jeering and cheering like a football crowd.

Bringing about 20 Quebec MPs with them, Lionel Chevrier and Real Caouette clashed in a gloves-off "assemblee contradictoire" (contradictory meeting) sponsored by the University of Ottawa.

Such debates were common in old-time Quebec politics.

Mr. Chevrier, co-chairman of the Liberal campaign committee and MP for Montreal Laurier, assailed Social Credit leaders for "deceiving" Quebec voters last June with promises of a cure-all.

"They have a nihilist philosophy. They are against everything. They are against labor unions, nationalization, planning, Crown corporations, Jews, democracy and the established order.

"But they are in favor of Social Credit."

Balance of Power Defended

Mr. Caouette, deputy Social Credit leader, said his group holds the balance of power in Parliament and is using it to good advantage. This brought thunderous boos from the students.

"With the balance of power, we are obtaining more than the Liberals did in five years of talk," he continued through the jeers.

"What makes the Liberals angry is that we are more important than they are now in the House."

Mr. Chevrier read a translation of an article in a Polish-language Toronto newspaper quoting Mr. Caouette as saying that Nazi Germany exterminated "only useless Jews."

Mr. Caouette denied having ever said anything to that effect. He said he could not remember being interviewed by W. H. Makuch, Noranda, Que., who signed the article in the Oct. 13 issue of The Alliancer."

Mr. Chevrier retorted that the Rouyn, Que., auto dealer-politician knows Mr. Makuch very well.

Magazine Article 'Public Lying'

Earlier Thursday, the Canadian Labor Congress said in a statement the Alliancer article was new evidence that Mr. Caouette admires Hitler and Nazi tactics. Mr. Caouette told reporters the article was a case of "public lying."

In another portion of the interview quoted by Mr. Chevrier, Mr. Caouette was quoted as having said of Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson:

"He is not my leader. He is only my party colleague. He is too slow, but I'm a ball of fire."

Mr. Caouette also denied making this remark.

"I have been reported inaccurately by many journalists. Journalists are more interested in sensations than in the truth. I have been called a Communist, a Fascist and the last two weeks, a traditional Tory."

Unprecedented Commons Study Of MP's Letter

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons committee on privileges may begin an unprecedented study next week of a letter, attributed to an MP, which questions the impartiality of Speaker Marcel Lambert.

The letter was published by the Montreal newspaper Le Devoir over the name of Bernard Dumont (SC—Bellechasse) and suggests that in making certain rulings Speaker Lambert was "anti-Social Credit."

The government's intentions with regard to the letter were questioned in the Commons Thursday by Lionel Chevrier (L — Montreal Laurier). Veterans Minister Churchill, government House leader, proposed that it be referred to the 29-member committee on privileges and elections.

Never before in Canadian parliamentary history has the committee been asked to examine a published letter attributed to an MP which refers to the motives or actions of another MP.

INCLUDES ALL PARTIES

The committee which will examine the letter attributed to Mr. Dumont is composed of 12 Progressive Conservatives, 10 Liberals, four Social Credit MPs and three New Democrats. They were instructed to examine the matter and report to the House.

Informants said the committee may call Mr. Dumont and the newspaper's editor unless Mr. Dumont disowns the letter. In theory, the committee's powers extend to recommending that the Commons suspend Mr. Dumont.

The letter said "it is unpardonable" for a Speaker of French origin who knows the problems of minorities to disallow questions about provision of simultaneous translation for French-speaking MPs.

It stated that former Speaker Roland Michener had permitted discussion of this matter—"but today, because the problem is discussed by a Social Credit member, the Speaker declares the question out of order, probably because he is anti-Social Credit."

"It is very grave because it is an insult to the French Canadians who ask the installation of the simultaneous translation hookup" (in Commons committee hearings).

The Commons itself has a simultaneous translation system but the committees—which have yet to meet in this new Parliament—depend on a translator who handles questions and answers in French if that tongue is requested by a committee member.

'Black-Mailed Into Election'

QUEBEC (CP) — Union Nationale Leader Daniel Johnson charged Thursday night that Premier Lesage is "a spineless man" who was "black-mailed" by Resources Minister Rene Levesque into calling the Nov. 14 provincial election.

"If by mischance the Liberals stay in power," he said, "it will no longer be the spineless Mr. Lesage who is the leader, but this power-hungry Rene Levesque. . . ."

Mr. Johnson spoke in Rouyn, the home town of Real Caouette, deputy leader of the Social Credit party, whom he described as "a man with a heart" on whom he could count for collaboration in implementing the Union Nationale's economic program.

Meanwhile, in Armagh, near Quebec City, Mr. Lesage said Mr. Johnson should resign from public life because the Union Nationale leader refused to say whether he is for or against the government's plan to expropriate 11 private electric power companies.

"It is the duty of a man in public life to give his opinion on important matters," Mr. Lesage said.

HITS WAGE 'DECEPTION'

In Thetford Mines, Mr. Lesage attacked the Union Nationale's promise of a $1-an-hour minimum wage law "as a myth and a deception" which Mr. Johnson "knows cannot be applied."

Mr. Lesage said Mr. Johnson had promised that companies would get government compensation to meet the increased payroll costs.

The government would need bureaucrats to go over company books, he said. The money would go to friends.

"They are trying by all means to come back to the sad system of patronage which the people of Quebec rejected in June, 1960."

Touring in Temiscamingue, Mr. Johnson charged that the riding is "one of the first to go" under what he described as the Liberal government's plan to "eliminate" 20 rural ridings in a redistribution of the provincial legislature's 95 seats.

He charged Mr. Levesque wants to eliminate ridings with less than 20,000 population.

"Democracy is more than a question of numbers," he said.

On the power question, Mr. Johnson said would take over two small power companies in Abitibi and Gaspe an dhold a referendum on the fate of the nine others.

They believe the rocket was launched by Soviet missilemen manning the 22 anti-aircraft rocket bases known to be operational in Cuba.

This information developed as the U.S. Navy patrolled the shipping lanes into Cuba.

If there have been any ship intercepts since the arms blockade was clamped on again Thursday they have not been announced.

China to Get More Wheat

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—The Canadian government is now carrying on negotiations with Communist China for future orders of grain in the coming calendar year, despite the hostilities between India and the Chinese.

The latest individual sales contract under the long-term agreement with Red China is due to expire on Dec. 31, 1962. Shipments are being made of wheat and barley to China under that agreement and there is no intention to halt those shipments, a spokesman for the department said today.

JFK BACKING

News Control Policy Grows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state department — following the defence department's lead—has asked its officials to report any talks they have with newspapermen.

The defence department issued a directive this week covering similar ground and set off a storm of criticism.

The state department's move came to light Thursday after the Chicago Sun - Times reported the department — with President Kennedy's backing—was planning to place controls on its officials' dealings with reporters.

The Sun-Times said an official would have to report the name of the newspaper man he talked with and the media he represented, when the interview took place, and the subject of the interview.

Robert Manning, assistant secretary of state, called it "a childish story, and erroneous." He said "no new 'regulation' has been or is being issued."

EXPLAINS POLICY

Manning, chief of public affairs, said he asked "that state department officials who conduct interviews or discussions in the department with members of the press indicate through their own public affairs officers to the bureau of public affairs—after the fact, the name of the correspondent, his newspaper or agency, the general subject discussed and the date."

Purpose of the request, he said, was to provide the public affairs bureau "with a rudimentary record of the department's relations with the press."

Manning denied any effort to "inhibit" the access of newspaper men to official sources on foreign policy.

"No good reporter is going to have any more difficulty in the future than in the past in covering the state department," he said.

The Sun-Times dispatch by Frederick Kuh said State Secretary Rusk had made more severe proposals, but that they had been softened under fear of public criticism.

Rusk, according to the dispatch, wanted to require state department officials to report not only the subject of the interviews, but details of the substance of what was said.

News Breaks Manipulation Protested

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Lee Hills, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Wednesday, telegraphed Arthur Sylvester, assistant defence secretary, that the latter's statement about the "weaponary" concept of news shocks responsible editors.

Sylvester said in Washington Tuesday that the Kennedy administration controlled news of government actions in the Cuban crisis as a weapon in the drive to force the dismantling of Russian missile bases in Cuba.

"News flowing from actions taken by the government is part of the weaponry," Sylvester said.

He said the timing of announcements, the rank of the government official making the announcements and other factors figuring in the strategy which he summed up as "speaking in one voice to your adversary."

STATEMENT A SHOCK

Mr. Hills, executive editor of the Knight newspapers, told Sylvester:

"Your statement that 'news flowing from actions taken by government is part of the weaponry' in the Cuban crisis comes as deep shock to responsible newspaper editors.

"Having only recently returned from the Soviet Union where controlled news is standard Kremlin policy, I feel strongly that any manipulation of the news in free societies imperils the right of the people to be fully informed under our democratic processes.

Ex-Union Officials Indicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six former officers of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers Union, including ousted president James Cross, were indicted Thursday on charges of conspiracy.

A federal grand jury which had spent 18 months investigating the case returned the indictments in District of Columbia federal court, Attorney-General Robert Kennedy announced.

Cross was charged with conspiring to fix his 1959 perjury trial and emblezzling $35,000 in union funds for a payoff in that conspiracy. He also was accused of conspiring to embezzle another $35,000 from the union to cover up the original embezzlement.

Beck Wins Acquittal

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal jury Thursday night acquitted former Teamsters' Union president Dave Beck of charges that he violated U.S. labor laws by accepting a $200,000 loan from truckers. Also acquitted were his trucking industry co-defendants.

Only 45 minutes before returning the verdict, the jury of seven men and five women had tried to report itself deadlocked. But Judge Wilfred Feinberg sent them back into deliberation.

Beck, 68, was brought here for trial from McNeill Island federal prison in Washington State where he is serving five years on income tax charges.

Grain Stolen

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP)—About 1,500 bushels of grain have been stolen from farmers in this district since threshing was completed three weeks ago, RCMP said today.

RCMP said the grain, mainly barley and oats, was taken in 100 to 200-bushel truck loads from granaries on vacant farms or far from farmhouses.

British Railways in 1962 announced speed-up of nearly 300 train runs.

Legislation On Labor Tangled Web

MONTREAL (CP) — Labor-management relations are virtually in the horse-and-buggy stage while ability to produce and employ mechanical control moves at jet speed, President Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress said today.

"It would be far better if we could deal with our mutual problems between ourselves tion," the leader of the 1,070,000-member congress added.

"I don't want to be misunderstood. I am not suggesting that, particularly at this stage, government steps out of the picture.

"Indeed, I think governments can make a very valuable contribution by bringing people together. . . ."

But, Mr. Jodoin told the Kiwanis Club of Montreal, employee-employer relations "suffer to some extent from a tangled web of legislation". In the final analysis labor and management could work out their differences only in an atmosphere of confidence and understanding.

Canadian Climbers to Assail Himalayas

OTTAWA (CP) — Plans are nearing completion for the first Canadian assault on the towering Himalaya Mountains.

The attempt to scale the mighty mountain range known as the roof of the world will comprise an expedition of eight or perhaps nine Canadians led by Dr. E. F. Roots, 39-year-old co-ordinator of Canada's polar continental shelf project.

Dr. Roots said in an interview that he hopes the Pakistani government will shortly give its approval to the expedition making an attempt to climb the Karakoram range of the Himalays next summer. The expedition was being arranged privately and was expected to cost about $22,000.

Peaks in the Karakoram range tower from 22,000 to 25,000 feet, compared with a height of 29,000 feet from Mount Everest, highest in the world.

Dr. Roots, senior geologist in 1949-52 with a Norwegian-British-Swedish Antarctic expedition, said the peaks that the expedition will attempt to conquer will be selected by the Pakistani government.

Other members of the expedition will include Dr. S. A. Heiberg, nuclear physicist with the Defence Research Board in Ottawa; Donald Lyon, a Banff, Alta., school teacher now engaged in survey work for the Northern affairs department; Dr. Fritz Muller, professor of glaciology at Montreal's McGill University; Dr. L. R. Fowler, a biochemist doing special work at the institute for enzyme research at the University of Wisconsin; C. S. Irwin, Calgary geological engineer, now engaged in a project in New Zealand; Dr. A. E. Collin, oceanographer with the federal mines and technical surveys department now doing special research at the University of Washington, Seattle, and Herman Jamek of Uranium City, Sask., an aircraft engineer and professional ski instructor.

Before the Jury

CANADA MUST SOON UNDERgo a sort of international trial before the members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. At Geneva, later this month, they will ask the Canadian government to justify its emergency tariffs, a clear breach of the GATT contract.

Undoubtedly these measures can be justified by the foreign exchange crisis of last June, so skilfully hidden from the Canadian electors but well understood by the governments of other nations.

Having undermined foreign confidence in Canada and precipitated the crisis, the Diefenbaker government was compelled to restrict imports, even if the restrictions broke the laws of GATT. This, it should be understood, was no light matter. For under those same laws our trading partners abroad are perfectly entitled to retaliate against our goods by raising their tariffs proportionately.

Up to now they have wisely not done so, realizing of course that in its crisis the Canadian government did only what it had to do. The government's subsequent refusal to submit its emergency action to Parliament for ratification or amendment is quite another question, a purely domestic question, of no concern to foreigners.

They will have to understand, however, and doubtless do, that the Canadian government could have restricted foreign goods legally under the GATT rules by applying import quotas, as other nations have done in exchange emergencies. Quotas would have been more damaging than tariffs to our partners and, once installed, would have been difficult to remove. The tariffs, on the other hand, can be removed overnight.

What our partners want to know is when the tariffs will be removed, and probably will ask Canada to fix a certain date. It is unreasonable to expect the Canadian government to make such a commitment. No one can foresee now just when our gold and hard-currency reserves will be large enough to withstand a sharp increase of imports though a few of the emergency tariffs were repealed the other day as a good beginning.

Nevertheless, it is clear that the emergency tariffs cannot last long without provoking foreign retaliation against our goods and that could be damaging, or disastrous, to some of our export industries.

The Canadian government has said repeatedly, and will reiterate at Geneva, that the tariffs will go at the earliest possible date. Meanwhile Mr. Diefenbaker is proposing a general reduction of tariffs throughout the world—a proposal which must seem queer to foreigners when Canada has raised its own tariffs.

Even if the Canadian Parliament and people fail to do so, we can be sure that foreign nations will hold the government to its word. They will note, among other things, that Canada's exchange reserves have substantially recovered since the dangerous outflow of last June.

At their lowest point the reserves fell to about $1.1 billion, or little more than half their earlier total. At the end of September, according to the latest figures, the reserves had climbed substantially and Canada began to repay its emergency foreign loans.

The margin of safety is still narrow. Though foreign money has been returning to Canada (mainly to earn high interest rates) it could flow out again just as fast, or faster.

Everything will depend on the world's confidence in Canada's affairs and they will depend upon the government's financial management. Until our finances are in better order, the national budget at least moving toward balance, our foreign exchange position will not be safe.

The danger, obviously foreseen by our trade partners, is that the nation's finances will not be adequately repaired and that the emergency tariffs, which are satisfactory to many Canadian industries, will be allowed to continue indefinitely. The acid test of the Diefenbaker government is its ability to forestall that double danger.

Parks or Honky-Tonk Sites?

ABOUT TWO YEARS AGO, MR. Alvin Hamilton, predecessor of Mr. Walter Dinsdale as minister of northern affairs and national resources, prepared a simplified blueprint for Canada's parks policy.

He was aware at the time of the threat posed by commercial interests who wanted to invade the wilderness areas and he called upon Canadians to form an association of friends of the parks to fight any raids those commercial interests might launch.

"Hon. members should be aware of the fundamental purpose of the parks," Mr. Hamilton told the Commons in 1960. "It is to preserve as they were in the beginning, those beautiful scenic areas of our country in order that our children for generations to come may go there and find certain areas where the country is the same as its original discoverers found it. That is the primary purpose of the national parks."

In his call for support from friends of the parks, he asked: "How can a minister stand up against the pressures of commercial interests who want to use the parks for mining, forestry, for every kind of honky-tonk recreational device known to man, unless the people who love these parks are prepared to band together and support the minister by getting the facts out across the country?"

Against this sincere and long-sighted philosophy and policy, note the development of recent weeks.

Mr. J. R. B. Coleman, national parks director and a man dedicated to his job, has been under attack from three Alberta Conservative MPs because he allegedly blocked the commercial development of Banff and Jasper national parks.

Mr. Dinsdale has denied that Mr. Coleman is to be transferred from his post as a result of the Alberta members' head-hunt. But Mr. Dinsdale suggests that there is a possibility the post will be abolished as part of a general scheme to decentralize the administration.

If Mr. Hamilton wondered how a minister could stand up against the pressures of commercial interests bent on invading the parks, where could some local or regional administrative unit find the strength to withstand such pressure?

Now is the time, to vary the old sentence, for all good men to come to the aid of the parks—as Mr. Hamilton did. Mr. Dinsdale should be the first in line to provide that aid. Why isn't he?

Is Mr. Fulton Coming Home?

IT IS NO SECRET THAT MANY British Columbia Conservatives want Mr. Davie Fulton to come home from Ottawa to help them regain provincial strength.

With Mr. Fulton as leader, these Conservatives believe, the Tories might once more become a force in provincial politics.

Mr. Fulton has heard these pleas before—and has courteously declined. Most recently his response has been somewhat qualified. "I am always open to good suggestions and new ideas," he says, apparently willing to let British Columbia Conservatives think that he is toying with the idea.

Of course, Mr. Fulton has not committed himself by this statement. It appears, however, to be something other than a polite "no."

Which may lead some people to wonder if this very able young man currently sees his future and his party's federal future in a new light.

If the provincial party can draft him, they will have a man of unusual talent. And interesting precedents exist for the translation of cabinet, potential cabinet or former cabinet members from the federal field to the provincial. Mr. Jean Lesage made the change successfully two years ago in Quebec. Mr. Tommy Douglas, though his party never held federal power, did the same years ago when he left Ottawa for Regina, and Mr. Angus Macdonald provided an example in Nova Scotia.

Though provincial Conservative fortunes look anything but bright from Victoria, they might look more attractive from the public works minister's office window in Ottawa.

The Vanishing Redman

A KANSAS NEWSPAPER DEstroys another of our illusions.

It reports the case of a Shoshone Indian guide hired by a Bureau of Land Management survey party to lead it safely through the wilderness.

The Shoshone, according to the account, wandered off by himself, got lost and was finally rescued by a helicopter and a mounted squad sent back by the survey party when it reached civilization.

This, it appears, is "the vanishing redman"—a unique figure in an era of population explosion in which the natives share.

Farmers All

Ottawa Journal

OTTAWA school children trooped into the Ottawa Winter Fair at the Coliseum to see some cows and learn, as a fair official put it, that they, and not the milkman, supply us with milk, to see some lambs and learn that these appealing little creatures supply us with wool and lamb chops.

Sixty years ago most city children were familiar with cows and sheep and horses and pigs. There were few city families that did not have a farm no farther than a second cousin away.

A good many city people could watch the livestock judging with an expert eye. A farm fair meant to them pretty much what it meant to the farm people who came to town to enter their Holsteins in the stock show or to see how the judges treated their neighbor's prized Clydesdale stallion.

It is thanks in great measure to the Ottawa Winter Fair and other fairs like it that an ever smaller proportion of the country's people live on farms. Fewer farmers are needed to keep the same number of city-dwellers fed because the farm fairs have succeeded in their tasks of making farming more productive.

So there are more people today who are generations removed from the farm, who have no farm memories of their own. For them the Winter Fair is a pleasant link with the way of life that remains at the heart of the memories of their people. And for everyone with appreciation of grace and beauty there are the horses, on show and in competition.

They Phrased the Most Important Sentence

By Max Freedman, From Washington

Mr. Freedman here gives us a look behind the scenes as the world edged closer to the brink of war.

Freedman

IT NOW is possible to put the events of the past two weeks in responsible perspective. This attempt at the reconstruction of great events will be made without any effort to reward heroes or to identify the officials guilty of bad advice. Under President Kennedy's personal direction, this joint enterprise in determined diplomacy and resolute power was conducted with an unbroken unity almost unexampled in the history of American politics.

During these tremendous days it is no exaggeration to say that the fate of civilization rested on the wisdom and courage of a small group of Americans who carried the burden of ultimate responsibility. It is surely important that world opinion should know something at least of the restraint and prudence, as well as the firmness and strength, with which they met the communist challenge.

The fundamental point must be stated with emphasis at the very beginning of this report. There was no disagreement of any kind on the necessity of meeting the communist threat. The only point that was under discussion was the degree of the American response.

Very early in the discussion, after some inevitable differences among his advisers, President Kennedy ruled that American objectives in this crisis would not be satisfied with a Russian commitment to stop its shipments of offensive weapons to Cuba. There could be no final settlement until the missile bases and ballistic weapons were removed.

Harder Job

Everyone recognized that it was much harder to secure the removal of these bases than to tumble down the wall in Berlin. Yet the wall is still standing, and the United States was ready to go to nuclear war with the Soviet Union, if necessary, to force the bases out of Cuba. Why this difference?

There are three main reasons. The acceptance of the wall—a decision regarded by many Americans as inexcusable weakness—made a firm stand in Cuba almost unavoidable. Otherwise the dangerous impression would take root in Russia that American power was on the run. American officials know that the verdict on the Berlin wall held by many Americans is in reality a superficial judgment of a complex situation.

Even if this particular wall had in fact been knocked down while it was being built, it would have been easy for the communists to build a second and larger wall a few hundred yards back in the acknowledged territory of East Berlin. Were American tanks to sweep into East Berlin to destroy this wall every time the communists tried to build it? This prospect hardly seemed a profitable exercise.

Finally, the wall is a shameful nuisance but not an instant danger. The bases in Cuba present a totally different problem. They mark the first entry of Russian nuclear power in Latin America.

They circumvent the American early warning system which is based on a Russian attack from the north over Canada rather than from the south. They give Cuba the opportunity to disturb the military balance in Latin America. They allow Russia to practise nuclear blackmail against the United States. For these and other reasons it was decided that the offensive weapons had to go, though no fixed period for their removal was proclaimed in any public statement. Similarly there was no public statement that the Castro government had to be overthrown as the price of a settlement.

Less Urgent

As the fateful discussions began in the White House, it soon became apparent that the Cuban problem, in itself, was less urgent than the Russian challenge. Cuba was being used by Russia to challenge the United States in the Western Hemisphere. That was the central and enduring issue.

Measured solely in terms of military power, the installation of the bases in Cuba did very little to alter the grim ratio of nuclear strength as it already existed between Russia and the United States. This point was made with clinical detachment by defence secretary McNamara who later took the indispensable leadership in carrying out the massive and effective marshalling of American power on a world scale.

The military decision in Washington turned on an invasion of Cuba and on pinpoint bombing of the missile sites. No one underestimated the hazards and cost of an invasion. It was estimated that the increased defensive power now available to the Cuban government might result in some 50,000 casualties, with some authorities putting the figure at 90,000 casualties, with a reserve force of 250,000 men being needed.

Someone suggested that the United States might avoid this waste of American lives if President Kennedy ordered a secret and massive air attack on Cuba. This suggestion went into oblivion, never to be recalled, when it provoked one indignant comment from Attorney General Robert Kennedy that deserves to be remembered long after the passion and excitement of this crisis have faded from memory.

Never a Tojo

"My brother," said the attorney general, "will never consent to be another Tojo." It was Admiral Tojo, the Japanese militarist, who carried a large share of the blame for the secret attack on Pearl Harbor.

Once the discussion turned to the larger issue of the Russian challenge, the problem of Cuba fell into its proper place.

The basic decision was made to treat the crisis as having originated not in Havana but in Moscow. President Kennedy decided that in his address to the nation on Monday night he would utter the most important sentence since he entered the White House.

He was resolved to warn Russia that any attack with nuclear weapons by Cuba on any country in this hemisphere would be regarded as an attack by the Soviet Union itself and would provoke the full retaliatory power of the United States against the territory of Russia. More time was devoted to the drafting of this sentence than to any other declaration of American policy in the whole crisis.

A footnote to this decision is worthy of some emphasis. When the Berlin crisis suddenly became menacing, after the Vienna Conference of 1961, President Kennedy was advised to warn Russia, in his report to the American people, that the United States did not bind itself necessarily to avoid a first nuclear strike, did not necessarily commit itself to use its nuclear power only in retaliation for a Russian assault, already delivered on this country. This passage was finally deleted from the President's speech and was never delivered.

But this background must be remembered if the full gravity of what the President said in the Cuban crisis is to be understood. The President himself, and the men around the President, were ready to go much farther in the Cuban crisis than they were in the Berlin crisis a year ago. Can the sombre stakes at issue in Cuba be more clearly defined?

Key Men

It is worthwhile identifying the men who advised President Kennedy most consistently and most constructively during this ordeal. They are Attorney General Robert Kennedy; General Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff; Mr. Theodore Sorenson, the President's special counsel; Mr. McGeorge Bundy, the special adviser to the President on national security problems; Secretary of State Rusk; Defence Secretary McNamara; Mr. John McCone, the head of the central intelligence agency, and Mr. Thompson, chief Soviet expert in the state department.

Vice President Lyndon Johnson took only a minor role in the committee discussions in the White House but he was frequently consulted by President Kennedy, when the two men were alone, in a final review of the decision to be adopted.

Mr. Dean Acheson was able to provide a detailed report for the NATO council, including the photographs taken by aerial reconnaisance, to prove that undeniable evidence existed of the Russian missile bases being installed in Cuba.

The United States government is particularly grateful for the support given it by the British Government. Sir David Ormsby Gore, the British Ambassador in Washington, was informed of every development at the earliest possible moment. He knew every change in the situation as soon as it occurred. This consultation was paralleled in London where Mr. David Bruce, the American ambassador, gave the Macmillan government every bit of information, as soon as he could.

Senior officials of the Kennedy administration are saying that the British government was by any test the most helpful ally. This fact will not soon be forgotten in Washington by those who make the major decisions for the United States.

There were three major crises before the emergency reached its present stage.

The first crisis arose when the Russian ships were steering towards the line of blocade and no one knew if there would be a clash at sea between American and Russian power.

The second crisis came on Thursday night when reconnaisance (some American planes flew as low as 250 feet over Cuban soil) showed the rapid and unexpected build-up of the bases. The increased surveillance of Cuba carried the risk that some Russians, manning the nuclear weapons, would conclude that war had broken out between Russia and the United States and would issue the order that would send the missiles over American cities.

Memorable Message

The third crisis came on Saturday night, after the harsh Russian note offering to trade Cuban bases for Turkish bases and after an American reconnaisance plane and pilot were reported missing.

It was in this atmosphere of heightened crisis that President Kennedy, assisted particularly by Mr. Rusk, Mr. Bundy and Mr. Sorenson, drafted the memorable message to Mr. Khrushchev that opened the path to a peaceful settlement. Great care was taken to warn Mr. Khrushchev that he might expect further American action in a "couple of days," if events were allowed to continue on their existing course.

President Kennedy said there would be the most careful translation of these words in the Kremlin to find out if "couple" meant "a few" or "only two." The President was convinced that the Russian leaders would decide that they had no large margin of time open to them.

The event thus far has completely confirmed the accuracy of President Kennedy's judgment of the situation. The Russian leaders understood the warning, and made the offer on Sunday that moved the world, at least for the time being, away from the edge of nuclear destruction.

President Kennedy has earned the trust of the American people as a guardian of peace. All the risks which he took in these last few days were risks for peace, not incentives to war. If world opinion understands this supreme fact, it will help it to judge American policy with fairness and with accuracy.

"WHATTA YA MEAN I DON'T KNOW ONE TREE FROM ANOTHER? THAT'S A BIG TREE! THAT'S A LITTLE TREE! THAT'S A...."

From Our Files

Nov. 2, 1902 — Ottawa: Premier Roblin telegraphed Hon. Clifford Sifton today to stop the Doukhobors entering the province. He said they will be treated as criminals.

Nov. 2, 1922 — The cruiser HMS Capetown was welcomed in Victoria today by sunny skies as she glided to her jetty at HMCS Dockyard. It is her first visit to Esquimalt.

Nov. 2, 1942—Victoria came within $250,000 of its objective in the Third Victory Loan campaign. Vancouver Island must find another $1,000,000 before the campaign can close successfully.

As Our Readers See It

Reminiscent of 30s

Mr. Emery's article on Saturday reminded me forcibly of the lamented 30s.

As he wrote, defending Russia and Castro and attacking the U.S., so did professors in England urge against taking stern and war-like measures to stop Hitler's first provocative moves.

Fortunately for us Mr. Kennedy's memory is better. Had we acted then, and France wanted to, how many millions of lives might have been saved.

As even the New Statesman wrote, "The Russians stand accused of an act of provocation unprecedented since the onset of the cold war." And lied and lied and lied.

Note of Sanity

Tony Emery's article on the Cuban crisis rang a note of sanity at a time when we truly needed a calm appraisal of the situation.

America apparently feels that she is destined to decide the future of mankind and her propaganda—sometimes blatant but sometimes subtle—has influenced the thinking of the vast majority of those who are not really interested enough to study current events objectively.

Facts only—not emotion—can solve international problems.

Fair and Factual Criticism

I was amused to see in Tuesday's Daily Times a letter entitled "Baleful Influence."

I always read and enjoy Tony Emery's column for it is well written, informative and interesting. If it had not been for the above letter, I would never have realized that it was having a "baleful influence" on me.

Obviously your correspondent is an American and I would point out to him that fair and factual criticism is not necessarily unfriendly, but rather the mark of true friendship.

'Unendurable Old Bore'

May I be permitted to congratulate Mrs. Glynn-Ward on as accurate an appraisal of an unendurable old bore as could well be made in the space of a concise and well written letter? I am glad to agree with her 100 per cent re our allies.

If space and the subject further permit I should also wish to express heart-felt sympathy for the lady whose "poor lovely Cuba" (Does she mean Castro?) has been so flagrantly abused by the Jesuitical scoundrels (whose ends justify their means) now darkly conspiring in Rome. In the circumstances what hope can there be for Christian reunion?

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

Research on the Criminal

A LADY recently retired from the post of matron at the Protestant women's jail in Montreal has voiced her opinions on the way society should treat dope pedlars and people who lure girls into prostitution.

Stott

According to the press report of her remarks, she'd hang them.

This is not what Canadians take to be the modern approach to penology and the reformation of the transgressor. Her method of handling the problem would be permanent, as far as the individual cases to which it was administered were concerned.

The proposal meets immediate objection, however, from those people who don't believe in hanging in the first place and who, in the second instance, see even criminals of this type as human beings.

* * *

One of the difficulties confronting Canadians when they consider the question of crime and punishment, or treatment, is the wide gulf which separates citizens who have different views on the subject. At one extreme is the person who would eliminate a career in crime by eliminating the person who pursues it. At the other is the well-meaning do-gooder who argues, generally in the case of juveniles, that there are no bad people, just misunderstood and misdirected people.

The conflict of opinion between the two schools of thought—and between those less extreme—seems irreconcilable.

The humanitarian case for redemption of the wrong-doer is familiar and is a good case. Society cannot be much of a society if its members ignore the human values.

There are, also, very practical and material reasons for lifting a person out of crime. It just costs too much to allow him to remain a criminal. The costs, in addition to the initial loss his depredations inflict on his victims, pyramid through the expenses of catching him, carrying him through the courts and keeping him in prison only to let him go back to his old ways on release.

Crime is a dollars and cents burden on the decent people which the decent people resent but have not yet been able to avoid.

Admittedly the economic viewpoint is a cold way of looking at the problem, but it is important. And it leads naturally to another aspect of treatment which cannot be ignored.

Modern penology has come a long way from the law of an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth. It has progressed so far that some people look upon it as mollycoddling the criminal. That debate continues.

But the cardinal point which has to be established to the satisfaction of the public in general is less one of method than of effectiveness. Does it work?

* * *

Some experts point out that harsher treatment in an earlier age did not accomplish its purpose. Murders continue in countries which execute convicted murderers. The story is told of pickpockets working in the crowd assembled to see a man hanged for picking pockets.

This is a telling reply to critics who say the minimum security institutions, with their attempts to rehabilitation, are little more than gentlemen's clubs to which members are admitted as a reward for committing crime.

The individual's opinion of such establishments, insofar as it concerns the humanitarian treatment of the inmate, is of less importance in a pragmatic sense than whether or not such places do the job they're set up to do. So far statistics seem to indicate an improvement, if not in conversion, at least in rehabilitation. But the statistics to date are not nearly good enough.

Moreover, they are weighted. Only those prisoners considered the best bets for rehabilitation get the red carpet treatment.

Hanging the offender is not the answer. At the same time we haven't produced results which prove overwhelmingly that a mixture of kindness and firmness is as effective as it should be. The subject is still one for research. And a civilization which can crack the atom and confidently expects to land a man on the moon surely shouldn't consider the problem of human behavior beyond solution.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Beer Trouble Brewing

LONDON — Bad news for Britain's beer drinkers (which means practically everybody in these parts). With the situation as it stands the price of beer must go up or a lot more pubs must close. Or both.

Reyburn

The brewers say they just can't afford to sell beer as cheaply as they do now. Price per half-pint: 15 cents.

The big rise in property values is the root of the trouble. The breweries, which own the pubs, have more than $2,250,000,000 tied up in the ownership of those public houses and at the present price of beer all they can earn on the property works out at less than a nickel in every dollar invested.

* * *

A ladies' hairdresser on a good location in the local shopping area takes more cash in an hour than the pub next door takes in a day.

And it's statistics like that which have contributed to pubs closing down at a rate of 235 a year since the war. Number of pubs in Britain at war's end: 73,026. Present total: 68,936.

The trend, say the brewers, must be to kill off the pubs on the High Street (the main shopping area, where property values are steep) and concentrate on the ones in the back streets.

* * *

Another way they might put it is that today there are just too many pubs for the number of people who want to use them. In and around our local shopping area, for instance, there are no fewer than 15. And each weekday night most of them are forlorn, practically empty places. Where's everybody? At home, watching TV.

Only on weekends do they come alive, doing the sort of business they were built and equipped to cope with.

And this is what has happened in every suburban locality. The English pub during the week is taking on the look of those deserted taverns of gold-rush towns.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

For the Sake of the Trees

We sometimes find a building contractor or a private home builder who painstakingly preserves as many trees as possible on a building site.

Hilda

It is heartwarming to see but in some cases it is found that after two or three years the trees are not doing so well.

First they look unhappy, then in another season they appear sick, and perhaps in the following spring the new growths wither and die.

Trees have quantities of their finer feeding roots quite near the surface and these are easily damaged by grading machines. Also the soil over them is sometimes closely packed by the frequent passing of heavy trucks. The air supply to the roots is restricted and they are unable to function adequately.

Worse than having the soil compacted, however, is for trees to have soil filled in deeply over the root area and around the trunks.

More native trees die from this cause in home garden areas than from other causes. If a change of level must be made, either raising or lowering the level, it is of vital importance to the tree to assure it a continuation of its present soil level.

If filling is to be done, construct a well around the trunk of the tree, at a distance of three feet all around. Large stones can be used, and they are better without mortar or cement. These will hold back the surrounding soil, and allow the bark of the tree to expand in growth. The depth of the well depends on the amount of filling to be done.

Should lowering of the soil level be contemplated in the region of a tree, a gradual mound will have to be maintained to the foot of the tree.

Here again, stones laid into the sides of the mound will help to keep the soil in place, unless it can be covered with grass sods at once to prevent erosion and root exposure.

It may seem to be a lot of work, but our native trees are worth the time and effort needed to preserve them around our homes.

Kennedy, Adenauer Meeting Postponed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer have agreed to a one-week postponement of their meetings here, the White House announced today.

Adenauer had been scheduled to meet with Kennedy Nov. 7 and 8. They are now slated to get together for a two-day session Nov. 14 and 15.

The White House gave no reason for the postponement.

SOVIETS WANT U.S. TO PAY MORE UN COST

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Soviet Union moved Thursday to knock out a ceiling on United Nations budget assessments and force the United States to pay a higher share after 1964.

The UN regular budget for next year is estimated at $86,640,000. The assessed U.S. share is 32.02 per cent. The Soviet share is 14.97 per cent.

The Russians circulated a draft resolution asking the assembly to abolish the ceilings adopted in 1954 and 1957. In 1954 the assembly agreed that no country should pay more than a third of the total budget. In 1957 it went on record that in principle no country should pay more than 30 per cent of the budget.

Defence Policy Probe Supported

OTTAWA (UPI) — Leaders of the Social Credit and New Democratic parties today swung behind Liberal leader Lester Pearson's suggestion for a non-partisan parliamentary committee on Canada's defence policy.

Socred leader Robert N. Thompson cabled the proposal "a very constructive suggestion" and NDP leader T. C. Douglas said the suggestion had "real merit."

Both Thompson and Douglas agreed there was a lack of informed debate on defence matters within Parliament.

Thompson said there was also a lack of interest, and he called upon the government to take the lead in setting up the select committee.

Douglas doubted the committee would remove defence from the field of controversy but believed that members would be able to base their arguments on the same facts.

"Members have no way of getting accurate information about defence matters," he said.

SERVED BEFORE

Douglas noted that during the last war he served on the war expenditures committee which, besides telling the Liberal government about cases of waste and inefficiency, was able to report information to all parties that could not be made public. "C. D. Howe cooperated very well with this committee," Douglas added.

At present the government-initiated debate on defence is restricted to the department's estimates. There was a defence committee in 1959 but it was permitted only to look into administrative matters.

Douglas described the government's conduct as a "process of evasion of answers" rather than giving the answers asked for by members.

The committee suggested by Pearson could look at defence and foreign affairs matters frankly and then decide what parts could be made public, Douglas added.

Familiarization cruises aboard RCN Pacific command ships are scheduled Saturday for 60 school teachers and principals from Vancouver Island.

Half of the school representatives are from the Greater Victoria area, and will sail from Esquimalt aboard the frigate HMCS New Glasgow. The remainder, from up-Island points, will board HMCS Antigonish, also a frigate, at Nanaimo.

During a 3½-hour cruise they will tour the ships and witness weapons demonstrations.

The cruises for educationists are part of the navy's program to make known career opportunities in the service.

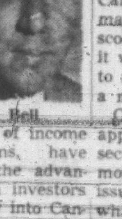
Foreign Investors Lose Advantage

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor



Bell

Recent U.S. tax law changes are already having an effect on a major source of investment money for Canada, the non-resident owned Canadian mutual funds, according to Wall Street reports.

The tax law changes, designed to close foreign havens for tax-sheltered accumulation of income and capital gains, have stripped most of the advantages for American investors putting their money into Canada.

Nearly all of the non-resident owned funds, reportedly, plan to distribute to shareholders most of their ordinary income as well as portions of long-term capital gains. This, in the ordinary course of events, is money which would be reinvested in Canada.

Scudder Fund of Canada Ltd., for example, will distribute 90 per cent of ordinary income to shareholders as well as some of its capital gains starting June 1 next year. Other funds are expected to follow much the same pattern.

It is thought unlikely, however, that the funds will leave Canada entirely. One fund manager is known to have scouted the idea but found that it would cost at least $100,000 to reincorporate in the U.S. as a mutual fund.

Other funds still see a strong appeal in selected Canadian securities but the aim will mostly be for low dividend issues with promise of growth which will boost the income which can be plowed back into the fund.

* * *

Wall Streeters also report there is considerable interest in the U.S. and Europe in the new Canadian trust companies, of which there have been five chartered in the last year.

The appeal to Europeans is that the trust companies operate in a similar manner to private banks with which they are familiar.

Canadian Husky Oil Ltd. is the target for renewed takeover rumors, jumping better than $2 a share from the week's opening in heavy volume.

The company, with assets of around $40 million, has extensive oil well interests and land interests in B.C., Alberta and Saskatchewan as well as in many parts of the western U.S., in Alaska and in Guatemala. It owns and operates four refineries and almost 500 wholesale and retail outlets in the U.S. and Canada.

Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd. reported an increase in profit and sales for the first six months of its fiscal year ending March 31.

Net income to Sept. 30 rose to $819,500 or 45 cents a share compared with $232,000 or 10 cents a share in the same period of 1961. Dollar sales were up 33 per cent with the premium on the U.S. dollar accounting for $129,800 of the increased profit.

President Norman Whittall warned that present economic conditions did not promise that this rate of growth could be maintained for the second half but "good order files on hand" indicate profitable operations will be continued.

He added that the current U.S. investigations into possible quotas on Canadian softwood imports must be "viewed seriously."

The company, which has been studying the possibility of expanding into pulp production on Vancouver Island, has still reached no decision. The report says there are no new developments in the situation.

The new sawmill at Squamish is proceeding on schedule and is expected to be completed by the end of the year at a cost of $1,900,000. Another $705,000 has been spent so far this year on expansion of logging operations and plant modernization.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Industrials Off From Early Peak

The stock market remained slightly on the upside after moderate trading today, but had backed down considerably from its high point of the day.

After touching a mid-day peak at which industrialists were ahead 1¾ points on index, that section dropped almost all its gains.

AT TORONTO key gainers in the main list included Walker-Gooderham, Inter-Provincial Pipe Line and Royal Bank, all ahead ⅜. Algoma Steel, Atlas Steel and Bell Telephone all rose ⅛.

Losers included Trans-Canada Pipeline, Bank of Nova Scotia, Consolidated Paper and Dominion Foundries and Steel, all down in a ⅛ to ⅜ range. Canadian Oil dropped ⅝.

AT NEW YORK U.S. Steel cancelled a rise of about a point. General Motors sliced a gain of about a point to a fraction. American Telephone posted a loss of close to a point, wiping out a gain of about the same size.

Gainers on the Canadian section included Walker-Gooderham, up ¾, Granby Mining and Hudson Bay Mining, ½ each, and Aluminium Ltd., and Canadian Pacific, ⅛ each. International Nickel was off ⅝ and Dome Mines ¼.

AT MONTREAL Canadian Husky fell a point to 7¼ and Central-Del Rio was down 25 cents to $8.35.

Banks were mixed. Falling were Montreal, down ¼ to 59⅝ and Nova Scotia, down ½ to 68. Gaining were Canadienne Nationale, up 1¾ to 69, Imperial-Commerce, up ⅛ to 58½, and the Royal, up ¼ to 72.

Papers and metals showed gains. Aluminium rose ⅛ to 21½ and Noranda was up ⅜ to 24¾. Great Lakes Paper added ⅜ to 16¼ and Price was up¼ to 35.

AT LONDON stock markets closed the week on an uncertain note.

Sentiment was helped at first by the sharp rise Thursday in trans-Atlantic markets but the better trend was not fully maintained. Gilt-edged were quiet and a shade easier. Canadian Pacific was higher in company with other trans-Atlantic issues. Among Canadians, Nickel gained 1¼ to 108¼ and Canadian Husky jumped 2½ to 14½.

AT VANCOUVER today the trading was moderate. Medallion dropped to $2.60 and Bethlehem was down at $2.06. Granduc fell to $2.96 while Mid West Copper rose to 11¼. Peso dropped to $1.18 and Western Mines was down at $2.28 while Canadin Collieries sold for $6½.

Production Mark

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—Sales and production in the third quarter continued to exceed last year's levels and records were set for both the quarter and the first nine months of 1962, Steel Company of Canada shareholders were told by V. W. Scully, president.

91-DAY TREASURY BILLS

Interest Rate Declines

OTTAWA (CP) — Interest rate on 91-day government treasury bills declined Thursday to 4.16 per cent from 4.27 last week with sale of $105,000,000 of the bills.

The Bank of Canada, reporting the drop, also announced that next week the government will reduce its weekly borrowings of the short-term securities.

Since Sept. 5 the government has been selling each week $105,000,000 in 91-day bills and $30,000,000 in 182-day bills, instead of the usual amounts of $95,000,000 and $25,000,000. It has thus raised an extra $135,000,000 during the nine weeks. Next week it will return to the usual amounts in its weekly sales.

This week's decline in the treasury bill rate—an indicator of conditions in the short-term money market — means a resumption in the downtrend which began Sept. 2 and was interrupted briefly last week.

Increased Japan Trade Predicted

TOKYO (AP)—A Canadian industrialist has predicted Japan soon will be putting increased funds into the Canadian economy.

"Investment from Japan is very welcome in Canada," said Victor Oland of Halifax, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, at a press conference winding up eight days of talks between Japanese and Canadian businessmen.

Oland said: "Skilled immigrants are also welcome. We have a great shortage of skilled tradesmen in Canada today."

Fourteen top ranking Canadian businessmen held meetings with Japanese industrialists both here and in Osaka. Oland said there was a general feeling trade between the two nations can be increased considerably in the next few years.

Airlines Urged To Co-operate, Avoid Merger

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canadian Pacific Airlines president G. W. Grant McConnachie said this week a CPA-Trans Canada Air Lines merger would harm Canada's long-term air policy.

But he called for greater cooperation between the two companies on the ground in Canada and abroad.

"We should not clip Canada's wings by merging this country's two major airlines," McConachie told the Canadian Club of Ottawa.

Arguing against a merger, he said airlines are climbing out of the red after heavy losses caused by the introduction of jets and that a monopoly would lead to a deterioration of service.

Also, he said, merger talk has centred around the notion that CPA and TCA international routes compete whereas they actually service different areas.

New Rail Link Reaches Manning

EDMONTON—The Great Slave Lake Railway, now building north from Peace River, reached Manning, Alta., its first shipping point in the northern grain belt on Monday.

Construction crews are laying track into the four large grain elevators being built at Manning. One was completed last week and will ship its first grain south over the new line this week.

Manning is 56 miles north of Peace River. This year's program will carry the railroad to mile 73.7 where it crosses the wide valley of the Meikle River, a major obstacle that will be bridged this winter. The approaches and footings are now well advanced and steel will be erected this winter.

Fine weather of the past two weeks has seen a mile of railway built each day. A wet summer caused delay to grading operations and slowed construction.

Rail Unions Propose Hospital for WCB

VANCOUVER (CP)—Construction of a Workmen's Compensation Board hospital in Vancouver for specialized and post-operative treatment was proposed Thursday to the royal commission on workmen's compensation.

F. H. Lowe, representative of five B.C. railwaymen's brotherhoods, which proposed the hospital in a brief to the commission, said no details had been worked out as to how the hospital should operate but it might use as operating surgeons specialists recommended by the Workmen's Compensation Board.

WCB counsel David Sigler asked why treatment could not be given in civic hospitals instead of setting up a special one.

"This is a good question which I can't answer," Mr. Lowe said. "A lot of hospitals are so crowded it's difficult to get bads—we thought a hospital of this sort would relieve the situation."

Mr. Lowe also asked that details of reasons for rejection of a compensation claim by a medical panel should be made available where the workman's own doctor disagrees with or fails to understand the decision. The panel should, if necessary, reconvene to answer questions of a claimant's personal physician.

NEW YORK MINISTER PREACHES HERE

'Menace to Society' Seen In Cocktail Party Vogue

Cocktail parties are becoming "a menace to society" and the alcoholic problem in the United States is growing so fast the churches may soon have to take a stand on it, says Rev. Dr. John Sutherland Bonnell from New York.

There are now 5,500,000 known alcoholics in the U.S., in addition to 65,000,000 social drinkers, and the annual estimated expenditure on drink is close to $9,500,000,000, Dr. Bonnell said in an interview.

"This is undoubtedly an outgrowth of war jitters and a sharp trend towards materialism. The truth is we are getting just as materialistic as the Communists in Russia—we are putting a money standard on everything."

Now conducting a preaching mission at First United Church, tall good humored Dr. Bonnell is minister emeritus of New York's famous Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church and one of the best-known preachers in the country.

125 SERMONS

During the past 10 months he has conducted preaching missions across Canada and the States and has given 125 sermons and addresses.

He believes the only answer to rampant alcoholism, and the fear of atomic destruction which has helped create it, is a return to religious faith.

"That is mainly why I embarked on this preaching mission. It is utterly tragic that people have so little faith that they seek an escape from the fear of physical death.

"True there is a sword of Damocles hanging by a thin thread over our heads. But if it does fall it will not mean the defeat of righteousness or the defeat of God.

CHOSEN FEW

"Nor will it mean the end of the human race. I believe tens of thousands would escape and they could be the chosen who would bring about the Kingdom of Heaven on earth."

Dr. Bonnell has given counsel to more than 8,000 individuals during his ministry and a large proportion of these, he says, were chronic drinkers.

"One thing I try to impress on alcoholics is that they are sub-consciously seeking death—that is why they drink themselves into a state of unconsciousness. In the early stages they are bolstering their egos and trying to shut out fear. Later, because of deep shame and despair, they are unknowingly seeking oblivion."

WOMEN WORST

Although he does not preach against controlled social drinking, Dr. Bonnell believes the cocktail party has become a threat to society — particularly among women.

Dr. Bonnell has twice visited Russia and he believes the Russian people are "deeply and inherently" religious.

"On my last trip I addressed 12,000 in a Greek Orthodox Church and 1,600 in a Baptist Church. I sensed a religious revival and I do not believe the Soviet rulers are trying to prevent it. The only restriction is the banning of religious instruction for children outside the home. Their view is that the people should be free to accept or reject religious faith.

"What I am mainly concerned about is that Communism today is advancing more rapidly than Christianity. Its followers have more faith and fervor than the majority of Christian churchgoers today."

New National Library

OTTAWA (CP) — Public Work Minister Fulton announced Thursday that construction is scheduled to begin early next May on a national library building in downtown Ottawa, west of Parliament Hill. He said in a statement tenders would be called early this month.

Japan, first victim of atomic power, now is ranked sixth among the world's nations in ownership of atomic reactors used in space.

U.K. Medical Service Passes Doctors' Test

LONDON (Reuters)—A team of eminent physicians gave the 14-year-old state - run medical service a clean bill of health but prescribed some organizational therapy in a report published Thursday.

The 44-doctor committee, appointed four years ago to investigate the National Health Service, said the service was "basically sound" and noted "no other country has attempted to provide organized medical care on so comprehensive a scale."

The committee's major complaint was that the service has become a political football.

The committee, headed by Sir Arthur Porritt, 62-year-old royal surgeon and former British Medical Association president, concluded that the NHS was "basically sound though it needs some improving."

The health service, second-largest item in the budget behind defence, now costs about $2,400,000,000 a year.

PARTY FRICTION

The Porritt committee pointed out that government control of the nation's health services meant political control, and unfortunately they had been used "for electioneering propaganda and become the subject of party friction."

The medical team said this was the most unfortunate aspect of the health service's first 14 years.

The committee's criticisms centred on administration and organization rather than service.

It was critical of the present breakdown of doctors into three divisions—family, hospital and public health — and recommended they be brought together under area health boards set up throughout the country.

It described its proposal for area health boards—"single administrative units based on areas specially designed for the purpose" — as the most radical organizational recommendation.

Help Urged For Centre By Community

Government aid for a proposed treatment and counselling centre for Vancouver Island Alcoholism Foundation may depend on community participation, president James Audain said today.

He said the foundation still hopes to start this winter on a bureau that would provide an office, staff, qualified social worker and access to medical advisers for the Island's 800-1,000 alcoholics.

Discussions aimed at co-operation between the Island foundation and the B.C. Alcoholism Foundation, in Vancouver, have taken place in recent weeks.

The provincial government aids the B.C. foundation, whose work may be extended to any place in the province.

But the functioning foundation is not yet in a position to provide help to a Victoria treatment centre.

MORE NEEDED

It receives the sole government grant for this purpose, which means that government aid probably would have to be increased to include a parallel setup here.

Mr. Audain says he has been given to understand the government looks favorably on the opening of an Island centre, provided there is some participation by voluntary contributors like industry and community appeals.

In the Community Welfare Council, he said, there is an awareness of the alcoholism problem, but its executive director Jack Anguish said there has been no discussion of a local part in a program by the board of directors.

Oak Bay Men Want Own Hard Hats

Oak Bay public works department is getting hard-headed about hardhats for its outside employees.

Works committee recommends to council that 50 hats, worth about $200, should be bought, enabling each employee to have his own and to be responsible for it.

At present there are not enough hats to go around and men are required to wear them only when they are working in excavations and around heavy equipment.

However, they are objecting to putting on their heads the sweat-soaked hats worn by other workmen, superintendent Ralph Futcher told works committee.

"It's not very sanitary," Coun. Allan Cox agreed.

Plunges to Death

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rudolph Mackowetsky, 33, was killed when he plunged four storeys from an apartment building where he was setting titles.

. . . 'EAT UP, GIRL' . . . 'HIT THOSE BOOKS' . . . 'HOW'S MY HAT?' . . . 'DEAR FOLKS' . . .

What do Canada's top swimmers do in between morning and night training sessions at the Crystal Garden? Well there's always the call to chow, answered enthusiastically by Allison Glendenning, 16, of Hudson Heights, Quebec, under watchful eye of British Empire Games' coach Ed Healy of Montreal. For Richard Pound, 20, of Montreal, spare time is spent studying. Sandy Gilchrist, 16, of Ocean Falls, wanted to try on a hat—and had to have pointers from Aldy Meinhardt, 16, of Vancouver, and Madeleine Sevigny, 20, of Montreal. Age-old custom of writing the folks back home occupied Patti Thompson, 16, of Hamilton, Jack Kelso, 23, of Ocean Falls, rear, and Steve Rabinovitch, 20, of Montreal. Team left for Vancouver and a brush-up meet today, will return Sunday for four more days of training here before departing on November 9 for Perth, Australia, host city for 1962 British Empire Games. Champs Are Underdogs Against Bays Tonight

Vic High is the defending champion but Oak Bay rules as a slight favorite for tonight's arc-light encounter at Royal Athletic Park to decide the city inter-high school soccer crown.

Although each club ended up with a win and a loss in their two league clashes this season, the Greens of Oak Bay appeared the stronger club in the home stretch.

Tyees tripped Oak Bay 4-2 in their first meeting but the spirited greenshirts didn't lose another game during the league schedule. They nipped Tyees 2-1 in their second game and went on to win the league title although star forward Bob Moysey was sidelined by an injury.

Moysey may be back in action tonight but the key man for the Oak Bay club could be centre-half Pete Robarts, who gained all-star ranking in the 1961 B.C. Tournament of Soccer Champions.

To Robarts will probably fall the difficult task of containing Ron Stubbings, the tall and fast Vic High forward who paced league scorers with nine goals.

Everything points to a close and interesting struggle when the Oaks go after their sixth title since the annual match was inaugurated in 1935. No city final was held in 1942 and 1943.

Like the Oaks, Mount View Hornets have won five crowns and Vic High has come out on top in the other 15 years.

Tiger Hoping To Clear Up Title Muddle

LONDON (AP)—Dick Tiger, Nigeria's recently crowned World Boxing Association middleweight champion, said Thursday he'd like to fight Paul Pender and clear up the middleweight title muddle.

"First, I am looking forward to a return bout with Gene Fullmer who gave me the chance at the WBA title," said Tiger at a welcome party in London.

"If I beat Fullmer again or if he decides to retire and not fight me, then I'd like to take on Pender."

Pender, of Brookline, Mass., is recognized as world champion of the 160-pounders by New York, Massachusetts, Britain and Europe.

'Stormbusters' Tackle United Here Saturday

The club that kicked up such a storm at the start of the Pacific Coast Soccer League this season comes storming into Royal Athletic Park this Saturday.

Vancouver Pils, centre of that promotion-relegation dispute that shook the league's foundations, are Victoria United's guests this weekend.

United manager Wally Milligan doesn't want to be reminded of the dispute, and as for the Pils—"they're capable of causing more damage out there Saturday . . . if we let them."

Pils' record indicates that might be so. After four games, they're still unbeaten. By the same token, they haven't won a game. All of Pils' matches have ended in ties, leaving the team in fourth place, three points back of United.

SCORING PUNCH

Milligan's main interest is instilling more punch into United's attack.

"I'm hoping they can pick up where they left off last week," he said, referring to the match against Firefighters. Outclassed in the first half, United took charge after the interval and came back to gain a 1-1 tie.

No changes are planned, even though Milligan received a pleasant surprise this week when former Scottish professional Bill Hamilton turned out for his first workouts.

HAMILTON MAY PLAY

"The main trouble with our attack," said Milligan, "is that they aren't working together. We'll see if they can get to know each other this week.

"If a manager starts making too many changes, that leads to panic. There's no reason to panic yet. We've only lost one game."

Milligan says Hamilton, who arrived in Victoria from Scotland only two weeks ago, may play this weekend. Hamilton, however, would prefer to wait another week in order to get into better condition.

WORCESTER, Mass.—Tom McNeeley, 203, Boston, stopped Earl Atley, 204, Philadelphia, 8.

Daring Young Driver Killed in Trial Spin

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Fearless Ricardo Rodriguez, who chased fame with the gas pedal of his racing car pushed flat to the floor, was killed Thursday when his sleek Lotus careened off the track in a practice session at the Mexico Autodrome.

The younger and more daring of Mexico's auto - racing brothers, Ricardo was 21.

Brother Pedro, 23, as well as Ricardo's father and mother and his wife, Sara, were in the pit area when Ricardo's auto swerved off the concrete track at a U-curve, overturned and caught fire during a trial run for Sunday's Grand Prix of Mexico.

Ricardo carried his daredevil reputation into his final drive. Fred Van Buren of Mexico, driving behind Rodriguez when he crashed, said:

"Ricardo went into the turn much too fast. I was surprised. He knew this track well and knew that this turn is the toughest of all."

The track's press officer estimated Rodriguez was going close to 125 miles an hour.

'HEART PACE' WELL NAMED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The harness racing feature at Hollywood Park Thursday night was billed as the Heart Fund Pace. A heart attack caused the death of a horse in the event.

Rocket Age apparently swallowed her tongue after the attack, which happened as the field headed into the stretch.

FIVE UNDER PAR

Old Pro Bo Ties Gajda In Top Spot

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Old pro Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex., and dark horse Bob Gajda of Detroit each fired a five-under-par 67 Thursday and grabbed a three-stroke lead in the opening round of the $30,000 Beaumont Invitational golf tournament.

The 40-year-old Wininger, a public relations officer for a major oil company, had nines of 36 and 31 to set a blistering pace over the par 72 Tyrrell Park course. He eagled the second hole with an 18-foot putt.

Gajda, who formerly played basketball for the University of Detroit, had three birdies on each nine.

Eight players were tied at 70 but they did not include the pre-tournament co-favorites, Lionel Hebert and Doug Sanders. Sanders had a 73. Hebert wound up with a 71.

Giants Deny Trade Plans For Orlando

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Horace Stoneham, San Francisco Giants' president, said Thursday there is no truth to rumors the baseball Giants may trade slugging first baseman Orlando Cepeda.

Stoneham said "we have never once discussed trading Cepeda and we certainly haven't any plans to deal him off to another club."

When Cepeda's bat slumped during the last two months of the 1962 season, he was rumored to be trade bait if the Giants could obtain an established starting pitcher.

GORDIE HOWE

'The Masked One' Muffles Rangers

By BRUCE STOVEL

Terrance Gordon Sawchuk, known as Terry to the public and Uke to his team-mates, proved again Thursday night he's the hottest player on the National Hockey League's hottest team.

Sawchuk recorded his third shutout in eight games as Detroit Red Wings remained unbeaten this season with a 4-0 blanking of New York Rangers.

The 32-year-old Sawchuk, a Winnipeg native of Ukrainian descent, has allowed only nine goals this year for a 1.13 goals-against average. His shutout gives him 91 in his NHL career, only three short of the regular-season record held by George Hainsworth. He has registered 10 more in Stanley Cup playoffs for an over-all total of 101.

The Wings, picked by the pre-season pundits as a top contender for last place, now have a record of six wins and two ties for 14 points.

Only one point behind are Chicago Black Hawks, who took a 4-2 win over Boston Bruins Thursday night on third-period goals by rookie Chico Maki and sparkplug Stan Mikita.

MIKITA SPARKS HAWKS

Hawks have played 11 games —three more than Detroit—but they have run up an unbeaten string of five since Mikita began playing after an early-season injury.

In Montreal, Toronto Maple Leafs revenged a home-ice loss to Canadiens Wednesday night by dumping the NHL champions 3-1.

By drubbing the Montrealers, the Leafs took their first win in Montreal since Feb. 23, 1961.

RANGER ROOKIE HURT

Ranger rookie Rod Gilbert required 10 stitches to close a gash in the back of his head after being checked by Detroit defenceman Pete Goegan. Doctors said he had a concussion, but his skull wasn't fractured.

Detroit's astounding success is credited to the top conditioning of the Wings and Sawchuk's continuing brilliance.

This year the 12-year-veteran began wearing a face mask—similar to the one worn by Montreal's Jacques Plante, and it doesn't seem to have hurt his goaling a bit.

Montreal centre Jean Beliveau received a gash over the left eye when hit by the puck in the second period. He sat out the remainder of the game, but said afterward the gash had only required a stitch to close and he would return Saturday when the Canadiens entertain New York, while Leafs are at home to the unbeaten Red Wings.

LOS ANGELES—Charlie Powell, 224, Los Angeles, outpointed Dave Furch, 204, Phoenix, Ariz., 10.

MIAMI—Tim Ford, 149, Jacksonville, Fla., outpointed Rocky Randell, 147, Houston 8.

ABEL SAVING ACE

Wings Are Soaring Sans Howe's Punch

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Red Wings, off to an amazing start in the National Hockey League race, keep on winning without much scoring help from the great Gordie Howe.

Howe, who has carried the Red Wings for years, went through another scoreless game Thursday night. But the unbeaten Red Wings won again, 4-0 over New York Rangers.

It was the sixth victory for the Wings, who also have two ties in their first eight games of the 1962-63 campaign.

The win enabled the Wings to retain a one-point hold on first place over Chicago Black Hawks.

"Terry Sawchuk and our defence—those are the reasons for our winning," said coach Sid Abel, who once played on the same line with Howe.

Howe, dominant figure in the Red Wings' long championship reign in the 1950s, has scored only three goals this season. He has assisted on three others and is far from his accustomed spot among the NHL's scoring leaders.

"Sure, this is a slow start for me," said the 34-year-old veteran. "But I've always been pretty much of a slow starter."

Abel insists Howe is not slowing down.

"His line's been playing well. Gordie may not be scoring much. But that's because I'm resting him much more than I ever did before. He used to play much more than half of every game. No more. I want to save his legs for later in the season. Don't worry, he'll score plenty."

William Head XI Meets Firemen

William Head, on a scoring binge that has netted 27 goals in two outings, meets Firefighters at William Head in the top game of Saturday's Combination Soccer League schedule.

In Saturday's other match, Victoria College hosts Falcons at Gordon Head.

In last weekend's games, William Head trimmed College 11-1, Firefighters nipped Royal Roads 3-2, and Malahat Tars downed Falcons 6-2.

B.C. HOSTS SASKATCHEWAN . . . . . . FOGGY FROLIC?

Lions Must Win or it Won't Be Fun

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Western Football Conference regular schedule winds up Saturday with second place and a batch of individual titles and records at stake.

Saskatchewan Roughriders meet British Columbia Lions in Vancouver in a bid to overhaul Calgary Stampeders in second place.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, with first place tucked away, play host to their old and honored rival of a decade, Edmonton Eskimos.

Last-place Edmonton and the Lions are out of the playoffs. Calgary, Saskatchewan and Winnipeg are in.

But rushing, passing, pass-catching and scoring titles or records hang on the outcome of the two games.

B.C. quarterback Joe Kapp needs 275 more yards passing to surpass the single-season record of 3,274 yards set by Frank Tripucka with Saskatchewan.

Two of Kapp's team-mates, fullback Nub Beamer and halfback Willie Fleming, are vying for the rushing title. Beamer leads 1,113 to 954.

Kapp may not get a full-fledged opportunity to break Tripucka's mark because Mel Melin from Washington State, is scheduled to alternate at quarter.

Fog, which has blanketed the Vancouver area for five days, may complicate things if it stays around. A Vancouver game Oct. 25, 1954, was postponed when the fog rolled in.

B.C. coach Dave Skrein, without playoffs to worry about, says: "It will be a fun game, but it won't be fun if we don't win."

The Riders want the win because a second - place finish would give them the right to select the site of the first game of the two-game, total - point semi-final against Calgary. Winnipeg has a bye into the final.

Winnipeg coach Bud Grant says he plans to shuffle his lineup for his rubber match with Edmonton. The clubs have each won one game in two meetings this year.

Joe Williams, an import from Iowa, will replace regular fullback Charlie Shepard, who will sit this one out.

"Unless Williams goes wild, Shepard will be the starting fullback in the playoffs," Grant said. Other shifts are along the line and in linebacking positions.

The game pits Edmonton end Tommy - Joe Coffey against Gerry James of Winnipeg to decide the conference scoring title.

Coffey has 118 points and James 110. Coffey is also out to break the single-season pass reception record of 68 jointly held by Grant and Winnipeg end Ernie Pitts. Coffey has 63 receptions to date.

Buffalo Faithful Finds This Cookie Digestible, Good

By MARTIN GLEASON

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — In the past, Carlton (Cookie) Gilchrist was known as the "bad boy of the Canadian League"; now he's the terror of the American Football League.

But there's a big difference.

In Canada, Cookie's off-the-field escapades drew as much notice as his on-the-field accomplishments.

This season with Buffalo Bills he's making news strictly with his football talent. And there's a lot of it in his 243-pound frame.

There's no telling where the Bills would be this season if it weren't for the willingness of general manager Dick Gallagher and coach Lou Saban to take a chance on Gilchrist.

Canadian Clubs had enough of the big 27-year-old fullback's extra-curricular shennanigans and waived him out of the league after eight top-flight seasons with Hamilton, Saskatchewan and the Toronto Argonauts.

The Bills, sorely in need of a running threat, decided to take a chance on Cookie.

They lost their first five games this season before their offensive finally began to show its strength. Gilchrist's rushes made the passing of Warren Rabb more effective.

And now the Bills have beaten San Diego Chargers, Oakland Raiders and Denver Broncs on successive weekends for their longest winning streak of their three years in the AFL.

Today Gilchrist ranks as the leading ground-gainer in the league, with 618 yards in 114 carries for an eight-game average of 5.4 yards. His closest rival, Charley Tolar of Houston Oilers, trails Gilchrist by 133 yards. Cookie holds fourth place in the AFL scoring race with 60 points on nine touchdowns and two field goals.

That's the Way I Make My Living

Gilchrist's efforts has made Buffalo the No. 1 rushing team in the American League.

The successful transition from Canadian to American-style football did not surprise the 6-foot, 2½-inch Negro star. "This is the way I make my living," he said candidly.

Cookie, born in Brackenridge, Pa., made the jump from scholastic football to the professional game with ease and earned all-Canada fullback rating five times. He also developed as a field goal kicker and defensive specialist.

Cookie, married and the father of two young sons, makes his home in Toronto, during the off-season.

Comparing the AFL with Canadian Football, Gilchrist said that "individually, Canada has better players but that is because the Canadian leagues have been established longer."

Cookie said he was grateful for what he called his "second chance," after leaving Canada. "I love to carry that ball and this way I hope I can repay the wonderful Buffalo coaching staff for their faith in me and the fantastic fans who have welcomed me without restraint."

Buffalo's attendance this year will attest to Gilchrist as a drawing card. With two home games left, Buffalo has attracted 126,928, just 6,510 shy of the 1961 total.

Hugh Good Luck For Hole-In-One

Vic Painter has to share some of the hole-in-one honors with Hugh Thorburn.

Painter scored the fourth ace of his long career on Colwood's 15th hole while playing in a foursome with Wally Connerton, Buster Shade and Thorburn.

It was the second time within two weeks Thorburn was playing in a foursome when an ace was scored.

Sailors' M Boys Tough on Rivals

Toronto Maple Leafs have their "Big M" (Frank Mahovlich), but Navy has its "Double M."

Navy and Esquimalt Pontiac Chiefs clash tonight for first place in the Esquimalt District Hockey League and if the Chiefs want a monopoly on the top berth they have to find a way of shackling the "M Boys" — Wayne McLeod and Ken Maxwell.

Currently deadlocked with Chiefs, Navy has collected eight goals in chalking up two straight wins and most of the scoring punch has been tossed by McLeod and Maxwell.

McLeod has accounted for half those tallies. He has also notched one assist to share the league scoring lead with Maxwell, who has made the plays for five goals.

One point behind with three goals and an assist is Army's Bob Larson. Three Chiefs—Ben Price, Bill German and Bob Fowler—and Bob McNab of Army are next in line with three points each.

Navy and Chiefs will try to settle their differences at 9:15. Vikings and Army, each looking for a first win, clash in the opener of tonight's twin bill at 7:45.

DON'T LOOSEN GRIP AT TOP OF BACKSWING

KEEP FIRM GRIP

I always advise golfers to grip the club firmly but not tightly.

A firm grip is one that will not loosen or lose control of the club at the top of the backswing, as shown in today's illustration. This is the usual point where a loose grip shows up. A firm grip, too, will keep the clubhead straight and moving through the ball at impact. A loose grip at impact can cause the ball to squirt off in any direction.

A tight grip will be uncomfortable as you address the ball. You will feel a tight grip hurting your backswing by affecting your wrists as they cock. In fact, a tight grip will tend to make your whole body tense and affect your swing throughout.

Forget Those Figures Suggests Vamps' Pilot

"Forget about the statistics," suggests coach Vic Gallop as he prepares Victoria Vampires for the start of the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League final.

Vampires and Nanaimo Redmen open a two-game, total-points series for the Island title at Macdonald Park Sunday, and the season's figures leave little doubt that the Hub City crew will rule as favorites to pick up the marbles.

Redmen romped through the league schedule with six successive victories while the Vamps had an even record of three wins and three defeats as they finished in a second-place tie with Campbell River Raiders.

"These figures don't mean too much," says Gallop. "We're a much better club than we were a month ago."

VAMPIRES HIT

Results in the semifinal playoffs hint that Vic may not be whistling in the dark. Vampires turned on the heat against Campbell River in the playoffs, taking the semifinal by scores of 45-6 and 43-19 while Redmen were polishing off Oak Bay Farmers 29-6 and 33-13.

Showing the rewards of diligent training, the Vamps flashed a smooth, versatile attack in the semis. With quarterback Brian Rigby rounding into top condition after missing the early part of the season, they mixed potent passing with a solid ground game.

One of the big reasons Vic's crew was able to pile up yardage against the Raiders was the outstanding blocking of offensive linemen that gave fullbacks Darrel Thom—perhaps the league's best all-round player—and Neil Worboys room to ramble for long gains.

That blocking, Rigby's passing and a set of backs that can scamper will be working for the Vampires when the final opens at Macdonald Park Sunday at 2.

Gallop figured it could add up to an uncomfortable afternoon for the Redmen.

RUSSIANS ACCEPT BID

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Two Russian horses will compete in the Washington, D.C. International Nov. 12 at Laurel race track.

Laurel officials had just about given up hope that the Russians would compete for the fifth consecutive year, when they were informed by the U.S. state department that five Russian race officials had applied for visas from the American embassy in Moscow.

It was not known immediately which horses would be shipped to the U.S. The Russians have a blanket invitation to compete in the 1½-mile turf race.

PAINTED CROWN FOR FERRY QUEEN

Significant step toward launching date for new B.C. Toll Authority ferry Queen of Saanich (right) was taken at Victoria Machinery Depot Ltd. Thursday when crane operator Alec Bone hoisted pre-fabricated funnel aboard. Already painted and with twin "hooters" installed, the funnel was in sharp contrast to unpainted hulls of Queen of Saanich and her sister, Queen of Esquimalt. Construction of both ferries is well ahead of schedule; Queen of Saanich will be launched later this month.

MONTE ROBERTS

Some of my best friends are printers.

And they are continually doing things to prove their friendship.

The latest example of the printers' friendly concern for my welfare occurred last Monday, when I wrote a brief explanation of how I failed to go to San Francisco.

During the course of this treatise, I apologized for appearing to talk through my hat, and said this was because I did not wish to betray millinery secrets.

Fortunately, one of my printer friends (I do not know which one, but I wish I did) rushed to my rescue.

"Poor old Monte," he no doubt said, "as usual, he can't even spell."

And he carefully corrected "millinery secrets" to "military secrets."

Thus preserving the readers from another one of my typographical terrors.

(Let's see how THAT turns out in print.)

On to more important matters.

I have it on the best of authority, namely, the Cats' Protection League, that this is National Cat Week.

It appears one of the objectives of National Cat Week is to campaign against the neglect of cats. Also, the CPL is anxious to help anyone who has a cat problem.

I have to confess I have been neglecting a cat, Little Miss Muffet by name, and also that I have a cat problem.

The way I have been neglecting Muffet is this: All self-respecting columnists use resident cats, dogs, budgies or tame white rats as material for a dissertation at least once a week.

And I have neglected to even mention Miss Muffet in this space for months.

In my defence, all I can say is this: I have neglected Miss Muffet because I have a cat problem.

My problem is, there is evidence she is afraid of birds.

You can see why I have neglected to report on a cat who is afraid of birds.

In the first place, I felt it would be degrading to the cat. In the second place, I doubted that anyone would believe me.

But, not wishing to be accused of neglecting a cat during National Cat Week, I am duty bound to report that Miss Muffet does not chase birds, nor is she afraid of dogs. On the contrary, she is ready to send any invading canine home at the double; but when the birds appear at our feeding station—the cat wants in, but quick.

Only when she is separated from the birds by a securely-locked window will she even look at them.

So there's my confession, Cats' Protection League. I have been neglecting my cat, and I have a cat problem.

Could you recommend a good catiatrist?

SYNNOVE PETTERSEN

Synnove Just Misses

Synnove Pettersen, the "Miss Victoria" of 1962, placed second in a contest for the Queen of Montreal Fashion.

Although she missed the first spot, the blonde 18-year-old "had a ball," she said on her arrival back in Victoria.

And as a consolation prize she was given a striking party dress of midnight blue matte satin. A 19-year-old girl from Lachute, Que., won the contest.

The Montreal contest was for models. Miss Pettersen was sponsored by the Hudson Bay Company of Victoria and was the only B.C. girl entered.

She will enter the Miss Canada contest later this year.

Sunshine to Return As Fog Curtain Lifts

Fog that closed Victoria International Airport to incoming and outgoing flights from 4:30 p.m. Thursday until shortly before noon today will lay a clammy but not very heavy hand on Saanich Peninsula tonight.

According to meteorologist William Mackie, improved visibility and increasing sunshine is in store for Victoria over the weekend. At the same time, south Vancouver Island can say farewell to what the weatherman described as its "fools' paradise" of unseasonably high temperatures.

Mercury is expected to drop to the upper 30s overnight, and daytime temperatures aren't likely to climb past 58 degrees. While the Island west coast shared bright sunshine with the upper Fraser Valley, other areas groped through a fogbelt which extended south along the Pacific coast.

Today the mainland experienced a rash of minor car and train accidents, with airline schedules set back or knocked out completely. At presstime, officials were still undecided as to whether the Saturday night Western Football Conference game between Saskatchewan Roughriders and B.C. Lions would be postponed.

At Patricia Bay, fog which had socked in the runways began to thin about 8:30 a.m. Shortly before noon, with ceiling unlimited and visibility expanded to three-quarters of a mile, the first flight in 17 hours took off for Seattle.

NO ACCIDENTS

Ferry systems reported no trouble or delay due to fog, and on land, Victoria drivers turned in an accident-free score.

Vancouver's fog blanket was the thickest in five days, but one airline official said there would probably be enough clearing this afternoon to allow use of runways and to make up two and three-hour delays in both incoming and outgoing flights.

The limited visibility was blamed for the collision of two long freight trains at Port Coquitlam east of Vancouver. The accident occurred on the CPR main line when one train rammed another that normally would have been on a siding. The siding was under repair.

As usual, the fog was most obstinate over Vancouver harbor, where earlier in the week a P and O-Orient liner suffered a minor collision and a freighter rammed a grain dock.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A Hillside grocery store was broken into overnight Wednesday and 15 cartons of cigarettes, butter, bologna and jars of hair dressing stolen.

The burglars entered through a bathroom window of the Handy Grocery, 794 Hillside, and then removed two locked doors leading to the store interior by removing pins from the hinges.

Total value of the goods stolen was less than $60.

They were surprised while taking the cabbages by the owner of the field, William Mar, 6275 Old East Saanich Road, in the late afternoon.

They fled in a car, but Mr. Mar took down their licence number.

Chief steward of a Norwegian-registered ship pleaded guilty in city police court Thursday to having undeclared cigarettes and liquor in his possession, October 30.

He was fined $75 and $3.50 costs.

Frank Sunde, of the Mv. Ellen Bakke, was charged for bringing in a quantity of undeclared goods, with less than $200 duty value.

Doctor Loses Over $400, Diamonds In Parking Lot

A Vancouver doctor lost some diamonds and over $400 in cash on the parking lot of St. Joseph's Hospital.

Dr. W. K. Sproule, 926 West Georgia, Vancouver, took his wallet out of his pocket to give some information to a hospital employee.

Later, he discovered the wallet missing.

It contained four $100 bills, a $1 bill, a diamond tie-pin and a loose diamond.

Prison Terms For Two Men In Safe Theft

Defence Called 'Beyond Belief'

Two men were given two-and-a-half year prison sentences in city police court today for theft of a safe from a downtown car washing business Oct. 21.

Ronald A. Curran, no fixed address, and Theodore E. Stephens, 255 Quebec, were found guilty Thursday of the theft from the Five-Minit Car Wash, 855 Pandora.

Another man, Kenneth Jay, 563 Burnside, arrested with them, was due to be sentenced today, but was remanded until Tuesday because the probation officer hadn't interviewed him.

Const. Kent Anthony testified he arrived, on his motorcycle, at the rear of the parking lot on which the car-wash is situated, approaching from Johnson Street, and saw the trio with a car backed up to the door.

BENT OVER SAFE

Jay was bending over a safe which was in the trunk of the car, and the other two men were standing in the doorway. Const. Anthony said he recognized Stephens when he shined his flashlight on the men.

He shouted: "Hold it right there."

Jay remained where he was, but the other two ran around the building.

"I heard another motorcycle pull up. Knowing this was Const. (Joseph) Ferguson, I yelled 'Grab those two, Joe.'"

Const. Ferguson said he saw Stephens and Curran run toward him and jump over a low fence which bordered the parking lot. Curran fell and Stephens hesitated, then the two ran in opposite directions.

'BETTER STOP'

The constable said he made a motion for his revolver and shouted at the running men: "You better stop, I mean it."

He testified the two men surrendered.

Curran and Stephens denied they had any part in the theft. They intimated Jay had lifted the 250-pound safe into the trunk on his own.

PASSING THROUGH

Stephens told police he was out for a walk he took regularly to "knock the habit cold," and was just passing through the lot when police arrived.

Curran said Jay had phoned him at a cafe and told him to come down to the lot to "help" him. He denied knowing what sort of help was wanted.

Magistrate William Ostler, in pronouncing the two men guilty, said the defence was "just simply beyond belief."

JACK SCRIVENER

City Native Appointed Scout Head

Jack V. Scrivener of Vancouver has been appointed executive commissioner of the Greater Victoria region, Boy Scouts of Canada.

He succeeds James Blain who left here Friday to become regional executive commissioner of the newly-formed Fraser Valley region extending from New Westminster to Boston Bar, with a scouting population of about 7,500.

AT OAK BAY

Born in Victoria, Mr. Scrivener was scoutmaster of St. Mary's Oak Bay Troop here from 1946 to 1948. Since then he has been a member of the executive staff of the Boy Scouts provincial council. For 12 years he served as field commissioner for the Okanagan-Kootenay area, with headquarters in Penticton.

SINCE 1934

Since January he has been assistant provincial executive commissioner, with headquarters in Vancouver. He has been associated with scouting since 1934 and is a former King's Scout, Rover Scout and holder of the Bushman's Thong.

Mr. Scrivener served overseas with the RCAF and was shot down over Germany while attached to the RAF Pathfinder force. He was a prisoner of war at Stalag Luft 1 for 13 months.

He is married and has two sons and a daughter.

Committee Completes Full Study

A ratepayer vote on the proposed civic square precinct project was assured today.

Formal decision to propose a money bylaw at next month's civic election was taken by the special City Hall committee after two days of intensive technical study.

"We will ask city council to put a bylaw to the people which will be a little more than the first preliminary estimate but will still be under $1,000,000," a source disclosed.

The original guesstimate for the project was $750,000.

It includes rehabilitation of the present City Hall, construction of an addition, relocating part of Pandora Avenue, closing a block of Cormorant, creating a civic square, revamping the old Pantages Theatre into a civic theatre, building a restaurant and a senior citizens' recreational centre.

COMPLETE PLAN

The committee's study resulted in a fully-rounded proposal covering schedules for construction and financing of the project.

But it all hinges on a favorable vote by ratepayers.

"We certainly hope the people will support this program," said Acting-Mayor Arthur Dowell.

"It will revitalize our downtown area and give us a civic precinct we can be proud of.

"I also feel that although we have to borrow to start it, a great portion of the work can be repaid from anticipated civic revenues over the next few years."

(Recommendation to sell some city-owned Store Street property Thursday for $66,000, could help finance some aspect of the project.)

Delayed Action Fire Destroys Basement

A fire which broke out in the basement of a vacant house on Tillicum Road early today could have been a delayed reaction from a Halloween firecracker.

Saanich fire department rushed to the vacant house at 3055 Tillicum about 1 a.m., to find the basement burning "like a furnace."

Flames were licking out from under the frame house on all sides.

TWO-HOUR FIGHT

Firemen battled the blaze for two hours in cramped quarters and in heavy smoke which issued from two piles of sawdust in the basement.

A passer-by noticed the flames licking up the sides of the house, and notified Mrs. Roland Thom, who lives across the road at 3040 Tillicum.

Mrs. Thom phoned the fire department.

It is believed the fire started in one of the sawdust piles, which might have smouldered after a cigarette or firecracker had landed in it.

The basement of the five-room house was gutted, but no estimate of the total damage has been made.

Runaway Car Causes Crash

A runaway car was the cause of an accident at Thursday noon on Hillside Ave.

Fred Ranson, 3055 Rutland, was driving east on Hillside when a car belonging to Mrs. Grace Garrison, rolled backwards into his path out of a driveway at 1367 Hillside.

Mr. Ranson braked sharply and was struck in the rear by a car driven by Joe N. Ward, 1612 Myrtle.

The rolling car was not involved in the crash and stopped across the road.

Shop Arcade Project Studied for Empress

A shopping arcade housing five or nine speciality shops may be built on the northwest corner of the Empress Hotel lawns, directly facing Victoria and Island Tourist Bureau on the Causeway, during the next 12 months.

Empress manager Cyril Chapman disclosed today that several Victoria firms are interested in building the arcade and renting the shops to retailers.

'TASTEFUL'

It would be a "tastefully-constructed" one-storey building, no more than 15 feet high, and occupying less than a third of an acre of the front lawn space near Humboldt Street.

The arcade would stand between a driveway to the hotel coffee shop and the left-hand corner of the sidewalk fronting the hotel with entrances on both sides.

"What we have in mind are small specialty shops selling antiques, souvenirs and novelties that will tone in with the general atmosphere of the hotel.

KEEP TREES

"Only the front left-hand corner of the hotel lawns will be built on. Some of the bushes would have to go, but we would keep the trees bordering the sidewalk."

Mr. Chapman said whether the arcade is built to house five or nine shops would depend on the applications for rental. If only five shops are needed the lawn space required would be nearer a quarter than a third of an acre.

He added that, before the arcade is built, the plans will have to be approved by N. R. Crump, president of Canadian Pacific Railways, and then by the city council.

"But I am hopeful the project will go ahead."

NO HIGH-RISE

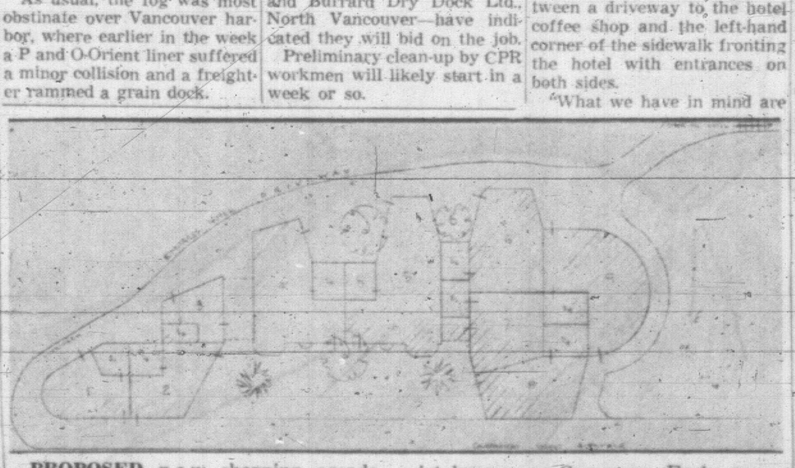
Mr. Chapman denied a current rumor that a high-rise apartment is to be built on the hotel gardens facing Belleville and the civil service car park.

"The CPR has no intention of putting up any such building," he said.

He added that the hotel is anxious to double or triple its car parking capacity at the rear of the hotel and, if this is done, a gas station—not a repair garage—might be installed.

"Extra car space could be provided by building up or down—or both. That is by having an underground car park and/or upstairs parking space.

"If possible we would like to have the whole extension underground."



PROPOSED new shopping arcade fronting Empress Hotel near Humboldt is outlined in preliminary artist's sketch. Housing five or nine novelty shops (as numbered), arcade would stand about 15 feet high facing tourist bureau on Causeway. Early suggestion is that building should have leaded "old world" window panes with small domes on the roof, and would be built around existing trees in hotel garden area.

All Major Yards To Submit Bids

Specifications for the conversion of CPSS Princess Patricia from a day steamer to a luxury cruise ship are expected to be ready next week, at which time tenders will be called from B.C. shipyards.

The Patricia, built for the triangle service and lately used on the Nanaimo - Vancouver and Victoria-Seattle runs, will serve in the popular Alaska summer trade, replacing Princess Louise.

All three major B.C. yards—Yarrows Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot in Victoria and Burrard Dry Dock Ltd., North Vancouver—have indicated they will bid on the job.

Preliminary clean-up by CPR workmen will likely start in a week or so.

A. Einar M. Gunderson sat in the B.C. legislature for one session only—in 1953 as member for Similkameen. He was appointed finance minister in Premier Bennett's first cabinet on Aug. 1, 1952, although he was not an MLA. Socred H. D. Francis resigned his Similkameen seat and Mr. Gunderson won it in a byelection Nov. 12. In the 1953 general election he was defeated in Oak Bay by the late Liberal P. A. Gibbs. Another Socred, Percy Wright, resigned his Victoria seat, but Mr. Gunderson was again defeated there Nov. 24, 1953, by Liberal George Gregory. Premier Bennett then took over as finance minister.

All you need is a German measuring cup marked in grams for sugar, flour, rice, barley, raisins, lentels, cocoa, salt and liquids. This is a cone-shaped plastic cup which stands on a firm plastic base. The price—95 cents.

For the famous German honey cookies there are packages of all the proper spices, gingerbread, mixed spices and cardomon at 12 cents a piece. Another ingredient for many European cookies is beet syrup. This is 49 cents for a 16-ounce jar.

It is wiser and safer to use a European baking powder for recipes from that part of the world and this is also available in a 12-cent package.

Other ingredients are, vanilla-flavored sugar at 29 cents a package and 10-cent vials of artificial flavoring, almond, rum and vanilla are some of the ones in stock.

German corn starch at 28 cents a box is supposedly the finest in the world.

Penny once lived with one of Germany's great cooks and the only failures that she witnessed were on the occasions when Canadian ingredients were used in German recipes and vice versa.

Special baking tins are also available for making those delicious fruit patiseries—you know—the kind with a thick crumbly crust on the bottom and a fruit filling in the middle. The tin is designed so that when you have baked the crust you can turn it out on to a plate and the indented side is right side up, ready for the filling.

Large size tins are 80 cents and individual tins, 14 cents.

For those who want to go continental the easy way, the Christmas supply of plain and chocolate-coated honey cookies has just arrived from Germany. Cookies are anywhere from 35 to 89 cents a package.

DEAR ABBY . . .

It's a Strange Philosophy

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband asks my advice about money matters, then he does as he pleases and we end up in a financial mess. I am ashamed to admit that we have been married 29 years and don't own a thing. He spends every quarter before he makes it and buys things on time. I keep telling him we need security for our old age and he says, "Let the country bury us." I even tried to get him to start a little savings account and he says that's the trouble with our economy today, everyone is saving, which causes a depression. Money should be kept in circulation at all times. I'm too old to work and he's too sweet to leave. Now what?

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: The country will "bury you." But if your husband's thinking ever becomes universal, the country (and the people) will be digging its own grave.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My brother-in-law is under the impression that you may take home from a night club, restaurant or hotel, ash trays or anything else that has the establishment's name on it. He claims it is their form of advertising and they expect people to take things. I say it is stealing. I would like to have your opinion on the subject.

M.

DEAR M.: No one has the right to assume he may help himself. A person who would slip items into his pocket (or purse) and rationalize it with the excuse that it's "expected" —or "it's a form of advertising" —is a petty thief or a cheapskate. Or both.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: In reply to "Puzzled Waitress": I think the reason most people sit down at a cluttered table before it is cleared off is so they can get to the tip before the waitress does.

WHY GROW OLD?

Mild Exercise May Help You Gain Where You Want

Q. "I need to build up the muscles in my lower legs. They are straight up and down. However, I hesitate to exercise because I am afraid it will make me lose weight and I am already underweight. What can I do?"

Lowman

A. Mild exercise will not cause you to lose. In fact, it may increase your appetite and help you gain weight. Do the following exercise. Stand erect. Walk about the room. Rise as high as possible on your toes for two steps, then lower your heels for the next two steps, then up again for two steps and heels down the next two. Keep this up for a while. Rest and walk some more.

Q. "Could you answer this for me? If someone didn't eat any of their meals but ever so often chewed some food and then spit it out, would she gain weight? I know a girl who does this."

A. I would not believe anyone could be so foolish—except that I myself know of a similar instance. A girl at boarding school ate her meals because she had to, and then later stuck her finger down her throat in order to lose them. She wanted to become very slim. Yet, this student was not a moron. In fact she was quite bright.

Teen-agers who do not eat correctly are endangering their health and the health of their future children. Not only that, but they are also ruining their good looks. Malnutrition is not flattering to the eyes or hair or skin, or even the personality.

Q. "Please, please answer this in your column. I am 11 years old, 4 feet, 11 inches tall, and weigh 88 pounds. I would like to know how much overweight I am. I am so unhappy about it. I don't go to parties because of it."

A. I hope you never have anything more real to worry about than this. You are not at all overweight but just exactly right. Come out of hiding and enjoy yourself.

Q. "Does exercise make you larger or smaller? My sisters argue about this."

A. Exercise is a normalizer of the figure. If there are fatty deposits, it helps get rid of them. On the other hand, underdeveloped muscles are rounded out. It is a body beautifier in any case.

Wood-Crawford Vows In Full Choral Service

In a full choral service, Roberta Jo-Ann Crawford exchanged vows with Ronald Keith Wood in St. John's Anglican Church. Canon George Biddle officiated at the double-ring ceremony that united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Stewart Crawford of Victoria and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norris L. Wood of Calgary.

Entering the church on her father's arm, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of white satin brocade, patterned in rose design. Seed pearls shimmered on the scooped neckline and sleeves ended in lily points.

The full skirt was fashioned with a bouffant bustle at back. Shoulder length veil of illusion net misted from a pearl tiara. Her spray bouquet of Duchess roses was bound with blue ribbons and contained a spray of myrtle for luck. Only jewelry was culture pearl ear rings, gift of the groom.

ATTENDANTS

Peau de soie gowns in three blending shades of cyclamen were choice of matron of honor, Mrs. R. Pettie, and bridesmaids, the Misses Karen Wood, sister of the groom, and Miss Patricia Valentine, both of Calgary. Their small picture hats and shoes were en tone. They carried bouquets of silver leaves and a Duchess rose and rosebuds.

Dr. J. Mathison, Edmonton, was best man and ushers were FO R. Hicks, RCAF, Comox, and Douglas Kricken, Calgary. Robert Rhodes was organist. Miss Pamela Paver sang "The Lord's Prayer" during signing of the register. White chrysanthemums decorated the church.

Pink and white chrysanthemums decorated the parish hall where a reception was held. Miss Paver sang Greig's "I Love Thee," and J. Ingram Smith, "O Perfect Love." Tiny chrysanthemums in same shades flanked the three-tier wedding cake and white candles on the bride's table which was covered with a lace cloth made by her grandmother, Mrs. A. Leal, of Moose Jaw, Sask.

Canon Biddle proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

As her going-away outfit the bride chose a suit in winter black, with wine pillbox hat and black patent accessories. Her corsage was a cymbidium orchid.

After a honeymoon to Olympia and Portland, the newlyweds are now making their home in Vancouver.

IT'S A STORY

They Train But Still Have Fun

By PAT DUFOUR

They were just like any ordinary teen-agers as they sat around a large table in the coffee shop of the Empress Hotel, Thursday. The three girls were teased by boys in the party as they ate the usual hearty lunches that appeal to those in this age group.

Dufour

Said Patti Thompson, of Hamilton, as she "tucked in" to a heaping plate of roast pork, "We're supposed to watch our weight and take it easy on fried foods". Her words were punctuated by snickers of derision from their male companions.

These were the swimmers who will represent Canada at the British Empire Games in Perth, Australia, later this month. They arrived in Victoria a week ago to train "because Victoria has the only indoor 50-yard pool in Canada".

With Patti, on the distaff side, are Alison Glendenning and Madeleine Sevigny, both of Montreal. This is the first time that the three girls have entered international competition and, naturally enough, they are "really excited".

Later, they'll be joined by Mary Stewart, Vancouver, and Sara Barber, Brantford, Ont.

Like all young women who are off on a trip, the trio have all kinds of plans for souvenir shopping in Australia. Madeleine has set her heart on a stuffed koala bear, while Alison would "love to bring a live one back if I could get away with it." Knowing this to be hopeless, she'll settle for a boomerang.

Patti intends to get "some of those bulky sweaters for my brother Robert."

All have their Christmas lists along with them because it will be Dec. 19 before they get back to Canada.

SMART OUTFITS

Like any young girl, they're excited over the complete wardrobe that goes along with the swimming assignment. Says 16-year-old Alison: "We may not turn out to be the top winners—but we're sure to be the best-dressed ones!"

Their parade clothes are a red blazer, highlighted with a silver and gold maple leaf on the breast pocket; white Arnel dress with a pleated skirt and a "gorgeous" wide-brimmed white hat, perked up with a red headband.

For the flag-raising ceremony there are white culottes and red blouses. Travelling clothes include beige and navy blue skirts and "terrifically smart" red and white stacked-heel shoes.

But the "piece de resistance" that had the girls eager to take me up to their hotel rooms to view is their fun swim suits. "They're white, with gorgeous colored flowers all over them."

When they're in the "lanes" and trying to beat the stopwatch, our Canadian swimmers will splash to the finish line in smart red nylon racing suits.

All the clothes have been chosen by Mrs. Myrtle Cook McGowan, a newshen from the Montreal Star, who will be along on the trip as a reporter and assistant chaperone. Mrs. Margaret Lord, Hamilton, will be the chaperone.

After the Perth swims are over, the team will go to New Zealand where they will spend two weeks and enter in five swim meets.

Say the girls: "This will be like a real holiday. The tension will be off by then and we'll be able to relax."

But not for long. Allowing "time out" for Christmas, the girls will quickly return to the self-imposed work load that it takes for a swimmer to reach the top these days.

"We'll have to settle down to training almost right away. The Pan-American games will be held in Brazil next April and we'll have to work hard in order to qualify."

Captain's Dance In Venture

Captain's get-acquainted dance, first of the present season, will be held in HMCS Venture tonight from 8 until 11:30 p.m. Navy flags and bunting are being used in decorations and Vince Butler's orchestra will play for dancing.

In the receiving line will be the commanding officer, Capt. D. G. Padmore and Mrs. Padmore, and chief cadet captain A. T. Davidson and his partner, Miss Joan MacFarland.

Dance is being given for the junior cadets. Invited guests include the Misses Pat Blyth, Diana Brown, Sherry Brown, Nancy Burke, Carrol Cameron, Anne Charles, Joyce Chope, Sally Clark, Pat Daniel, Carole Dumbleton, Marion French, Joan Gerrie, Barbara Gill, Ronnie Harris, Colleen Hourigan, Deidre Humphries, Rosanne Idiens, Valerie Lawrie, Margaret Longden, Jeanette Longden, Mary MacKay, Josephi McDougall, Mary McMaster and Mary McNeill.

The Misses Gail Mebs, Sylvia Pelser, Judy Pope, Maureen Rafter, Vickey Rogers, Robbin Regan, Ginny Salmon, Susan Savage, Doreen Smith, Sharon Skinner, Carolyn Speakman, Diane Stewardson, Joan Thomas, Mavis Veness, Jill Winnett, Bernadette Duncan, Rose Marie Lavertu, Sally Lowndes, Brenda Noon, Linda Norman, Sandy Spotswood, Cheryl-Ann Watson, Mary Yeomans, Val Pentland, Trudy Walter, Jane Price and Sandy Davison.

Increase Knitting

LONDON (AP)—British women, no doubt helped by a few men, are breaking all knitting records this year, the International Wool Secretariat announced Saturday. By the end of August, they had used 29,000,000 pounds of knitting wool, an increase of nearly 4,000,000 pounds compared with the same period in 1961.

Flower Girl Has Many Memories

By MARGE GILROY

Victoria's first flower girl, Risha Golby, may not have been swept away by a Professor 'Iggins—as Eliza Doolittle was at Covent Gardens—but the Rochester Men's Choir left her head reeling when they surrounded and serenaded her with "I Want a Girl Just Like the Girl That Married Dear Old Dad."

Miss Golby, 15-year-old student at Westerham School, recalls this as one of the most thrilling experiences she had during a summer in which she met thousands of tourists and welcomed them to the city with posies.

Risha posed for photographers, was serenaded by choirs and was admired by many.

Posing for a photograph was not always as simple as it sounds according to one experience she recalls. "I had to take six practice walks up and down the steps of the Parliament Buildings for a newsreel photographer from California. It was an hour and a half before he finally got the picture he wanted."

Fortunately all photographers didn't demand such trial runs. Risha has received many snapshots of herself taken by tourists during the summer. One such admirer was the president of the Bell Telephone Company in California.

Going on board ship to greet Bob Hope was another thrilling experience for this school girl. "He asked me where I got my name and when I said it was from a Babylonian princess he said, 'From Babylon?' Then quickly added, 'Does that mean you babble on'?"

Among many questions that tourists asked this flower girl were such well remembered ones as "Did Queen Victoria live here?"

"Were the Parliament Buildings here when Queen Elizabeth the First reigned?"

To many visitors, the flower girl was more than a pleasant welcome to the city. Waterfront artists loved her and she was the subject on many sketch pads and canvasses.

DAWN TO DUSK

Bus drivers always watched for Risha and serenaded her as they drove by, to the delight of touring passengers.

All this may sound like a lot of fun and glamor but working days were often as long as those of the world-famous Eliza Doolittle in the Bernard Shaw play "Pygmalion" and its counterpart "My Fair Lady."

Risha Golby's day began at 7 a.m., when she picked up donated flowers from a central depot, then returned home to make up her supply of boutonnieres. Often, at 9:30 in the evening she was still welcoming tourists with a rose, a carnation or a lavender sachet. These sachets were made and donated by a group of women who include many newcomers to Victoria.

Risha's basket only held 12 dozen flowers at a time. On a busy day she had to make several trips home for refills. And when you realize that she gave away 10,000 flowers and close to 3,500 lavender sachets during the summer you know how many trips this must have meant.

TO PLEASE ALL

A true hostess, Risha did everything possible to please the visitors. After a few people had jokingly remarked that pink was not their color or that they preferred blue, she fixed up pots of dye and from then on she had carnations in every color imaginable.

In exchange for her flowers and friendly welcomes some visitors, mostly sailors coming in on foreign ships, gave Risha coins for souvenirs. In this collection she has a Communist dollar bill.

Now back at school during the week Risha is looking forward to winter weekends when she will be in the Empress Hotel (and outside if weather permits) still handing out her flowers and lavender sachets to tourists.

Risha Golby, posed in front of her flower cart, looks fondly at painting of herself in costume she wore when she greeted tourists during the summer months. She is dressed in the claret red velvet gown she will wear for the winter season. An authentic replica of the 1863-66 period, it is trimmed with lavender braid and ashes of roses lace. Painting is by Hester Wilkinson, well-known Victorian.

Tea Planned to Assist With Flower Girl Fund

Victoria's first flower girl scholarship, devised in this centennial year to create a way of presenting flowers as welcoming gifts to incoming tourists from Victoria citizens and to provide funds to assist the young girl chosen for the flower girl role, to attend college, was made possible through donations from individuals and firms and a small grant from the centennial society.

In order to make this a permanent project, to maintain a flower girl in the summer tourist season, at Christmas, Easter and on winter weekends, a sum of approximately $700 is needed yearly. Money would be used for the scholarship, costumes, maintenance and pins, ribbons and printing needs. (Flowers and sachets would still be donated).

With this in mind a group of feminine members of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce have arranged a fund-raising tea for men and women next Wednesday, November 7, from 2 to 5 p.m., in the Georgian Lounge at the Empress Hotel.

ATTRACTIONS

Tickets will include tea and a chance on more than 50 door prizes. There will be a small exhibition of garden and floral paintings by members of the Victoria Sketch Club and each person attending will be given a boutonniere flower by the present flower girl, Miss Risha Golby. Background organ music will be played by Mrs. K. Pulleyblank, member of the Icebreakers Club of Victoria and formerly of Edmonton.

Mrs. E. Brand is convening the planning committee and Miss Hilda Hesson and Mrs. T. O'D. (Avis) Walton, the tea arrangements.

Set Date

Engagement has been announced of Miss Beryl Cox, eldest daughter of Mrs. John Cox and the late John Cox of Coombs, B.C., to Mr. William Lionel Barnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Barnes of Victoria. Wedding wil take place Saturday, December 1, at 7:30 p.m. in St. Aidan's United Church. Attendants will be Mrs. Maxine Heppell, Mrs. Iris Neill, Mrs. Sylvia Harmon, Miss Norma Cox and Miss Gail Heppell. Best man will be Milton Barnes and Vic Vickers, Dick Foulks and Don Plimlott will be ushers.

Women's Guild, St. John's Anglican Church, Monday, at 2:30 p.m., lower hall.

Oranges and Lemons Will Star at Bazaar

Those with a taste for citrus fruits will enjoy novel bazaar arranged by the Victoria Branch Relief Society of the Latter Day Saints' Church, to be held at the church on Saturday, November 10, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Taking the idea from a suggestion in a magazine, the conveners have accented the orange and lemon theme by using these colors in aprons, pot holders and the myriad other articles that a good bazaar offers.

In the home-cooking field, the theme is carried out with such items as lemon nut bread, orange-flavored cakes and a score of other delectables.

The same theme will be repeated in the afternoon tea that will be served. Those with a "sweet tooth" will relish the home-made chocolates that will also be on sale.

For the children, there will be a fishpond and films.

Proceeds from the bazaar will be given to the building fund of the two-year-old church that has "now outgrown itself" and needs an auditorium and additional classrooms.

Hospital Work At Preview

A panel discussion on "Careers in a General Hospital Other Than Nursing" will be held at second meeting of the current "Career Preview" series, sponsored by Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club. Professions in the fields of laboratory technology, physiotherapy, X-ray technology and medical stenography will be studied.

Miss Elizabeth Clement will be moderator and speakers will be Miss Barbara Brethour, Mrs. Marion Schmidt, Miss Nancy Thomson and Miss Lorna Graham. Light refreshments will be served from 3:30 to 4 p.m.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Is there now to be a Marilyn Monroe cult?

Marilyn made an impression on the world that would have surprised her and is surprising some of her friends. Unasked, her fans in several countries have been mailing money (from small sums up to $1,000 in one instance) to Lee and Paula Strasberg wanting to "do something for Marilyn."

"She was such a lovely person—I would like to do something for her or in her name," the letters usually say, in effect.

Surprisingly, many people got the idea simultaneously and spontaneously, for no money was ever requested or needed.

Unlike the rise of the Jimmy Dean cult, this tribute is by adults who are calm and non-hysterical. One contribution was from France, and was for a few francs. The $1,000 was from an American whose name wasn't known to the Strasbergs.

They're at a loss as to what to do with what could become a considerable fund. A Marilyn Monroe scholarship or scholarships at the Actors Studio, perhaps? The tragedy is that the day she died Marilyn never knew so many people loved her.

"Carol," he was telling Jesse Block and Eve Sully, "wants to work—she's got to because she's always hungry. I've seen her eat five steaks for dinner after eight double lamb chops for breakfast. One night in Las Vegas she took the remains of a steak dinner to the Judy Garland show, in the same sack with her contact lenses which she puts on at the show. Then she complained that Judy's makeup was streaky. The fact was, of course, Judy's makeup was okay; but Carol had gravy in her eyes."

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Leo Petrone, age 13, of Pittsburgh, Pa., for his question:

How did the bird of paradise get its name?

This story begins with the bold mariners who took their fragile sailing ships farther and farther across the unknown oceans of the world. They found the fascinating island of New Guinea even before Magellan rounded the world and then returned to Europe loaded with amazing tales and trophies. Some of the treasures were bird skins covered with breath-taking plumage.

These skins had been removed from their native birds and prepared by the natives of New Guinea. In order to display the flat skins of dazzling plumage it was customary to remove the feet and legs from the birds. In this condition the gorgeous objects were shown to the courts and the nobles of Europe. Everyone was breathless with admiration.

But admiration was mixed with bewilderment. No one, remember, had seen the living birds because the skins arrived without feet and legs. We cannot blame the admirers for wondering how these birds walked, perched or coped with life on the ground. But we cannot blame them for making up a story to explain the mystery instead of solving it with sensible scientific investigation.

The story they invented was absurd. These birds, they reasoned, must spend their entire lives in the air. And a silly story usually has a sillier ending.

High-Flown Explanation

It was necessary to explain also how the young birds were born. It was decided that the mother must lay her eggs in the flowing plumage of the father bird and the babies were hatched up there high in the skies of Paradise.

The gorgeous creatures were then named birds of paradise. They are beautiful enough to inhabit Paradise, but the original tale about them is far from the truth. Mrs. Bird of Paradise is a drab-colored lady who builds the nest, hatches the eggs and does all the family chores. The gorgeous father bird does nothing but strut around to be admired.

Andy sends a Hammond's Library World Atlas to Katherine Jennings, age 12, of Scarborough, Ont., Can., for her question:

Why do penguins live only in Antarctica?

Not all penguins live in Antarctica. Some species live in the balmy waters around Australia and nearby islands. Some live on the Galapagos Islands of the Pacific right near the equator. All the penguin cousins wear the neat black and white evening attire, but some of them never see a cube of ice. None of them live north of the equator.

Recent diggings in Antarctica reveal that penguin ancestors were there at least 50 million years ago. At this remote time, the flighty song birds had developed in the temperate zones and the south polar regions were somewhat isolated from the unfolding stream of life. Penguins love to voyage on drifting ice floes and various ancestors traveled through the southern seas but none of them seem to have explored the northern hemisphere.

MAKING MARRIAGE MORE REWARDING

The 'Mighty Giant' is a Hoax

Howard Whitman, noted writer on human affairs, in this series, points ways to make your marriage more vibrant, more exciting — more like you aways dreamed it would be.

By HOWARD WHITMAN

There are two things to get straight about your husband right away: One, he is a dauntless, mighty giant. Two, he is a fearful little boy.

Whitman

The wife who fails to recognize the giant in her husband cannot possibly fill his needs. Think of it: He grew up in a culture which demands that its young boys gird themselves to conquer all obstacles, to "make good," to achieve, to make their mark in the world. Somehow, the husband has to satisfy an inner demand that he has made good—he is a success—at least in somebody's eyes. Love persists and grows stronger when that somebody is his wife.

But the giant is a hoax. And the giant himself really knows it. In his quiet moments, in the loneliness of the middle of the night, he recognizes an inner self which is pleading to the world for a little affection, a little approval, and a lot of sympathy. It has always been so. Euripides wrote in ancient Greece, "Man's best possession is a sympathetic wife."

Men are essentially weak. Their brash, swashbuckling exteriors are but armor for a very vulnerable inside. Modern science has come more and more to recognize this. Anthropologist Ashley Montagu has written of "the natural superiority of women." And many a psychiatrist will tell you that man, though he can lift a heavier weight and make a bigger muscle, is the weaker sex emotionally. To compensate, he girds himself with the breastplates of authority, decisiveness, power and command.

Gives Him Strength

All this the wise wife knows. She gives her husband strength and lets him take the bows. As Sir James Barrie put it in the play, "What Every Woman Knows," "Every man who is high up loves to think that he has done it all himself; and the wife smiles, and lets it go at that."

In the little town of Saint-Jean-de-Quebec, couples with marriage problems come to the social service agency just as they do in the metropolises like Montreal and Chicago. And their problems are quite the same. Mlle. Francoise Benoit of the Service Social de Saint-Jean, said to me, "We find that the husband wants most of all to know that his wife has confidence in him. He wants to know that to her he is always the 'great man'." And this is especially important, Mlle. Benoit pointed out, because "so often the outside world makes the husband feel very small."

The boss may fail to appreciate George, and George can take that, but if Mary fails to appreciate him, too, love may be dealt a mortal blow. Mary, if she wants that love to flourish, must truly see George as her hero. If the boss doesn't promote George, it's the boss who is stupid. If a younger man is edging George out, why anyone can see it's just politics. Don't worry, someday they'll wake up and really appreciate George! He's smarter than all of them!

Fact of Life

Now right here a word of caution. George may come home at the end of a day with more frustrations than he can bear. This outside world may get mighty tough on occasion. His emotional self, though invisible, may be bloodied with the barbs of nasty customers, the clawing of an irascible boss, the bludgeoning of a big work load.

When this man comes home he may take some of it out on Mary. This is a fact of life; this she must learn to cope with and absorb. The man is simply releasing inner pressure through a safety valve. Better to blow off some of that steam than to crack up from the pressure. After the big blow, when George's tensions are relieved, the odds are 10 to one he'll apologize to Mary for jumping on her. He'll love her a little more, too, for taking it. And by and by perhaps both of them can build a greater strength in George, so that he can take tension and frustration more maturely.

Build up that man. Marriage counsellor Lester Dearbon of Boston, after working with thousands of cases, said to me, "The wives I admire most are those who have been able to transform their marriage from weak ones to strong, happy ones by building up the virility of their husbands—by making them feel that they are successful males."

The author and critic Virgilia Peterson wrote, in her autobiography, of the good husband (whom she called "Mr. Right") and the bad husband (whom she called ("Mr. Wrong") and how the only real difference between them was, in many cases, the wife.

Can Change Him

"Why did I not find out for myself until now, after so much havoc, that more often than not one can, if one puts both mind and heart to it, turn Mr. Wrong into Mr. Right?" asked the authoress. And she concluded that successful marriages are made "by women willing and able to make patient, ungrudging compromises; that the rightest of Mr. Rights, if one did not continually strive at no matter what price to one's ego to please and promote him, might overnight, as it were, become Mr. Wrong."

There are the big boulders that can crush the love of a husband, but there also are the nasty little stones that can trip that love so often that eventually it won't get up for more. The shrewish wife is as much a menace today as she was in the days of the Bible, when it was written, "It is better to dwell in the corner of the housetop than with a brawling woman in a wide house."

Do you want to see how nagging works? Here is a good example:

A husband and wife had been having a tiff. Finally the husband decided to give in. He graciously took the blame and apologized to his wife. But she, instead of accepting the apology in good spirit, proceeded to rasp at him, "Well, you'd better apologize—it's all your fault. And anyway, that's the first time you've apologized in 10 years."

Thus assailed, what did the husband say? He simply said, "And it's the last."

The tiff was on again.

Nagging Infantile

Ohio Bishop Hazen O. Werner, chairman of the Methodist General Committee on Family Life, asserts, "Most marriage bonds are not broken on the rocks in a great storm; they are worn away by the endless battering of pebbles—sarcastic words, wanton irritations, petty acts of vengeance, intentional slights and embarrassments, naggings and accusations."

Nagging is infantile. It is a babyish squawk preserved in the brine of immaturity for three or four decades. Some women resort to crying, some to harping, and some to the incessant repetition of demands—a gambit which may have produced results for them in childhood.

W. Clark Ellzey, professor of education for marriage at Stephens College, Missouri, reports a case where one wife, while she was pregnant, got her husband to buy her a fur coat "by threatening to harm herself and her unborn child." Small wonder that Professor Ellzey says, "there are too many child marriages . . . not people who marry at 14 or 15 years of age, but older people who have never grown up."

Recently, in Amsterdam, Holland, I encountered a unique approach which the Dutch had brought to the problem of nagging (which they call "fussing"). Dutch psychologist Anne Jansen had organized "Fussing Anonymous" for wives who just couldn't stop nagging. These wives were given the telephone as a safety valve. When they felt they simply had to nag, they telephoned Dr. Jansen and proceeded to vent their "fussing" on her. She would listen patiently and respond with the Dutch counterpart of "So what?"

Said Dr. Jansen, "Ninety-five per cent of the things fussed about are inconsequential or imaginary." But she warned, "The wife who constantly fusses at her husband may succeed only in driving him into the arms of the first attractive woman who will fuss over him."

'The Duke' Stays On Top

Standing head and shoulders above others of his time who work in the same idiom is Duke Ellington, seriously considered by most critics the world over as America's foremost composer of modern music.

As a band leader he has been on the top rung of the jazz ladder so long, it appears he is permanently fixed there.

This legendary figure of the jazz world brings his orchestra to Victoria for a one-night performance at the Memorial Arena Monday.

"The Duke" is an idol to millions of bobby soxers and jazz fans of all ages, but he is also much more than that. He represents such a standard of excellence that many of his fellow bandleaders and musicians take busman's holidays for the purpose of filling their ears with his superb styling and remarkable orchestrations.

The one composer whose works always remain as "standards", many will be hoping to hear him lead his orchestra in such haunting numbers as "Mood Indigo", "Sophisticated Lady" and "Black and Tan Fantasy".

Starting time for the concert is 8:30 and tickets are available at Eaton's ticket bureau or at the Arena.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Request for exemption on a chapel in a Franciscan monks' headquarters on Joan Crescent was opposed by city finance committee Thursday.

Ald. J. L. W. McLean said it should be rejected because it was "unclear" whether the chapel was for the public worship of God, as stipulated in exemption legislation, or for the private use of the religious order's members.

City finance committee Thursday recommended sale of a city-owned Store Street property for $66,000 and commended city lands commissioner A. G. Joyce for being a shrewd bargainer.

The property, on which the gutted Manning Lumber Company mill stands, will be sold to Capital Iron Ltd.

"We would have been willing to sell it for $45,000 last year but Mr. Joyce is a shrewd bargainer and he's obtained $66,000 for the city," said Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell.

Robert W. Land, 414 Burnside, pleaded guilty in Esquimalt police court Thursday to a charge of impaired driving. He was fined $250 and his licence was suspended.

He was driving his car in the 800 block Lampson Street Wednesday night about 9 p.m., when he crossed over the centre lane striking another car.

An occupant of the vehicle, Mrs. Jean Mason, was taken to St. Joseph's hospital where she was treated for a bruised head and released.

Damage to the vehicle was about $500.

NEW TRIUMPH FOR CHARLTON HESTON

Amazing Realism Features Battle Scenes in 'El Cid'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Ranking with England's Robin Hood, Scotland's Bonnie Prince Charlie and The Three Musketeers of French fame is Spain's warrior hero—the mighty El Cid.

His legendary feats of battle, his fierce devotion to God and king and his undying love for the beautiful Castilian noblewoman, Chimene, have fired the imagination of poets and balladeers for centuries, and are now the story ingredients of the Samuel Bronston movie production of "El Cid" which played to a crowded first night audience in the Royal Theatre Thursday night.

AMAZING REALISM

The performance ran from 8:35 to 11:45 p.m., with only a short intermission, but there were few if any tedious moments. The general verdict was one of commendation for the generally competent acting, the imaginative camera work and the amazing realism of the battle scenes, which were so realistically gory in places that gentler souls averted their eyes from the screen.

It would be difficult to count the number of battles and bloody combats in this fiery epic, but on an average there seemed to be one for every thousand feet of film.

Centre of the story is Charlton Heston, well remembered for his earlier performances as Moses in The Ten Commandments and Ben Hur in the movie of that name.

Throughout he is a vivid and dramatic figure—the warrior who dreamed of peace, was tried as a traitor but later acclaimed by all as El Cid, a term adapted phonetically from the Arabic word "Seid" meaning lord or leader.

Opposite him as Chimene is the sultry, statuesque Sophia Loren, whose romance with El Cid is at first tender and warm, but flames into a consuming hate after he kills her father in a slashing sword fight. But the old love is renewed and sustained through separation, exile and the privations of war.

Genevieve Page is magnificent as the lovely Princess Urraca of Spain, also in love with El Cid, and there are highly competent performances by John Fraser as Prince Alfonso, Gary Raymond as Prince Sancho, Hurd Hatfield as Arias and Massimo Serato as Fanez.

WITH CONVICTION

Villain of the piece is Ben Yussuf, leader of the ferocious African Moors who seek world domination through the capture of Spain. The part is played with fearsome conviction by Herbert Lom, who will be remembered by London playgoers as the King of Siam in the London stage production of "The King and I."

The film was photographed in Spain and many of the historic sites where El Cid lived, loved and fought are the background for a vivid panoply of sets and costumes designed by Veniero Colasanti and John Moore.

Director Anthony Mann is to be commended for his imaginative marshalling of thousands of Spanish "extras" in the battle scenes.

One of the most memorable is the Tournament of Calahorra, a fight to the death, which may be compared to the epic chariot race in Ben Hur and the crossing of the Red Sea in the Ten Commandments.

Lonely Boy Ran With Dog Pack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The case of a lonely 11-year-old boy who found companionship with a pack of dogs was brought to light here Wednesday by juvenile authorities.

The youngster ran on all fours with the dog pack because he was unable to find human friends, child guidance officials said.

Dr. Morton Cooper said the boy, who has been in a detention home for two months, has demonstrated how he barked and ran on his hands and knees in playing with his canine companions.

According to Cooper, the child ran with his pack only at night.

"I've got enough sense not to run around with dogs during the day where people can see me," the boy told Cooper.

When psychologists asked him if he was a dog, the boy would reply: "No, I'm not a dog, but they're my friends."

Cooper said the boy lacked attention from his family and his schoolmates made fun of him.

"Dogs didn't snap at him," the psychologist said. "You know, boys can be very cruel, but a dog appreciates attention and this child felt accepted among them."

The youngster's case comes up in juvenile court today.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

Bobby Nail of Houston will be the only member of the 1962 American team competing in the Phoenix trials. He and his partner, James Jacoby of Dallas, will be the only Texans in the trials. I would be rooting for them even if Jim weren't my son.

In their bidding they like to show strength early unlike many other experts who keep partners as well as opponents in the dark.

Thus, Jim's two spade response to the opening diamond would not be made by many top players, but it simplified things for Bobby.

Bobby's rebid to three diamonds was intended to see what type hand Jim had for his jump bid. After Jim rebid spades Bobby was ready to take control.

The four and five no-trump bids disclosed that Jim held two aces and one king. The king would have to be in spades. Jim would not have bid two spades with only two aces in a suit headed by ace-jack.

Bobby was also sure that Jim would hold either a seven card spade suit or strength in diamonds. In either case, Bobby counted 13 tricks and set the grand slam in no-trump to guard against such things as ruffs.

SIDING

"Keystone" clear kiln dried siding is the finest available—a quality material for all applications where perfection is required.

With its "grow-in" workability, weather resistance and lasting good looks, "Keystone" clear Western Red Cedar Siding has long been recognized as the standard of quality home construction.

It has a distinctive "shadow line" which enhances any architectural style in any setting, and is used to create a variety of interesting decorative effects on indoor surfaces as well as exterior.

DURABILITY

Western Red Cedar is one of the most durable species known. It's heartwood is highly resistant to decay and can be counted on for long and worthy service when conditions favoring decay prevail.

"FOREST"
CEDAR SIDING

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1½" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths, "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

APPEARANCE?

For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2-inch in 6-inch widths to 4-inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES

"FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building. The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which together with its thickness and flush-to-base principle makes excellent material from the INSULATION standpoint.

Emergency Wards Go, Go, Go

Patient loads are climbing steadily at the emergency wards of both Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals, figures released Thursday showed.

Royal Jubilee treated 1,596 persons in the emergency ward last month, up by 66 over September figures and 180 higher than a year ago.

St. Joseph's emergency ward treated 1,200 persons last month, an increase of 50 over September and 133 over October last year.

HALF ACCIDENTS

About half of the cases at each hospital resulted from accidents.

During the first 10 months of this year Royal Jubilee has cared for 14,837 and St. Joseph's for 12,175—a combined total of 27,012 patients in the emergency wards.

Hospital officials said the steady growth is the result of an increasing population rather than a higher incidence of accidents.

City to Shun U.S. Market In Borrowing

City comptroller James Bramley Thursday advised the city against borrowing on the American market the $1,115,000 needed for downtown civic parking garages.

He acknowledged that interest rates are lower in New York than in Toronto at the moment. But he warned a further devaluation of the Canadian dollar, possible in the next two decades, would deal a "severe blow" to the relatively small number of merchants backing the bonds.

Finance committee agreed with him that the risk was not worth taking and recommended a tender call in January for sale of the bonds in the Canadian market.

Report Tuesday On Bus Dispute

DUNCAN — Conciliation officer Pete Fisher is expected to hand down next Tuesday a report on the thorny Hillcrest Lumber Co. free bus dispute.

His report will recommend settlement between the company and the Duncan local of the IWA.

The dispute began early in January when Hillcrest Lumber Co. cancelled a long-standing free bus service to its Mesachie Lake mill from Duncan and Lake Cowichan.

A temporary settlement was reached in June when both parties agreed to the appointment of a committee to look into the matter. Its members include two IWA officers, two company representatives and a conciliation officer.

Krishna Menon Critic of West, Firm Defender of Communists

MENON . . . 40-year war

NEW DELHI (AP)—V. K. Krishna Menon, ousted as Indian defence minister in the wake of Red China's armed attacks, for years has stirred strong feelings ranging from adulation to hatred. He is known as a man of strong opinions and a sharp tongue, impatient and sometimes overbearing.

A Western diplomat once said Krishna Menon carried on "a 40-year war with the rest of the world." Krishna Menon himself once said, "I am allergic to myself."

He has been economist, lawyer, editor of paperback books and diplomat. He spent 20 years as secretary of the India League in Britain, an organization backing India's claim to independence.

In 1947 he entered diplomacy as India's first high commissioner to Britain, and in 1952 joined India's United Nations delegation. He was a frequent critic of the West and defender of the Communist countries. He plugged unceas-ingly for a UN seat for Red China.

In 1957 Prime Minister Nehru made him defence minister, and he continued to stir up controversy.

During the February, 1962, elections he was assailed in opposition posters which declared: "Menon represents China, not India."

As defence minister he apparently masterminded the forceful removal of the last foreign rule on the Indian subcontinent in the takeover of Goa and other Portuguese west coast territories in December, 1961.

The use of force was widely criticized as a contradiction of policies Nehru had preached for the rest of the world, and in many quarters Nehru's defenders contended he acted only under Krishna Menon's persuasion. But the action also won acclaim for Krishna Menon among the Indian masses.

CLOSE ASSOCIATE

He has been Nehru's close associate in foreign policy matters. Menon's critics said he used the defence ministry to build his own political machine. "I just do things as they come up and need doing," was his reply.

Born on May 3, 1897, in a middle-class family in Kerala, he went to Britain at 27. There he compiled a brilliant record as a scholar and book editor, and qualified as a lawyer. He also became active in the British Labor party.

A bachelor, Krishna Menon works long hours. A vegetarian, he sometimes goes through the day on nothing more than tea. He is frail and has suffered occasional collapses from exhaustion, but seldom is down for long.

ECUMENICAL COUNCIL HAS FINANCE PROBLEMS

'Bishops Very, Very Poor'

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Every day the Vatican ecumenical council is in session, a battered Volkswagen sneaks its way through Rome's chaotically congested streets.

Crammed inside are two or three bishops, gingerly holding their three-cornered purple birettas.

"They asked for a ride to St. Peter's," explains the German prelate at the wheel. "They don't want to waste money on a taxi. They are poor, very poor."

Many, possibly half, of the 2,700 church dignitaries attending the ecumenical council get financial assistance from the Vatican treasury. They themselves could hardly pay the travel cost, let alone all the expenses of their stay here, Vatican sources say.

The Vatican itself gets an assist from the Catholic churches in wealthy countries.

"There are not many which can afford such contributions," said Dr. Carl Joseph Leiprecht, the Bishop of Rottenburg, Germany.

How much will the council cost?

"Nobody could know, not even the Holy Father, because he does not know how long the council will last," says Msgr. Walter Kampe, auxiliary bishop of Limburg, Germany.

Bishop Kampe said he guessed that the total cost for the stay of the council fathers and their more than 5,000 advisers and aides would reach about $2,500,000 for the first session period of 60 days.

"This is based on a daily expense of $5 for food and lodging—I think this is adequate," the bishop added.

He estimated that travel costs total about $190,000 and technical preparations about $1,250,000—"but this is already a liberal guess."

Pilotage Probe Set

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Balcer announced today a three-man royal commission will investigate Canada's system of marine pilotage.

After making the announcement in the Commons, Mr. Balcer told reporters that he hopes the commission will complete its work in a year, which will help avoid strikes—which in the past have tied up traffice on the St. Lawrence River.

The inquiry will cover pilotage problems on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, as well as on the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence system.

TRAFFIC FINES

Philip M. Field, 408 Alpha Terrace, $15, failure to obey traffic officer.

James Christensen, 804 Dominion, $5, illegal turn.

Philip Holland, 1920 Bowker, $2.50, licence plate upside down.

Barry M. Jones, Work Point Barracks, $2.50, failure to notify change of address.

In Saanich police court Thursday:

David Turner, 933 Foul Bay, $50, and licence suspension, careless driving.

Gordon W. Hatch, 4331 Tyndall, $35, over 30 mph.

Jacob Kuntz, Work Point Barracks, $25, no insurance, and $50 and licence suspension, no insurance.

William Terry, 770 Claremont, $25, failure to yield right of way.

Kenneth Ward, 1137 Hollis, $2.50, walking on roadway.

B.C. Rail Crash

PORT COQUITLAM, B.C. (CP)—Two freight trains collided in dense fog just east of the Pitt River bridge early today. No one was injured.

The accident occurred on the CPR main line just east of Vancouver. Railway officials said both trains were loaded, one heading for Vancouver, the other eastbound.

Struck Paper Publishes

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Daily News, its own plant closed by an American Newspaper Guild strike, Thursday night published a 16-page Friday morning edition at the Journal-American.

The paper—with a front page headline reading "struck—not struck out!"—had little advertising but most of its daily features. The slim edition contrasted with The News' Thursday morning editions, which ran 92 pages.

Extend Loan Benefit

OTTAWA (CP) — Works Minister Fulton announced today Parliament will be asked to approve a two-year extension to March 31, 1965, in the program to cancel part of the debt for municipalities obtaining federal loans to build sewage treatment plants.

CITY STUDENTS ENTER FINALS IN TV 'REACH'

Greater Victoria high school students have entered the finals in the Reach for the Top television quiz program by defeating a West Vancouver team Thursday night.

The students from each of the five schools in District 61 will compete against five other teams from B.C. high schools in the spring.

Taking part in the debating contest, are Eric Maurice, Mount Douglas High, Kenneth Lane, Oak Bay High, Julia Oxendale, Esquimalt High, Harold Turnham, Mount View High, and Robin Jeffrey, Victoria High.

Team coach is Douglas Clark, a teacher at Victoria High School.

60 City Welsh Folk Going To Mainland Song Festival

More than 60 members of Victoria Welsh Society will leave for Vancouver Sunday morning to take part in the Gymanfa Ganu (sacred song festival) in the Cambrian Hall.

Also participating will be some 500 Welsh folk from California, Oregon, Washington and B.C. The festival starts at 2 p.m.

Victoria members will assemble at the C and C taxi station on Government and leave at 9:45 a.m. to catch the government ferry at Swartz Bay. They will return late Saturday evening.

"This is in the nature of a return visit," said Victor Williams, Victoria president, "as a number of Vancouver members took part in our centennial festival earlier this year."

The Welsh Society is organizing a charter flight to the Old Country for next summer, and it is expected members from Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary and Edmonton will participate.

Governorships Hold Interest In U.S. Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Americans vote Tuesday in an election that will largely determine the extent of President Kennedy's influence over Congress for the next two years.

The balloting also will provide Republicans with a gauge for measuring their chances of capturing the White House in 1964.

The voters will elect 35 governors, 39 U.S. senators, all 435 House members and thousands of state and local officials.

Coming midway in Kennedy's four-year term, the voting will provide the first nationwide testing of political sentiment since one of the closest presidential elections in history.

The complexion of the new congress will determine whether Kennedy can expect more, or less, co-operation on legislation than he received during his first two years as president. Even a relatively small GOP gain in House seats could result in a significant increase in the power of conservatives in Congress.

GIVE CLUES

Balloting in the gubernatorial races will provide fresh clues to the identity of the Republican presidential nominee in 1964. Together, the congressional and gubernatorial elections will tell the GOP much about its strength for the 1964 campaign.

Although Republicans have little hope of winning control of either House or Senate, their chances appear good for spectacular gains in governorships in pivotal northern states which are the bases of power in presidential election years.

Among northern states which will have the biggest presidential electoral vote in 1964, the Republicans now hold only one of six governorships — New York

Five of these six governorships, including New York, are at stake in Tuesday's balloting and the GOP has high hopes of winning them all. The other four are California, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan.

Estimates based on past elections indicate that about 50 million persons will vote, compared with about 48 million in 1958, the last national election when the presidency was not at stake. A 50 million turnout would be a record for a mid-term election. A record 68,883,341 votes were cast in the 1960 presidential election.

GOP LEADERS

The political future of prominent Republicans is at stake in four gubernatorial races. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York needs an impressive re-election to stay among potential contenders for the 1964 presidential nomination.

Richard M. Nixon, 1960 presidential nominee, is running for governor of California. The GOP nominee in Michigan is George Romney, who made the country aware of the compact car. Rep. William W. Scranton is the candidate for governor of Pennsylvania.

By winning, each of the four could claim a place among GOP kingmakers or become a prospective candidate for the White House in 1964 or 1968. Losers would be consigned to political oblivion.

CONGRESS

Although chances appear slim for Republicans to gain the 44 seats they need for control of the House, a GOP gain of as few as 10 could give conservative Republicans and southern Democrats a headlock on Kennedy's legislative program.

Although the Democrats have held a 263-174 edge in the House during the past two years, administration forces have on repeated occasions triumphed, or been beaten, by razor-thin margins.

This is why Kennedy has insisted that elections of more House Democrats is needed to insure friendly handling of his program.

Democratic assessments range from an even break to a loss of only five seats. Republicans privately talk of GOP gains ranging from 10 to 30 seats.

The Senate now is divided between 64 Democrats and 36 Republicans. With 39 seats at stake, campaign strategists of both parties generally agree that the Senate will remain Democratic and more liberal than the House.

THE ISSUES

With no presidential election, local issues in many areas often have overshadowed national issues. There has been debate about narcotics control in California, legalized gambling in Idaho and state tax burdens in many governorship races.

Since Kennedy's action against Cuba, politicians of both parties have been uncertain as to the effect of the Cuban issue on the election.

V.I. ROUNDUP

Pilot Survives Gabriola Crash

NANAIMO (CP) — The pilot walked away from the crash of a light airplane Thursday on Gabriola Island, eight miles east of here.

RCMP are withholding his name.

Police said the pilot was the only one aboard the craft, a float-equipped Cessna 172. The plane crashed on the northern end of the island during a fog after leaving Nanaimo airport to pick up a passenger on Gabriola.

Airport officials at Nanaimo said the ceiling was only about 200 feet and visibility about half a mile at the time of the accident.

The aircraft, owned by Cassidair Air Services, suffered extensive damage.

The pilot, apparently uninjured, freed himself from the wreckage and walked to a nearby farmhouse to notify authorities.

For being in possession of vodka under the age of 21, Ronald Stewart, 18, Duncan was fined $15.

CAMPBELL RIVER — The Campbell River General Hospital is $10,000 in the red as of Sept. 30, officials said today.

It is expected the rate of loss will increase at about $1,000 per month for the balance of the year.

Chairman of the board L. J. "Pat" Martin points out that this is the first time since the hospital went into operation that the financial position has not been sound.

The plight of the Campbell River hospital, he said, corresponds to the position of 71 per cent of B.C. hospitals.

Cause of the situation is laid by local board members at the door of the B.C. government which they say, refuses to meet representatives to discuss the situation.

Costs of the local hospital, officials here say, have been cut to the barest minimum. Any further reduction in costs would result in curtailment of services, something board members have no intention of doing even at the risk of incurring further deficits.

Local board members, together with other hospital officials, are attempting to meet with Premier Bennett to seek further financial assistance.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Carl Swabey has been elected president of the Campbell River Chamber of Commerce.

'For Sale' Sign Removed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A woman who claimed she paid another woman $10,000 for her husband only to learn the "for sale" sign had been removed, filed suit Wednesday to recover the purchase price.

The action was filed in Superior Court by Mrs. Dorothy Alzmann, 35, Glendora, Calif., widow of a space engineer. It charged Norma and Quinton Babcock with breach of contract and fraud.

Mrs. Alzmann asked $8,800 which she said was owed her.

Mrs. Alzmann said when she first met Babcock he told her he was planning to divorce his wife and later said he would marry her. She said she had dated Babcock and that Mrs. Babcock had "condoned and approved" the action and that she had visited the Babcock home for Christmas.

Last April, Mrs. Alzmann said in her complaint, Mrs. Babcock told her she could have her husband for $10,000, which she paid Mrs. Babcock with two cheques—one for $7,000 and one for $3,000. She said she also had loaned Babcock $1,800.

OTTAWA (CP) — The air transport board today authorized Pacific Western Airlines limited to cancel its prairie air service Dec. 1.

The service now is operated between Regina, Saskatoon, Prince Albert and North Battleford, Sask., and Edmonton.

Injunction Ousts Mystery Pickets

VANCOUVER (CP) — It took less than an hour Thursday to get rid of Vancouver's newest mystery pickets.

Lawyer Samuel Huberman filed official documents, appeared before a Supreme Court judge, and walked out of the courthouse with an injunction in his hand Thursday afternoon.

The four-day injunction halted the activities of two unidentified pickets who showed up Thursday morning at the construction site of a $115,000 apartment block.

The order was granted contractor Coleman Rubin.

In an affidavit, Rubin said he was approached several days ago by unidentified men who told him his workers would have to join unions or that he'd have to hire union men.

The two mystery pickets who showed up outside his project Thursday carried placards proclaiming that non-union men were working on the job.

Rubin said their claims were unfounded.

Search Suspended

WINNIPEG (CP) — The search for a civilian aircraft that disappeared in the Northwest Territories Sept. 29 with four men aboard was second in size only to the long hunt for the plane that carried hockey star Bill Barilko to his death in northern Ontario.

The air force said today that the search suspended Thursday in the Nahanni Valley area of the territories covered an area almost 2,400 square miles larger than the area of the province of Saskatchewan.

'GAMBLING LAWS ARCHAIC

Sweepstake Salvo by MP

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—A Calgary MP's fight for a law to legalize lotteries in Canada was stalled Thursday, but not before he fired a salvo against gambling laws as they now exist.

Arthur Smith (PC—Calgary South) declared Canadian gambling laws were archaic and represented hypocrisy.

People could legally gamble all they wanted on horse racing but they could not indulge in the form of gambling known as lotteries without breaking the law.

Mr. Smith's private bill to set up a sweepstakes board which would raise money for hospital and other public welfare activities was talked out in the Commons Thursday.

The MP was unperturbed by this; he explained in his speech in support of the bill that he expected the question would not be decided in the limited time reserved for private members' business.

His real purpose in bringing the measure before the House, he indicated, was to air opinions on the question with the idea of persuading the government to initiate a joint Commons-Senate committee inquiry into his lottery proposals.

BRING OUT FACTS

Such a committee could "bring out the facts" through public hearings and then make recommendations "so we can make an intelligent decision . . . an assessment not based on emotion."

Mr. Smith claimed public opinion favored legalized lotteries. Many other nations of the world conducted them and were able to provide extensive support through them to welfare projects.

He said arguments that lotteries were immoral did not stand up. If they did, he said, then it also was wrong for the government to make profits from gambling on horse racing.

"I have heard it said," he stated, "that Ontario would not be able to provide education if it were not for returns from racing and alcohol."

Only three other MPs spoke in the brief debate on the Smith bill and they expressed varying degrees of support, at the least approving the proposal for a study of the question.

DAVID GROOS
. . . make room for others

The new Royal Bank of Canada Building in Montreal—45 storeys high—is the largest office structure in the British Commonwealth.

Will Groos Abandon Esquimalt To Seek Election in Victoria?

Former Liberal candidate David W. Groos has offered to quit the Esquimalt-Saanich branch of the party and let someone else run for Parliament there.

He said Thursday he made the offer in a letter to the executive.

Mr. Groos came within 545 votes of winning the Esquimalt-Saanich seat in Parliament in a 1961 byelection; he lost by more than 2,000 votes in the June 18 general election this year.

Quitting Esquimalt-Saanich does not mean he is pulling out of politics, however.

The move could spark a keen contest for the Victoria Liberal nomination.

Some Liberals would like Mr. Groos as their candidate instead of Foster Isherwood, who only lost by a bare 200 votes to Conservative A. deB. McPhillips in June, and intends to try again.

"We suffered in the last two elections because my opponents made capital out of the fact that I don't live in Esquimalt-Saanich," said Mr. Groos, whose home is in Oak Bay.

'MAKE ROOM'

"I have heard there are two or three good chaps thinking of running next time and now is the time to make room for them."

At present, said Mr. Groos, he has no plans to run anywhere else.

He said he wants to devote more time to a new business venture he is planning in Victoria.

It will be "very interesting" if it comes off, he said, but would not disclose any details at this time.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A man suffered fractures today when a blanket rope he was using to escape from a fifth floor window of the Vancouver jail broke. Another man was left stranded on a fourth floor window ledge. George Perovitch, 32, and Gordon Rorison, 36, were charged with unlawfully escaping custody.

Indians Win Gold, Jade Skirmishing

The Indians have won the battle of Bridge River.

The stakes were gold and jade.

The losers were placer miners who staked 26 claims along the bed of the Bridge River near Lillooet.

Mines Minister Keneth Kiernan Thursday dismissed the claims.

INQUIRY

However, at the same time he called for an inquiry into the whole question of mineral rights on Canada's Indian reserves.

Mr. Kiernan was judging the claims after an appeal under the Placer Mining Act.

The riverbed mineral rights have been under dispute since early summer. A public hearing was held in Lillooet Sept. 24.

"In my opinion," said Mr. Kiernan, "the natives who live on this reserve should properly be entitled to quiet and undisturbed occupation."

He said some of the Indians work hard for a livelihood selling jade boulders and panning small amounts of gold.

REVENUE SOURCE

"This is a practice that has developed over a period of years and as long as it is limited to a modest day by day operation it would seem likely that it would provide a source of revenue to the natives for a substantial period of time."

But Mr. Kiernan added that the general question of mineral rights on reserves has not been resolved, despite attempts in 1943 through the Indian Reserves Mineral Resources Act.

"It would seem therefore highly desirable that an entirely new look be taken in regard to this question to see if a method of procedure cannot be devised that will be generally beneficial to all concerned."

S.A. Boycott Backed In UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The special political committee voted Thursday night by a lopsided margin to punish South Africa with trade boycotts and to consider expelling the country from the United Nations if it doesn't change its racial policies. The tally was 60 to 16 with 21 abstentions.

A manoeuvre led by Ghana enabled triumphant African nations to spearhead the committee's strongest action in 17 years of dealing with South Africa's apartheid (racial separation).

Canada, the United States and Britain were among countries which voted against the measure because they opposed sanctions although they denounced apartheid in debate.

Testing of Drugs Suggested for UN

VANCOUVER (CP) — An Australian doctor says he believes all new drugs should be tested by the United Nations.

Dr. Donald Cheek said the fact that the drug Thalidomide was introduced in several countries shows present inspection methods are not good enough.

"This shows there is a real need for a re-assessment of drug appraisal methods," he said. "It is time for us to take a long hard look at the present methods."

Dr. Cheek said he believed a committee of doctors appointed by the United Nations would be a more practical way of testing new drugs than the present system of each country conducting separate tests.

"The present system is a waste of time, money and medical brains," he said.

Dr. Cheek also said the Thalidomide tragedy shows present inspection methods are inefficient.

"If you use the drug on pregnant animals you get the same effects. Why was this not done before the drug went on the market?"

Dr. Cheek said even in the United States, where the drug was not put on the market, it was largely a matter of luck and not the result of efficient testing procedures.

SOVIET BID

Space Shot To Mars On Target

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Russian rocket today was hurtling through space on a 35,000,000-mile mission to Mars aimed at giving man his first close-up look at the mysterious "red planet."

Moscow radio said all systems aboard the Mars probe, which was launched Thursday from a satellite "parked" in orbit around the earth, were functioning according to plan.

Soviet scientists said the rocket now is more than 150,000 miles on its long journey through space, which will take seven months.

N. M. Sissakian, a member of the presidium of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said in Paris Thursday night that the Mars probe may return to land on earth if it does not burn up first.

"Moscow radio said that "at 6:33 a.m. (Moscow time) communications were opened with interplanetary station Mars I. Data were received from the station about the normal functioning of all its systems, and the element of its trajectory was measured.

"Telemetry data show that the scientific equipment of the station is functioning in accordance with the set program."

The radio said the rocket's radio transmitters were working and "the orders sent to the station were well received and obeyed."

The rocket is equipped with solar batteries which pick up power from the sun and recharge its conventional batteries.

There will be no further report on the rocket until Sunday night, the radio said.

If everything goes according to plan, the rocket will relay back to earth the first close-up pictures of Mars, earth's nearest planetary neighbor.

Apologizes To Speaker

OTTAWA (CP) — Social Crediter Bernard Dumont apologized in the Commons today to Speaker Marcel Lambert for his criticisms of the Speaker in a letter published in Montreal Le Devoir.

It appeared likely that Mr. Dumont's public apology today would soften any action taken by the committee on privileges, which has wide powers of recommending disciplinary action. (See story page 2.)

MIKOYAN:

Russia Backs Castro

NEW YORK (AP) — Anastas I. Mikoyan, Soviet first deputy premier, said today that Russia is backing proposals of Cuban Premier Castro in the attempt to settle the crisis over missile installations in Cuba.

In a statement, Mikoyan referred to "the proposals of Premier Fidel Castro which comprise five well-known points."

Mikoyan did not cite the points. However, Castro has demanded that the United States withdraw its naval blockade of Cuba, give up the naval base at Guantanamo and halt Cuban exile attacks against Cuba.

Castro also called for a halt to economic measures the United States has taken against Cuba and air-sea intrusions into Cuban territory.

ON WAY TO CUBA

Mikoyan issued his statement before boarding a plane to Cuba for talks with Castro.

Mikoyan also said:

"The revolutionary government of Cuba is enjoying complete confidence of their people. It threatens no one. It leads the people toward progress and happiness, building socialism, the social system which was chosen by the people of Cuba and which they consider the best for themselves."

Mikoyan criticized the American press treatment of his visit, saying:

"I have heard that American press and radio and in particular the today's newspapers venture absolutely groundless guesses and fantasies about the purpose of my visit to Cuba."

He did not amplify these remarks. There have been published reports that the purpose of his trip was to soothe Castro.

Advised By Kremlin?

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow radio today ignored Prime Minister Fidel Castro's declaration that foreign inspectors will not be allowed on Cuban soil to check on the removal of Soviet missiles.

A broadcast merely reported that Castro made a lengthy speech giving his government's position on the crisis in the Caribbean.

Some diplomatic observers in Moscow were speculating that the Kremlin may have secretly ordered Castro to be balky until after Soviet missiles have been safely put on ships headed for Soviet ports. They cited the Russian's longstanding refusal to admit foreign disarmament inspectors to Soviet soil.

K Letter Story 'Inaccurate'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House described as wholly inaccurate today a newspaper story calling Soviet Premier Khrushchev's unpublished letter to President Kennedy last Friday the work of an agitated, overwrought man.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said in a statement that no one who read the Oct. 26 letter when it was received or has read it since has interpreted it in that fashion.

The story, carried by the New York Herald Tribune, said at one point:

"Premier Khrushchev's unpublished letter of last Friday night to President Kennedy is regarded here as one of the most astonishing notes ever penned by a head of state—a product of a man in a high state of agitation, overwrought by the prospect of atomic war."

Salinger said "the Oct. 26 letter formed the basis for the president's answer of Oct. 27 in which he wrote that he welcomed Chairman Khrushchev's 'desire to seek a prompt solution to the problem'."

Administration informants said that in their view the Khrushchev letter was a typical, catch-all message of the kind Khrushchev has sent to western leaders over the last decade.

With Kennedy, Khrushchev took the line that the two of them were reasonable men fully aware of the devastating effects of nuclear weapons and the dangers which the world faced.

'China Hopes Russia Will Lose'

MUNICH (AP)—Mao Tse-tung hopes the Russian people will one day rise against Premier Khrushchev, says a former Communist Chinese official who defected to the West.

Chao Fu, 27, former security officer of the Red Chinese legation in Stockholm who defected last August, said Mao hopes the Russian people will recognize Khrushchev's anti-Stalinism as anti-Communist.

The Chinese leader said recently "whoever is against Stalin is against Mao," Fu reported.

Mao also hopes that the Russians will suffer a defeat in a conflict with capitalist nations, thus leaving the way free for China to take over as leader of world communism, Fu said.

Castro Still Firm —No Observers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States reported clear indications today that Soviet missile bases in Cuba are being dismantled.

A defence department spokesman told reporters that the pictures show that missile launcher erectors have been removed from the sites.

Much of the associated launch equipment has been removed, the spokesman said, and cable conduits between control points and launching pads have been broken up.

The concrete pads for the launch erectors appear to have been broken up with an air hammer.

SITES BULLDOZED

Certain areas of the sites have been plowed and bulldozed, the spokesman said.

Aerial reconnaissance over the island was resumed Thursday after a two-day recess for the visit of U Thant, acting secretary-general of the United Nations, in efforts to arrange for UN inspection of the dismantling promised by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Fidel Castro Thursday night rejected foreign supervision of the dismantling of the bases and again called for the United States to give up its naval base at Guantanamo.

The Cuban prime minister said "strategic arms," presumably the missiles, are being removed by the Russians from Cuba, "but the rest of the weapons stay in our country."

Castro addressed a radio-television audience.

He acknowledged that "we have some motive for discontent" with Russia. But he reminded his people of all the Russians had done for them and asserted, "we are friends of the Soviet Union."

WOULD HUMILIATE CUBA

Castro said UN inspection of Cuban soil would be "one more attempt to humiliate our country" and would violate Cuban sovereignty.

Sources at UN headquarters in New York felt Castro either would soften his stand or would announce the Soviet Union had completed dismantling its bases and UN inspection therefore no longer was necessary.

U Thant, acting UN secretary-general, said after his conferences Tuesday and Wednesday with Castro that he had been informed the dismantling would be completed by today.

STOP U-2 FLIGHTS

Authoritative U.S. sources disclosed Thursday night that high altitude U-2 flights over Cuba have been halted after the loss of a U-2 and the watch is being kept through low-level photographic missions.

These government sources stressed there has been no scaling down in the degree of aerial surveillance.

Low-flying reconnaissance planes—coming in swiftly below radar—are considered less vulnerable than the U-2s, which go into a slow glide when they are taking pictures.

Officials are virtually cer-

RED CROSS INSPECTION FOR SHIPS?

UNITED NATIONS (AP) —The United States was reported today to be considering a Soviet proposal to allow the International Red Cross to inspect Cuba-bound ships to verify that they are not bearing military weapons.

The existence of this proposal was confirmed Thursday night by Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, who disclosed that Acting Secretary-General U Thant had mentioned it during their Havana talks.

Another possibility under consideration, it was understood, was for Red Cross inspection of Soviet ships bound homeward from Cuba. This would provide verification that at least some missiles were being removed.

U.S. sources said today the proposals were under consideration in Washington. Details were not spelled out, but the proposed inspection of Cuba-bound vessels by the Red Cross apparently was intended as a measure to modify the U.S. naval arms quarantine.

U.S. to Clear Canadian Shipping

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian cooperation in a new United States plan of advanced inspection and clearance of Cuba-bound ships was announced today by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

He told the Commons that Canada has agreed that the plan can be made available in Canadian ports.

There is no question of compulsory inspection of ships in Canadian waters, he added.

The advance inspection and clearance by U.S. consular officials, at the request of ship agents or officers, would be a convenience to avoid possible delay from search by U.S. warships enforcing the "quarantine" of missile shipments to Cuba.

The advance and inspection would be made at the ship's last port of call before sailing to Cuba.

Arms Airlift by Allies Aids Indian Firepower

(Times News Services)

NEW DELHI — A U.S. arms airlift got under way from West Germany today to give India's hard-pressed Himalayan army better weapons to use against Communist China.

The first of 10 U.S. Air Force C-135 jet transports took off from Rhein-Main air base near Frankfurt and was due in Calcutta Saturday.

A round-the-clock airlift was being planned, and relief crews were flown to Calcutta to bring the big planes back to Germany for reloading.

The airlift is bringing light infantry weapons needed to counter the Communists' superior firepower.

Small arms from Britain also are due to arrive shortly.

U.S. ambassador John K. Gailbraith announced that the Turkish government has offered India mountain howitzers and American aircraft were in Turkey to pick them up.

GALBRAITH
. . . won't 'work magic'

Galbraith warned the Indians against expecting American arms alone to "work magic" against the Chinese in the fighting along the long China-Himalayan border.

"The great task remains with the Indian army," he declared. "We are happy to help with equipment to stop aggression but equipment is only part of the problem."

Galbraith, who was born near St. Thomas, Ont., told a press conference American instructors would not be coming to demonstrate the weapons which he described as "standard stuff."

Asked if American soldiers would go to the frontier to supervise delivery of the weapons, he said: "I would not think so immediately."

TROOPS DIG IN

Despite the outside aid, the Indians appear to be digging in for a long period of conflict.

Informed sources said strict government control of gasoline stocks will be introduced soon although there is no question of rationing so far.

Extra food stocks are being established to avoid any danger of hoarding and soaring prices that might lead to rationing.

Prime Minister Nehru said Thursday night that India will not compromise its honor in the search for a solution to the border crisis.

Meanwhile, an Indian Embassy spokesman in Moscow said Soviet deliveries of arms to India are continuing at a normal rate.

WARMTH MARKS WELCOME TO DOUGLAS IN HOUSE

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—After an absence of 18 years, Tommy Douglas came back to parliament today. The New Democratic Party leader was greeted by his opponents with a warmth usually reserved for returning heroes.

In an astonishing display of goodwill, political animosities in the Commons were suspended for 15 minutes as other party leaders took the time to express their admiration for a worthy foe.

Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson summed up the mood when he said in his words of welcome: "It is a non-controversial matter."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker noted that Douglas had been an MP for five years when he, the prime minister, first was elected to parliament in 1940.

DOUGLAS

"Since that time he has occupied the office of premier of Saskatchewan," Diefenbaker continued with a smile, "and indeed his length of service in that capacity gave some of us some idea of the meaning of eternity."

In the days ahead, the prime minister said, in more serious tone, "we shall look forward to the contribution he will make."

Pearson said he was sure Douglas would make the House a "more lively and more stimulating" place.

Social Credit leader Robert Thompson, while expressing his confidence that Douglas would have a "very definite and positive contribution to make" to parliament, did manage to get in some good-natured digs at NDP socialism.

Douglas, he said with a chuckle, would find his party's policies "a long way afield from the Regina manifesto." He also said, again smiling, that if the Douglas government had done a better job in Saskatchewan there might be fewer Conservatives in parliament.

POLITICAL DISPUTE IN U.S.

When Were Cuba Bases Started?

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Controversy swirls today around the question: Was President Kennedy slow to recognize that the Russians were molding Cuba into a powerful nuclear gun, aimed at the United States?

Republicans say he was.

"Those missile bases were there a long, long time before the president spoke," says Senator Hugh Scott, Pennsylvania Republican, referring to Kennedy's statement of Oct. 22, when he proclaimed the "quarantine" on arms to Cuba.

In mid-September, Scott said, the Republicans had "very hard information" about Soviet missile sites in Cuba. The same facts were available to the administration, he says.

Before that, on Sept. 8, Senator Kenneth B. Keating, New York Republican, said he thought a blockade of Cuba to screen ships for incoming war material might be necessary.

INVESTIGATED REPORTS

This is what Kennedy administration authorities say in reply:

"In late August, we began receiving reports from Cuban refugees and other sources of missile sites being built in Cuba. We think this is the same information Keating was getting.

"Every one of those reports was carefully checked.

"And in every case, they turned out to be reports of "samsites or 'cruise sites.'"

"Samsite" is military shorthand for "surface-to-air missile site." In other words, a form of anti-aircraft. "Cruise site" is a type of coastal defence. Neither has the range to reach the U.S. Technically, they could be considered in the category of defence weapons.

It was not until the week of Oct. 15, when reconnaissance spotted definite evidence of a rapid buildup that, figuratively, the alarm-bell rang, administration officers say.

Officials stress the speed of the Russian construction work—sometimes almost with grudging admiration.

A man who participated in all the decision-making conferences says "only four or five days" elapsed between evidence of the first bulldozr scars and the rise of installations that serve a missile site.

Thursday, Oct. 18, is a criti-

BUSINESS VIEWS

Foreign Investors Lose Advantage

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Recent U.S. tax law changes are already having an effect on a major source of investment money for Canada, the non-resident owned Canadian mutual funds, according to Wall Street reports.

The tax law changes, designed to close foreign havens for tax-sheltered accumulation of income and capital gains, have stripped most of the advantages for American investors putting their money into Canada.

Nearly all of the non-resident owned funds, reportedly, plan to distribute to shareholders most of their ordinary income as well as portions of long-term capital gains. This, in the ordinary course of events, is money which would be reinvested in Canada.

Scudder Fund of Canada Ltd., for example, will distribute 90 per cent of ordinary income to shareholders as well as some of its capital gains starting June 1 next year. Other funds are expected to follow much the same pattern.

It is thought unlikely, however, that the funds will leave Canada entirely. One fund manager is known to have scouted the idea but found that it would cost at least $100,000 to reincorporate in the U.S. as a mutual fund.

Other funds still see a strong appeal in selected Canadian securities but the aim will mostly be for low dividend issues with promise of growth which will boost the income which can be plowed back into the fund.

* * *

Wall Streeters also report there is considerable interest in the U.S. and Europe in the new Canadian trust companies, of which there have been five chartered in the last year.

The appeal to Europeans is that the trust companies operate in a similar manner to private banks with which they are familiar.

Canadian Husky Oil Ltd. is the target for renewed takeover rumors, jumping better than $2 a share from the week's opening in heavy volume.

The company, with assets of around $40 million, has extensive oil well interests and land interests in B.C., Alberta and Saskatchewan as well as in many parts of the western U.S., in Alaska and in Guatemala. It owns and operates four refineries and almost 500 wholesale and retail outlets in the U.S. and Canada.

Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd. reported an increase in profit and sales for the first six months of its fiscal year ending March 31.

Net income to Sept. 30 rose to $819,500 or 45 cents a share compared with $232,000 or 10 cents a share in the same period of 1961. Dollar sales were up 33 per cent with the premium on the U.S. dollar accounting for $129,800 of the increased profit.

President Norman Whittall warned that present economic conditions did not promise that this rate of growth could be maintained for the second half but "good order files on hand" indicate profitable operations will be continued.

He added that the current U.S. investigations into possible quotas on Canadian softwood imports must be "viewed seriously."

The company, which has been studying the possibility of expanding into pulp production on Vancouver Island, has still reached no decision. The report says there are no new developments in the situation.

The new sawmill at Squamish is proceeding on schedule and is expected to be completed by the end of the year at a cost of $1,900,000. Another $705,000 has been spent so far this year on expansion of logging operations and plant modernization.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Industrials Off From Early Peak

The stock market remained slightly on the upside after moderate trading today, but had backed down considerably from its high point of the day.

After touching a mid-day peak at which industrialists were ahead 1¾ points on index, that section dropped almost all its gains.

AT TORONTO key gainers in the main list included Walker-Gooderham, Inter-Provincial Pipe Line and Royal Bank, all ahead ¾. Algoma Steel, Atlas Steel and Bell Telephone all rose ⅛.

Losers included Trans-Canada Pipeline, Bank of Nova Scotia, Consolidated Paper and Dominion Foundries and Steel, all down in a ⅛ to ⅜ range. Canadian Oil dropped ⅝.

AT NEW YORK U.S. Steel cancelled a rise of about a point. General Motors sliced a gain of about a point to a fraction. American Telephone posted a loss of close to a point, wiping out a gain of about the same size.

Gainers on the Canadian section included Walker-Gooderham, up ¾, Granby Mining and Hudson Bay Mining, ½ each, and Aluminium Ltd., and Canadian Pacific, ⅛ each. International Nickel was off ⅛ and Dome Mines ¼.

AT MONTREAL Canadian Husky fell a point to 7¼ and Central-Del Rio was down 25 cents to $8.35.

Banks were mixed. Falling were Montreal, down ⅛ to 59⅜ and Nova Scotia, down ½ to 68. Gaining were Canadienne Nationale, up 1¾ to 69, Imperial-Commerce, up ⅛ to 58½, and the Royal, up ¼ to 72.

Papers and metals showed gains. Aluminium rose ⅛ to 21½ and Noranda was up ⅜ to 24¾. Great Lakes Paper added ⅜ to 16¼ and Price was up ¼ to 35.

AT LONDON stock markets closed the week on an uncertain note.

Sentiment was helped at first by the sharp rise Thursday in trans-Atlantic markets but the better trend was not fully maintained. Gilt-edged were quiet and a shade easier.

Canadian Pacific was higher in company with other trans-Atlantic issues. Among Canadians, Nickel gained 1¼ to 108¼ and Canadian Husky jumped 2½ to 14½.

AT VANCOUVER today the trading was moderate. Medallion dropped to $2.60 and Bethlehem was down at $2.06. Granduc fell to $2.96 while Mid West Copper rose to 11½. Peso dropped to $1.18 and Western Mines was down at $2.28 while Canadian Collieries sold for $6½.

PAINTED CROWN FOR FERRY QUEEN

Significant step toward launching date for new B.C. Toll Authority ferry Queen of Saanich (right) was taken at Victoria Machinery Depot Ltd. Friday when crane operator Alec Bone hoisted pre-fabricated funnel aboard. Already painted and with twin "hooters" installed, the funnel was in sharp contrast to unpainted hulls of Queen of Saanich and her sister, Queen of Esquimalt. Construction of both ferries is well ahead of schedule; Queen of Saanich will be launched later this month.

MONTE ROBERTS

Some of my best friends are printers.

And they are continually doing things to prove their friendship.

The latest example of the printers' friendly concern for my welfare occurred last Monday, when I wrote a brief explanation of how I failed to go to San Francisco.

During the course of this treatise, I apologized for appearing to talk through my hat, and said this was because I did not wish to betray millinery secrets.

Fortunately, one of my printer friends (I do not know which one, but I wish I did) rushed to my rescue.

"Poor old Monte," he no doubt said, "as usual, he can't even spell."

And he carefully corrected "millinery secrets" to "military secrets."

Thus preserving the readers from another one of my typographical terrors.

(Let's see how THAT turns out in print.)

On to more important matters.

I have it on the best of authority, namely, the Cats' Protection League, that this is National Cat Week.

It appears one of the objectives of National Cat Week is to campaign against the neglect of cats. Also, the CPL is anxious to help anyone who has a cat problem.

I have to confess I have been neglecting a cat, Little Miss Muffet by name, and also that I have a cat problem.

The way I have been neglecting Muffet is this: All self-respecting columnists use resident cats, dogs, budgies or tame white rats as material for a dissertation at least once a week.

And I have neglected to even mention Miss Muffet in this space for months.

In my defence, all I can say is this: I have neglected Miss Muffet because I have a cat problem.

My problem is, there is evidence she is afraid of birds.

You can see why I have neglected to report on a cat who is afraid of birds.

In the first place, I felt it would be degrading to the cat. In the second place, I doubted that anyone would believe me.

But, not wishing to be accused of neglecting a cat during National Cat Week, I am duty bound to report that Miss Muffet does not chase birds, nor is she afraid of dogs. On the contrary, she is ready to send any invading canine home at the double, but when the birds appear at our feeding station—the cat wants in, but quick.

Only when she is separated from the birds by a securely-locked window will she even look at them.

So there's my confession, Cats' Protection League. I have been neglecting my cat, and I have a cat problem.

Could you recommend a good catiatrist?

SYNNOVE PETTERSEN
. . . "had a ball"

Synnove Just Misses

Synnove Pettersen, the "Miss Victoria" of 1962, placed second in a contest for the Queen of Montreal Fashion.

Although she missed the first spot, the blonde 18-year-old "had a ball," she said on her arrival back in Victoria.

And as a consolation prize she was given a striking party dress of midnight blue matte satin. A 19-year-old girl from Lachute, Que., won the contest.

The Montreal contest was for models. Miss Pettersen was sponsored by the Hudson Bay Company of Victoria and was the only B.C. girl entered.

She will enter the Miss Canada contest later this year.

Sunshine to Return As Fog Curtain Lifts

Fog that closed Victoria International Airport to incoming and outgoing flights from 4:30 p.m. Wednesday until shortly before noon today will lay a clammy but not very heavy hand on Saanich Peninsula tonight.

According to meteorologist William Mackie, improved visibility and increasing sunshine is in store for Victoria over the weekend. At the same time, south Vancouver Island can say farewell to what the weatherman described as its "fools' paradise" of unseasonably high temperatures.

Mercury is expected to drop to the upper 30s overnight, and daytime temperatures aren't likely to climb past 58 degrees.

While the Island west coast shared bright sunshine with the upper Fraser Valley, other areas groped through a fogbelt which extended south along the Pacific coast.

Today the mainland experienced a rash of minor car and train accidents, with airline schedules set back or knocked out completely. At presstime, officials were still undecided as to whether the Saturday night Western Football Conference game between Saskatchewan Roughriders and B.C. Lions would be postponed.

At Patricia Bay, fog which had socked in the runways began to thin about 8:30 a.m. Shortly before noon, with ceiling unlimited and visibility expanded to three-quarters of a mile, the first flight in 17 hours took off for Seattle.

NO ACCIDENTS

Ferry systems reported no trouble or delay due to fog, and on land, Victoria drivers turned in an accident-free score.

Vancouver's fog blanket was the thickest in five days, but one airline official said there would probably be enough clearing this afternoon to allow use of runways and to make up two and three-hour delays in both incoming and outgoing flights.

The limited visibility was blamed for the collision of two long freight trains at Port Coquitlam east of Vancouver. The accident occurred on the CPR main line when one train rammed another that normally would have been on a siding. The siding was under repair.

As usual, the fog was most obstinate over Vancouver harbor, where earlier in the week a P and O-Orient liner suffered a minor collision and a freighter rammed a grain dock.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A Hillside grocery store was broken into overnight Wednesday and 15 cartons of cigarettes, butter, bologna and jars of hair dressing stolen.

The burglars entered through a bathroom window of the Handy Grocery, 794 Hillside, and then removed two locked doors leading to the store interior by removing pins from the hinges.

Total value of the goods stolen was less than $60.

Doctor Loses Over $400, Diamonds In Parking Lot

A Vancouver doctor lost some diamonds and over $400 in cash on the parking lot of St. Joseph's Hospital.

Dr. W. K. Sproule, 926 West Georgia, Vancouver, took his wallet out of his pocket to give some information to a hospital employee.

Later, he discovered the wallet missing.

It contained four $100 bills, a $1 bill, a diamond tie-pin and a loose diamond.

Prison Terms For Two Men In Safe Theft

Defence Called 'Beyond Belief'

Two men were given two-and-a-half year prison sentences in city police court today for theft of a safe from a downtown car washing business Oct. 21.

Ronald A. Curran, no fixed address, and Theodore E. Stephens, 255 Quebec, were found guilty Thursday of the theft from the Five-Minit Car Wash, 855 Pandora.

Another man, Kenneth Jay, 563 Burnside, arrested with them, was due to be sentenced today, but was remanded until Tuesday because the probation officer hadn't interviewed him.

Const. Kent Anthony testified he arrived, on his motorcycle, at the rear of the parking lot on which the car-wash is situated, approaching from Johnson Street, and saw the trio with a car backed up to the door.

BENT OVER SAFE

Jay was bending over a safe which was in the trunk of the car, and the other two men were standing in the doorway. Const. Anthony said he recognized Stephens when he shined his flashlight on the men

He shouted: "Hold it right there."

Jay remained where he was, but the other two ran around the building.

"I heard another motorcycle pull up. Knowing this was Const. (Joseph) Ferguson, I yelled 'Grab those two, Joe.' "

Const. Ferguson said he saw Stephens and Curran run toward him and jump over a low fence which bordered the parking lot. Curran fell and Stephens hesitated, then the two ran in opposite directions.

'BETTER STOP'

The constable said he made a motion for his revolver and shouted at the running men: "You better stop; I mean it."

He testified the two men surrendered.

Curran and Stephens denied they had any part in the theft. They intimated Jay had lifted the 250-pound safe into the trunk on his own.

PASSING THROUGH

Stephens told police he was out for a walk he took regularly to "knock the habit cold," and was just passing through the lot when police arrived.

Curran said Jay had phoned him at a cafe and told him to come down to the lot to "help" him. He denied knowing what sort of help was wanted.

Magistrate William Ostler, in pronouncing the two men guilty, said the defence was "just simply beyond belief."

JACK SCRIVENER

City Native Appointed Scout Head

Jack V. Scrivener of Vancouver has been appointed executive commissioner of the Greater Victoria region, Boy Scouts of Canada.

He succeeds James Blain who left here Friday to become regional executive commissioner of the newly-formed Fraser Valley region extending from New Westminster to Boston Bar, with a scouting population of about 7,500.

AT OAK BAY

Born in Victoria, Mr. Scrivener was scoutmaster of St. Mary's Oak Bay Troop here from 1946 to 1948. Since then he has been a member of the executive staff of the Boy Scouts provincial council. For 12 years he served as field commissioner for the Okanagan-Kootenay area, with headquarters in Penticton.

SINCE 1934

Since January he has been assistant provincial executive commissioner, with headquarters in Vancouver. He has been associated with scouting since 1934 and is a former King's Scout, Rover Scout and holder of the Bushman's Thong.

Mr. Scrivener served overseas with the RCAF and was shot down over Germany while attached to the RAF Pathfinder force. He was a prisoner of war at Stalag Luft 1 for 13 months.

He is married and has two sons and a daughter.

Committee Completes Full Study

A ratepayer vote on the proposed civic square precinct project was assured today.

Formal decision to propose a money bylaw at next month's civic election was taken by the special City Hall committee after two days of intensive technical study.

"We will ask city council to put a bylaw to the people which will be a little more than the first preliminary estimate but will still be under $1,000,000," a source disclosed.

The original guesstimate for the project was $750,000.

COMPLETE PLAN

The committee's study resulted in a fully-rounded proposal covering schedules for construction and financing of the project.

But it all hinges on a favorable vote by ratepayers.

"We certainly hope the people will support this program," said Acting-Mayor Arthur Dowell.

"It will revitalize our downtown area and give us a civic precinct we can be proud of.

"I also feel that although we have to borrow to start it, a great portion of the work can be repaid from anticipated civic revenues over the next few years."

(Recommendation to sell some city-owned Store Street property Thursday for $66,000, coudl help finance some aspect of the project.)

Delayed Action Fire Destroys Basement

A fire which broke out in the basement of a vacant house on Tillicum Road early today could have been a delayed reaction from a Halloween firecracker.

Saanich fire department rushed to the vacant house at 3055 Tillicum about 1 a.m., to find the basement burning "like a furnace."

Flames were licking out from under the frame house on all sides.

TWO-HOUR FIGHT

Firemen battled the blaze for two hours in cramped quarters and in heavy smoke which issued from two piles of sawdust in the basement.

A passer-by noticed the flames licking up the sides of the house, and notified Mrs. Roland Thom, who lives across the road at 3040 Tillicum.

Mrs. Thom phoned the fire department.

It is believed the fire started in one of the sawdust piles, which might have smouldered after a cigarette or firecracker had landed in it.

The basement of the five-room house was gutted, but no estimate of the total damage has been made.

Runaway Car Causes Crash

A runaway car was the cause of an accident at Thursday noon on Hillside Ave.

Fred Ranson, 3055 Rutland, was driving east on Hillside when a car belonging to Mrs. Grace Garrison, rolled backwards into his path out of a driveway at 1367 Hillside.

Mr. Ranson braked sharply and was struck in the rear by a car driven by Joe N. Ward, 1612 Myrtle.

The rolling car was not involved in the crash and stopped across the road.

Shop Arcade Project Studied for Empress

A shopping arcade housing five or nine speciality shops may be built on the northwest corner of the Empress Hotel lawns, directly facing Victoria and Island Tourist Bureau on the Causeway during the next 12 months.

Empress manager Cyril Chapman disclosed today that several Victoria firms are interested in building the arcade and renting the shops to retailers.

'TASTEFUL'

It would be a "tastefully-constructed," one-storey building, no more than 15 feet high, and occupying less than a third of an acre of the front lawn space near Humboldt Street.

The arcade would stand between a driveway to the hotel coffee shop and the left-hand corner of the sidewalk fronting the hotel with entrances on both sides.

"What we have in mind are small specialty shops selling antiques, souvenirs and novelties that will tone in with the general atmosphere of the hotel.

KEEP TREES

"Only the front left-hand corner of the hotel lawns will be built on. Some of the bushes would have to go, but we would keep the trees bordering the sidewalk."

Mr. Chapman said whether the arcade is built to house five or nine shops would depend on the applications for rental. If only five shops are needed the lawn space required would be nearer a quarter than a third of an acre.

He added that, before the arcade is built, the plans will have to be approved by N. R. Crump, president of Canadian Pacific Railways, and then by the city council.

"But I am hopeful the project will go ahead."

NO HIGH-RISE

Mr. Chapman denied a current rumor that a high-rise apartment is to be built on the hotel gardens facing Belleville and the civil service car park.

"The CPR has no intention of putting up any such building," he said.

He added that the hotel is anxious to double or triple its car parking capacity at the rear of the hotel and, if this is done, a gas station—not a repair garage—might be installed.

"Extra car space could be provided by building up or down—or both. That is by having an underground car park and/or upstairs parking space.

"If possible we would like to have the whole extension underground."

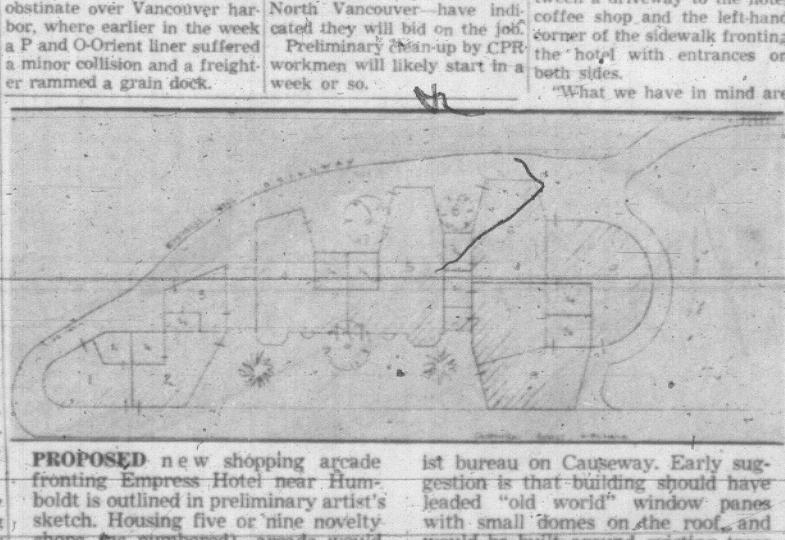
All Major Yards To Submit Bids

Specifications for the conversion of CPSS Princess Patricia from a day steamer to a luxury cruise ship are expected to be ready next week, at which times tenders will be called from B.C. shipyards.

The Patricia, built for the triangle service and lately used on the Nanaimo - Vancouver and Victoria-Seattle runs, will serve in the popular Alaska summer trade, replacing Princess Louise.

All three major B.C. yards —Yarrows Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot in Victoria and Burrard Dry Dock Ltd., North Vancouver—have indicated they will bid on the job.

Preliminary clean-up by CPR workmen will likely start in a week or so.



PROPOSED new shopping arcade fronting Empress Hotel near Humboldt is outlined in preliminary artist's sketch. Housing five or nine novelty shops (as numbered), arcade would stand about 15 feet high facing tourist bureau on Causeway. Early suggestion is that building should have leaded "old world" window panes with small domes on the roof, and would be built around existing trees in hotel garden area.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you tell me the author of these lines?

"Ben Battle was a soldier brave
And used to war's alarms,
Til a cannon ball took off his legs,
So he laid down his arms."

—E. W. P.

A. Thomas Hood.

Q. Could you tell me when and where Mr. Gunderson held a seat in the provincial House under Social Credit? J.T.C.

A. Einar M. Gunderson sat in the B.C. legislature for one session only—in 1953 as member for Similkameen. He was appointed finance minister in Premier Bennett's first cabinet on Aug. 1, 1952, although he was not an MLA. Socred H. D. Francis resigned his Similkameen seat and Mr. Gunderson won it in a byelection Nov. 12. In the 1953 general election he was defeated in Oak Bay by the late Liberal P. A. Gibbs. Another Socred, Percy Wright, resigned his Victoria seat, but Mr. Gunderson was again defeated there Nov. 24, 1953, by Liberal George Gregory. Premier Bennett then took over as finance minister.

WHL Player Fined $200, Suspended

SEATTLE (AP) — Larry McNabb of San Francisco Seals was fined $200 today and penalties were imposed on seven other players and Spokane Comets Coach Roy McBride for their part in Wednesday night's hockey brawl in Spokane.

President Al Leader of the Western Hockey League, in announcing the disciplinary action, said McNabb also was suspended for two games and must post a $500 bond to guarantee future good behavior.

Grid Game Still Set Saturday Night

VANCOUVER (CP) — The threat of dense Saturday night fog still hung over Empire Stadium today.

But British Columbia Lions were unable to announce postponement to Sunday afternoon of the Western Football Conference game with Saskatchewan Roughriders scheduled Saturday night.

To make the postponement at this time, Lions must obtain agreement from Riders.

Jury Rules Ballentine Insane

VANCOUVER (CP)—Millionaire Patrick Blake Ballentine, 34, today was found not guilty of attempted murder by reason of insanity by a jury.

Ballentine was charged in connection with a paper-knife attack on Dr. Howard Weaver at Ballentine's swank home in the University district last Dec. 6.

Mr. Justice T. A. Wootton ordered that Ballentine be held in strict custody and placed in the provincial mental hospital to await the pleasure of the lieutenant-governor.

Aerial Photos Give Evidence

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States reported clear indications today that Soviet missile bases in Cuba are being dismantled.

A defence department spokesman told reporters that air pictures show that missile launcher erectors have been removed from the sites.

Much of the associated launch equipment has been removed, the spokesman said, and cable conduits between control points and launching pads have been broken up.

The concrete pads for the launch erectors appear to have been broken up with an air hammer.

SITES BULLDOZED

Certain areas of the sites have been plowed and bulldozed, the spokesman said.

Aerial reconnaissance over the island was resumed Thursday after a two-day recess for the visit of U Thant, acting secretary-general of the United Nations, in efforts to arrange for UN inspection of the dismantling promised by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Fidel Castro Thursday night rejected foreign supervision of the dismantling of the bases and again called for the United States to give up its naval base at Guantanamo.

The Cuban prime minister said "strategic arms," presumably the missiles, are being removed by the Russians from Cuba, "but the rest of the weapons stay in our country."

Castro addressed a radio-television audience.

He acknowledged that "we have some motive for discontent" with Russia. But he reminded his people of all the Russians had done for them and asserted, "we are friends of the Soviet Union."

Castro said UN inspection of Cuban soil would be "one more attempt to humiliate our country" and would violate Cuban sovereignty.

Sources at UN headquarters in New York felt Castro either would soften his stand or would announce the Soviet Union had completed dismantling its bases and UN inspection therefore no longer was necessary.

U Thant, acting UN secretary-general, said after his conferences Tuesday and Wednesday with Castro that he had been informed the dismantling would be completed by today.

STOP U-2 FLIGHTS

Authoritative U.S. sources disclosed Thursday night that high altitude U-2 flights over Cuba have been halted after the loss of a U-2 and the watch is being kept through low-level photographic missions.

These government sources stressed there has been no scaling down in the degree of aerial surveillance.

Low-flying reconnaissance planes—coming in swiftly below radar—are considered less vulnerable than the U-2s, which go into a slow glide when they are taking pictures.

Officials are virtually cer-

SOVIET BID

Space Shot To Mars On Target

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Russian rocket today was hurtling through space on a 35,000,000-mile mission to Mars aimed at giving man his first close-up look at the mysterious "red planet."

Moscow radio said all systems aboard the Mars probe, which was launched Thursday from a satellite "parked" in orbit around the earth, were functioning according to plan.

Soviet scientists said the rocket now is more than 150,000 miles on its long journey through space, which will take seven months.

N. M. Sissakian, a member of the presidium of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said in Paris Thursday night that the Mars probe may return to land on earth if it does not burn up first.

Moscow radio said that "at 6:33 a.m. (Moscow time) communications were opened with interplanetary station Mars I. Data was received from the station about the normal functioning of all its systems, and the element of its trajectory was measured.

"Telemetry data shows that the scientific equipment of the station is functioning in accordance with the set program."

The radio said the rocket's radio transmitters were working and "the orders sent to the station were well received and obeyed."

The rocket is equipped with solar batteries which pick up power from the sun and recharge its conventional batteries.

There will be no further report on the rocket until Sunday night, the radio said.

If everything goes according to plan, the rocket will relay back to earth the first close-up pictures of Mars, earth's nearest planetary neighbor.

Sissakian, in Paris for an in-

Apologizes To Speaker

OTTAWA (CP) — Social Crediter Bernard Dumont apologized in the Commons today to Speaker Marcel Lambert for his criticisms of the Speaker in a letter published in Montreal Le Devoir.

It appeared likely that Mr. Dumont's public apology today would soften any action taken by the committee on privileges, which has wide powers of recommending disciplinary action. (See story page 2.)

FIRST OUTING IN MONTHS

Battery of cameras greeted Sir Winston Churchill on arrival Thursday night at Savoy Hotel in London to attend annual dinner of exclusive "Other Club" which he founded 51 years ago. Sir Winston wined and dined with old cronies until near midnight. It was his first public outing since last June 28 when he broke his hip. (AP Wirephoto).

Arms Airlift by Allies Aids Indian Firepower

(Times News Services)

NEW DELHI — A U.S. arms airlift got under way from West Germany today to give India's hard-pressed Himalayan army better weapons to use against Communist China.

The first of 10 U.S. Air Force C-135 jet transports took off from Rhein-Main air base rear Frankfurt and was due in Calcutta Saturday.

A round-the-clock airlift was being planned, and relief crews were flown to Calcutta to bring the big planes back to Germany for reloading.

The airlift is bringing light infantry weapons needed to counter the Communists' superior firepower.

Small arms from Britain also are due to arrive shortly.

U.S. ambassador John K. Galbraith announced that the Turkish government has offered India mountain howitzers and American aircraft were in Turkey to pick them up.

Galbraith warned the Indians against expecting American arms alone to "work magic" against the Chinese in the fighting along the long China-Himalayan border.

"The great task remains with the Indian army," he declared. "We are happy to help with equipment to stop aggression but equipment is only part of the problem."

Galbraith, who was born near St. Thomas, Ont., told a press conference American instructors would not be coming to demonstrate the weapons which he described as "standard stuff."

Asked if American soldiers would go to the frontier to supervise delivery of the weapons, he said: "I would not think so immediately."

TROOPS DIG IN

Despite the outside aid, the Indians appear to be digging in for a long period of conflict.

Informed sources said strict government control of gasoline stocks will be introduced soon although there is no question of rationing so far.

Extra food stocks are being established to avoid any danger of hoarding and soaring prices that might lead to rationing.

Prime Minister Nehru said Thursday night that India will not compromise its honor in the search for a solution to the border crisis.

Meanwhile, an Indian Embassy spokesman in Moscow said Soviet deliveries of arms to India are continuing at a normal rate.

A high Soviet military source said Monday Moscow supports Red China's territorial claims and declared the Soviet Union would send no arms to the Indians.

'China Hopes Russia Will Lose'

MUNICH (AP)—Mao Tse-tung hopes the Russian people will one day rise against Premier Khrushchev, says a former Communist Chinese official who defected to the West.

Chao Fu, 27, former security officer of the Red Chinese legation in Stockholm who defected last August, said Mao hopes the Russian people will recognize Khrushchev's anti-Stalinism as anti-Communist.

The Chinese leader said recently "whoever is against Stalin is against Mao," Fu reported.

Mao also hopes that the Russians will suffer a defeat in a conflict with capitalist nations, thus leaving the way free for China to take over as leader of world communism, Fu said.

Inspection Plan Not Settled, JFK Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said today the United States has evidence that the Soviet missile bases are being dismantled in Cuba, missiles are being crated and sites destroyed.

Kennedy was giving Americans a personal report on the current status of the Cuban crisis. It was carried on radio and television networks.

Kennedy announced that American surveillance of Cuba and the naval blockade against imports of offensive weapons will continue for the time being. He said the United States intends to maintain a close watch through a variety of means until an effective international inspection system is arrived at.

The president said he hoped this would be accomplished promptly.

BACKS RED CROSS

Kennedy said the idea of having the International Red Cross inspect shipments from Russia to Cuba appeared to be a good one.

He said the continuation of surveillance measures until threats against peace are gone is in keeping with the U.S. pledge to keep aggression out of this hemisphere.

Progress now is being made toward the restoration of peace in the Caribbean," he said, and it "is our firm hope and purpose" that this progress will continue.

"We will continue to keep the American people informed on this vital matter," he said.

The president spoke for just one minute and 50 seconds.

MIKOYAN:

Russia Backs Castro

NEW YORK (AP) — Anastas I. Mikoyan, Soviet first deputy premier, said today that Russia is backing proposals of Cuban Premier Castro in the attempt to settle the crisis over missile installations in Cuba.

In a statement, Mikoyan referred to "the proposals of Premier Fidel Castro which comprise five well-known points."

Mikoyan did not cite the points. However, Castro has demanded that the United States withdraw its naval blockade of Cuba, give up the naval base at Guantanamo and halt Cuban exile attacks against Cuba.

Castro also called for a halt to economic measures the United States has taken against Cuba and air-sea intrusions into Cuban territory.

ON WAY TO CUBA

Mikoyan issued his statement before boarding a plane to Cuba for talks with Castro.

Mikoyan also said:

"The revolutionary government of Cuba is enjoying complete confidence of their people. It threatens no one. It leads the people toward progress and happiness, building socialism, the social system which was chosen by the people of Cuba and which they consider the best for themselves."

Mikoyan criticized the American press' treatment of his visit, saying:

"I have heard that American press and radio and in particular the today's newspapers venture absolutely groundless guesses and fantasies about the purpose of my visit to Cuba."

The B.C. legislature sits again Jan. 24.

The date was proclaimed through a cabinet order today.

The session will start at 3 p.m. on a Thursday with the traditional Speech from the Throne read by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes.

This will be the fourth sitting of the 26th Legislative Assembly elected Sept. 12, 1960.

Premier Bennett's budget will probably be delivered Feb. 7, two weeks after opening day.

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—After an absence of 18 years, Tommy Douglas came back to parliament today. The New Democratic Party leader was greeted by his opponents with a warmth usually reserved for returning heroes.

In an astonishing display of goodwill, political animosities in the Commons were suspended for 15 minutes as other party leaders took the time to express their admiration for a worthy foe.

Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson summed up the mood when he said in his words of welcome: "It is a non-controversial matter."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker noted that Douglas had been an MP for five years when he, the prime minister, first was elected to parliament in 1940.

"Since that time he has occupied the office of premier of Saskatchewan," Diefenbaker continued with a smile, "and indeed his length of service in that capacity gave some of us some idea of the meaning of eternity."

In the days ahead, the prime minister said, in more serious tone, "we shall look forward to the contribution he will make."

Pearson said he was sure Douglas would make the House a "more lively and more stimulating" place.

Social Credit leader Robert Thompson, while expressing his confidence that Douglas would have a "very definite and positive contribution to make" to parliament, did manage to get in some good-natured digs at NDP socialism.

Douglas, he said with a chuckle, would find his party's policies "a long way afield from the Regina manifesto." He also said, again smiling, that if the Douglas government had done a better job in Saskatchewan there might be fewer Conservatives in parliament.

POLITICAL DISPUTE IN U.S.

When Were Cuba Bases Started?

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Controversy swirls today around the question: Was President Kennedy slow to recognize that the Russians were molding Cuba into a powerful nuclear gun, aimed at the United States?

Republicans say he was.

"Those missile bases were there a long, long time before the president spoke," says Senator Hugh Scott, Pennsylvania Republican, referring to Kennedy's statement of Oct. 22, when he proclaimed the "quarantine" on arms to Cuba.

In mid-September, Scott said the Republicans had "very hard information" about Soviet missile sites in Cuba. The same facts were available to the administration, he says.

Before that, on Sept. 8, Senator Kenneth B. Keating, New York Republican, said he thought a blockade of Cuba to screen ships for incoming war material might be necessary.

This is what Kennedy administration authorities say in reply:

"In late August, we began receiving reports from Cuban refugees and other sources of missile sites being built in Cuba. We think this is the same information Keating was getting.

"Every one of those reports was carefully checked.

"And in every case, they turned out to be reports of 'samsites or cruise sites.'"

"Samsite" is military shorthand for "surface-to-air missile site." In other words, a form of anti-aircraft. "Cruise site" is a type of coastal defence. Neither has the range to reach the U.S. Technically, they could be considered in the category of defence weapons.

It was not until the week of Oct. 15, when reconnaissance spotted definite evidence of a rapid buildup that, figuratively, the alarm-bell rang, administration officers say.

Officials stress the speed of the Russian construction work—sometimes almost with grudging admiration.

A man who participated in all the decision-making conferences says "only four or five days" elapsed between evidence of the first bulldozer scars and the rise of installations that serve a missile site.

Thursday, Oct. 18, is a criti-

Governorships Hold Interest In U.S. Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Americans vote Tuesday in an election that will largely determine the extent of President Kennedy's influence over Congress for the next two years.

The balloting also will provide Republicans with a gauge for measuring their chances of capturing the White House in 1964.

The voters will elect 35 governors, 39 U.S. senators, all 435 House members and thousands of state and local officials.

Coming midway in Kennedy's four-year term, the voting will provide the first nationwide testing of political sentiment since one of the closest presidential elections in history.

The complexion of the new congress will determine whether Kennedy can expect more, or less, co-operation on legislation than he received during his first two years as president. Even a relatively small GOP gain in House seats could result in a significant increase in the power of conservatives in Congress.

GIVE CLUES

Balloting in the gubernatorial races will provide fresh clues to the identity of the Republican presidential nominee in 1964. Together, the congressional and gubernatorial elections will tell the GOP much about its strength for the 1964 campaign.

Although Republicans have little hope of winning control of either House or Senate, their chances appear good for spectacular gains in governorships in pivotal northern states which are the bases of power in presidential election years.

Among northern states which will have the biggest presidential electoral vote in 1964, the Republicans now hold only one of six governorships — New York.

Five of these six governorships, including New York, are at stake in Tuesday's balloting and the GOP has high hopes of winning them all. The other four are California, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan.

Estimates based on past elections indicate that about 50 million persons will vote, compared with about 48 million in 1958, the last national election when the presidency was not at stake. A 50 million turnout would be a record for a mid-term election. A record 68,883,341 votes were cast in the 1960 presidential election.

GOP LEADERS

The political future of prominent Republicans is at stake in four gubernatorial races. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York needs an impressive re-election to stay among potential contenders for the 1964 presidential nomination.

Richard M. Nixon, 1960 presidential nominee, is running for governor of California. The GOP nominee in Michigan is George Romney, who made the country aware of the compact car. Rep. William W. Scranton is the candidate for governor of Pennsylvania.

By winning, each of the four could claim a place among GOP kingmakers or become a prospective candidate for the White House in 1964 or 1968. Losers would be consigned to political oblivion.

CONGRESS

Although chances appear slim for Republicans to gain the 44 seats they need for control of the House, a GOP gain of as few as 10 could give conservative Republicans and southern Democrats a headlock on Kennedy's legislative program.

Although the Democrats have held a 263-174 edge in the House during the past two years, administration forces have on repeated occasions triumphed, or been beaten, by razor-thin margins.

U.S. to Clear Canadian Shipping

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian co-operation in a new United States plan of advanced inspection and clearance of Cuba-bound ships was announced today by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

He told the Commons that Canada has agreed that the plan can be made available in Canadian ports.

There is no question of compulsory inspection of ships in Canadian waters, he added.

The advance inspection and clearance by U.S. consular officials, at the request of ship agents or officers, would be a convenience to avoid possible delay from search by U.S. warships enforcing the "quarantine" of missile shipments to Cuba.

The advance and inspection would be made at the ship's last port of call before sailing to Cuba.

Injunction Ousts Mystery Pickets

VANCOUVER (CP)—It took less than an hour Thursday to get rid of Vancouver's newest mystery pickets.

Lawyer Samuel Huberman filed official documents, appeared before a Supreme Court judge, and walked out of the courthouse with an injunction in his hand Thursday afternoon.

The four-day injunction halted the activities of two unidentified pickets who showed up Thursday morning at the construction site of a $115,000 apartment block.

The order was granted contractor Coleman Rubin.

In an affidavit, Rubin said he was approached several days ago by unidentified men who told him his workers would have to join unions or that he'd have to hire union men.

The two mystery pickets who showed up outside his project Thursday carried placards proclaiming that non-union men were working on the job.

Rubin said their claims were unfounded.

Search Suspended

WINNIPEG (CP) — The search for a civilian aircraft that disappeared in the Northwest Territories Sept. 29 with four men aboard was second in size only to the long hunt for the plane that carried hockey star Bill Barilko to his death in northern Ontario.

The air force said today that the search suspended Thursday in the Nahanni Valley area of the territories covered an area almost 2,400 square miles larger than the area of the province of Saskatchewan.

Cancel Air Service

OTTAWA (CP) — The air transport board today authorized Pacific Western Airlines limited to cancel its prairie air service, Dec. 1.

The service now is operated between Regina, Saskatoon, Prince Albert and North Battleford, Sask., and Edmonton.
